PREFACE.

I HAVE attempted to make a Greek Grammar in which the facts and principles of the language shall be stated in as concise a form as is consistent with clearness and precision. The plan has been to exclude all detail which belongs to a book of reference, and to admit whatever will aid a pupil in mastering the great principles of Greek Grammar. The statement of the forms in Part Second has been condensed proportionally more than the Syntax. This has been done from a conviction that the chief principles of Syntax are a more profitable study for a pupil in the earlier years of his classical course than the details of vowel-changes and exceptional forms which are often thought to be more seasonable. The study of Greek Syntax, when it is viewed as an aid to reading and not as an ultimate end, gives the pupil an insight into the processes of thought of a highly cultivated people; and while it stimulates his own powers of thought, it teaches him habits of more careful expression, by making him familiar with many forms of statement more precise than those to which he has been accustomed. The Greek Syntax, as it was developed and refined by the Athenians, is an important chapter in the history of thought, and even those whose classical studies are confined to the rudiments cannot afford to omit this entirely. Nothing, in my opinion, does greater injustice to the pupil, and nothing does more to bring classical scholarship into discredit, than a system of teaching which employs only the memory and discourages all exercise of thought.

Teachers must decide how far the experiment of separating the principles of Grammar from the equally necessary Grammar of reference is a successful one. It certainly will not be successful, unless it is understood that all who continue their classical studies beyond the school, and especially all classical teachers, must use larger works than the present for reference. I need not mention the many grammatical works, both in English and in German, which are accessible to scholars. The modern science of Comparative Philology has given new value and dignity to the departments of Etymology and Inflection, which now stand for the first time on a sure historic basis; but their details are proper study for advanced students, not for beginners.

In preparing this work, I have availed myself freely of the labors of my predecessors. Most of the work of collecting facts has been done so often and so well, that originality is now impossible except in combining and condensing. I am especially indebted to the grammars of Hadley and Sophocles, and to the German works of Krüger and Madvig. The best examples to illustrate the Syntax have generally been used by others, and I have not hesitated to use them again. In this, as in other matters of detail, it is impossible to give credit in an elementary work. The division of verbs into nine classes (in § 108) is that of G. Curtius, as improved by Hadley and published in his Greek Grammar in 1860. Here, and in many other cases, I am greatly indebted to the kindness of Professor Hadley for permission to use his valuable material. The sections on the Syntax of the Verb are generally condensed from my larger work, "Syntax of the Moods and Tenses of the Greek Verb," to which I must refer more advanced students, and especially teachers, for a fuller exposition of many matters which are here merely hinted at. I have not hesitated to introduce here (for the first time in an elementary book) a brief statement of the new classification of conditional sentences, with its application to relative sentences, which is contained in my larger work. I cannot help hoping that the new statement of this and similar subjects may do something to remove the traditional obscurity which surrounds this department of Syntax. More space is given to examples here than elsewhere, from the nature of the subject.

The Catalogue of Irregular Verbs professes to give only the strictly classic forms. In deciding on the admission of each form, I have relied chiefly on Veitch's "Greek Verbs Irregular and Defective," which gives the authorities for the use of each tense. This work of 616 pages, published in the Oxford "Clarendon Press Series," is a lexicon in itself, and of the greatest value to the classical scholar.

Teachers who use this Grammar are advised to make their pupils first familiar with the largest type, including the paradigms; then to unite the first and second types; and finally, the first, second, and third. A very few notes in still smaller type (see pp. 2, 26, 81, 85) are intended rather as suggestions to the teacher than as lessons for the pupil. I am strongly of the opinion that a pupil should begin to translate easy sentences as soon as he has finished the paradigm of the verb in Ω , the few principles of syntax which he will need being explained by the teacher. While I have no faith in classical learning which is not based on a systematic study of grammar, I think that translation, both from Greek into English and from English into Greek, can hardly begin too soon. I fear that the opposite course may often do more to stifle enthusiasm than to encourage systematic study.

In introducing matters which are connected with Comparative Philology, especially in the prominence given to roots and stems in Part Second, I have been guided by the opinion of many scholars who are authorities in these matters. I am happy to be confirmed in my own opinion that it is inexpedient to designate Greek nouns and verbs by their stems (as is done in Sanskrit) rather than in the usual way. Comparative Philology is a progressive science, and its views are apt to change; for example, I cannot think it advisable to teach boys to call the noun usually called $\epsilon\lambda\pi\acute{\iota}\varsigma$ by the strange name $\epsilon\lambda\pi\iota\delta-$, as long as the leading scholars of Europe are not even agreed whether the stem is really $\epsilon\lambda\pi\iota\delta-$ or $\epsilon\lambda\pi\iota-$.

I have not thought that the subject of Pronunciation, in its only practical form, belongs properly to Grammar. The important question of the ancient sounds of the letters requires too much learned discussion for beginners, and the subject is too extensive to be treated in a work like this. I refer all who are interested in it to the works of Professor Sophocles, especially his "History of the Greek Alphabet." His learning enables him to speak with the highest authority on the subject. A very different question, it seems to me, is the practical one, How are boys to be taught to pronounce Greek in our schools? Even if we had a complete ancient account of Greek pronunciation, — which we are very far from having, — it would be a much harder task to teach boys of the present day to follow it than it would be to teach them to pronounce German or French by rules without the help of the voice. The two most important considerations in regard to practical Greek pronunciation are simplicity and uniformity. It is more than a quarter of a century since any system could claim notice in this country on the ground of uniformity. Even that monstrosity, the so-called "English system," which saddled the Greek at once with English vowel-sounds and Latin accents, is now unintelligible to the majority of our scholars; and it is not likely that a system which requires the use of a foreign system of accentuation will ever be generally adopted. The American Philological Association, in meetings at which scholars from every part of the country were present, has twice recommended almost (or quite) unanimously that American scholars should unite on a system of pronouncing Greek with the written accents and the "continental" sound of the vowels. This recommendation seems more likely to result in some approach to uniformity than any other that has been made. The term "continental" seems to be used here to denote the sounds of a, e, and i which prevail on the Continent of Europe, as opposed to the English sounds of these letters. To those who wish for a more special recommendation, I would suggest the following system, which I follow chiefly from its simplicity and because it is adopted by many leading scholars in different parts of this country:—

a as a in father, η as e in fête, ε as e in men, ι as i in machine, ω as o in note, υ as French u; short vowels merely shorter than the long vowels;—αι as ai in aisle, ει as ei in height, οι as oi in oil, υι as ui in quit or wi in with, αυ as ou in house, ευ as eu in feud, ου as oo in moon; α, η, ω, like a, η, ω;—the consonants as in English, except that γ before κ, γ, ξ, χ has the sound of n, but elsewhere is hard; that θ is always like th in thin; and that χ is always hard, like German ch.

In conclusion I must express my obligations to the proprietors of the University Press, who have placed five fonts of Porson type at my disposal in printing this work.

PREFACE

TO THE REVISED EDITION.

SINCE the publication of the first edition, many misprints and other accidental errors have been corrected, indexes have been added, and many slight additions to the text and changes in expression have been made. The only change which affects references to the first edition has been made by adding § 138, Note 8, which includes what was contained in § 136, Note 2.

I am much indebted to the kindness of many friends who have informed me of misprints or other errors in the earlier editions. Much of the accuracy which the work has now attained is due to their efficient help, which I trust will be continued in future years. I must express my special obligations to Professor M. W. Humphreys, of Lexington, Virginia, by whose suggestions I have been greatly aided in revising the work.

Many scholars who most warmly welcome a "small Greek Grammar" seem to forget that smallness can be attained only by condensation and omission. One principle which I have followed in omissions needs, perhaps, to be explained. I have generally omitted all matter that belongs to lexicography rather than to grammar; for example, the meanings of the prepositions, of merely connective conjunctions, and of other particles which are not closely related to the construction, are given in Liddell and Scott's Lexicon in such detail, that it is useless to repeat the statements in a grammar like this; and it is assumed that every teacher will direct his pupils to the proper sources of information. On the other hand, the uses of relative and temporal particles, of the negatives, and of words like ἐν, ἄν, ὅτι, ὥς, ὥπως, ἵνα, &c., are explained in the Syntax with the constructions to which they belong.

IN revising the work in 1873, I was greatly indebted to the courtesy of Mr. S. R. Winchell, of Ann Arbor, for corrections and excellent suggestions. In the edition of 1873 the statement of the Classification of Conditional Sentences was modified to conform to that which has been adopted in the fifth edition of "Greek Moods and Tenses," published in 1874. For an explanation of this system of classification and a defence of the principles on which it is based, I must refer to an article published in the "Transactions of the American Philological Association" for 1873, and in the "Journal of Philology" (London and Cambridge), Vol. V., No. 10, pp. 186-205.

In the edition of 1876 the only changes to be mentioned are slight additions in § 114, 2, § 127, 3, and § 260, 1, note 1; and in the examples under § 183.

At the same time with this edition will be published a volume entitled "First Lessons in Greek," which has been prepared with great care and skill by my colleague, Professor John W. White, to accompany the present work. As both books have been made on the same general principles, and especially with the same view of the comparative importance of different parts of grammar to beginners, it is hoped that the new "Lessons" will prove an acceptable aid to both teachers and pupils who may use this Grammar.

INTRODUCTION.

THE GREEK LANGUAGE AND DIALECTS.

THE Greek language is the language spoken by the Greek race. In the historic period, the people of this race called themselves by the name Hellenes, and their language Hellenic. We call them Greeks, from the Roman name Graeci. They were divided into Aeolians, Dorians, and Ionians. The Aeolians inhabited Aeolis (in Asia), Lesbos, Boeotia, and Thessaly; the Dorians inhabited Peloponnesus, Doris, Crete, some cities of Caria with the neighboring islands, Southern Italy, and a large part of Sicily; the Ionians inhabited Ionia (in Asia), Attica, many islands in the Aegean Sea, and some other places.

In the early times of which the Homeric poems are a record, there was no such division of the whole Greek race into Aeolians, Dorians, and Ionians as that which was recognized in historic times; nor was there any common name of the whole race, like the later name of Hellenes. The Homeric Hellenes are a small tribe in Southeastern Thessaly.

The dialects of the Aeolians and the Dorians are known as the Aeolic and Doric dialects. In the language of the Ionians we must distinguish the Old Ionic, the New Ionic, and the Attic dialects. The Old Ionic or Epic is the language of the Homeric poems, the oldest Greek literature. The New Ionic was the language of Ionia in the fifth century B. C., as it appears in Herodotus and Hippocrates. The Attic was the language of Athens during her period of literary eminence.*

* The name Ionic includes both the Old and the New Ionic, but not the Attic. When the Old and the New Ionic are to be distinguished in the present work, Ep. (for Epic) or Hom. (for Homeric) is used for the former, and Hdt. (Herodotus) for the latter.

The Attic dialect is the most cultivated form of the Greek language. It is therefore made the basis of Greek Grammar, and the other dialects are usually treated, for convenience, as if their forms were merely variations of the Attic. This is a position, however, to which the Attic has no claim on the ground of age or primitive forms, in respect to which it holds a rank below the other dialects.

The literary and political importance of Athens caused her dialect gradually to supplant the others wherever Greek was spoken; but, in this very extension, the Attic dialect itself was not a little modified. This universal Greek language, beginning with the Alexandrian period (283 B. C.), is called the Common Dialect. The name Hellenistic is given to that form of the Common Dialect which was used by the Jews of Alexandria who made the Septuagint version of the Old Testament (283 – 135 B. C.), and to the writers of the New Testament; all of whom were Hellenists (i. e. Jews who spoke Greek). The language which has been spoken by the Greeks during the last seven centuries is called Modern Greek, or Romaic.

The Greek is descended from the same original language with the Indian (i. e. Sanskrit), Persian, German, Slavonic, Celtic, and Italian languages. It is most closely connected with the Italian languages (including Latin), to which it bears a relation similar to the still closer relation between French and Spanish. This relation accounts for the striking analogies between Latin and Greek, which appear in both roots and terminations; and also for the less obvious analogies between Greek and the German element in English, which are seen in a few words like me, is, know, &c.

PART I.

LETTERS, SYLLABLES, AND ACCENTS.

THE ALPHABET.

§ 1. THE Greek Alphabet has twenty-four letters:—

Form.	Equivalent.	Name.
A α	a	*Αλφα Alpha
B β	b	Βῆτα Beta
Γ γ	g	Γάμμα Gamma
Δ δ	d	Δέλτα Delta
E ε	e (short)	*Ε ψιλόν Epsilon
Z ζ	z	Ζῆτα Zeta
H η	e (long)	*Ητα Eta
Θ θ ϑ	th	Θῆτα Theta
I ι	i	*Ιῶτα Iota
K κ	k or hard c	Κάππα Kappa
Λ λ	l	Λάμβδα Lambda
M μ	m	Μῦ Mu
N ν	n	Νῦ Nu
Ξ ξ	x	Ξί Xi
O ο	o (short)	*Ο μικρόν Omicron
Π π	p	Πί Pi
P ρ	r	*Ρῶ Rho
Σ σ ς	s	Σίγμα Sigma
T τ	t	Ταῦ Tau
Υ υ	u	*Υ ψιλόν Upsilon
Φ φ	ph	Φί Phi
X χ	kh	Χί Chi
Ψ ψ	ps	Ψί Psi
Ω ω	o (long)	*Ω μέγα Omega

NOTE 1. At the end of a word the form ς is used, elsewhere the form σ; thus, σύστασις.

NOTE 2. Two obsolete letters — Vau or Digamma (Ϝ or ϝ), equivalent to F or W, and Koppa (Ϙ), equivalent to Q — and also the character Sigma (Ϛ), a form of Sigma, are used as numerals (§ 76). The first of these was not entirely out of use when the Homeric poems were composed, and the metre of many verses in these is explained only by admitting its presence.

VOWELS AND DIPHTHONGS.

§ 2. The vowels are α, ε, η, ι, ο, ω, and υ. Of these, ε and ο are always short; η and ω are always long; α, ι, and υ are sometimes short and sometimes long, whence they are called doubtful vowels.

NOTE. Α, ε, η, ο, and ω are called open vowels; ι and υ are called close vowels.

§ 3. There are seven diphthongs which begin with a short vowel, αι, ει, οι, υι, αυ, ευ, ου; and six which begin with a long vowel, αι, ηι, ωι, αυ, ηυ, ωυ (Ionic).

In α, η, ω, the ι is written below the first vowel, and is called iota subscript. But in capitals it is written in the line; as in ΘΙ ΚΩΜΩΙΔΙΑΙ, τῇ κωμῳδίᾳ, and in ῥιχέτο, ῥιχέτο. This ι was written as a regular letter as long as it was pronounced, that is, until the first century B. C.

BREATHINGS.

§ 4. 1. Every vowel or diphthong at the beginning of a word has either the rough breathing (ʹ) or the smooth breathing (̑). The rough breathing shows that the vowel is preceded by the sound of h; the smooth breathing, that the vowel has its simple sound. Thus ὄρων, seeing, is pronounced hōrōn; but ὄρων, of mountains, is pronounced ōrōn.

NOTE. A diphthong takes the breathing (like the accent) upon its second vowel. But α, η, and ω take it upon the first vowel, even when the ι is written in the line. Thus οἷχεται, εὐφραίνω, Αἴμων; but ῥιχέτο or ῥιχέτο, ᾄδω or ᾄδω, ᾔδειν or ᾔδειν.

2. The consonant ρ is generally written $\dot{\rho}$ at the beginning of a word. In the middle of a word $\rho\rho$ is often written $\dot{\rho}\dot{\rho}$. Thus $\dot{\rho}\acute{\eta}\tau\omega\rho$ (rhetor), orator; $\acute{\alpha}\dot{\rho}\dot{\rho}\eta\tau\omicron\varsigma$, unspeakable; $\Pi\acute{\upsilon}\dot{\rho}\dot{\rho}\omicron\varsigma$, Pyrrhus ($\dot{\rho}\dot{\rho} = rrh$).

CONSONANTS.

§ 5. 1. The consonants are divided into

linguals, τ , δ , θ , ζ , σ , λ , ν , ρ .

2. The double consonants are ξ , ψ , ζ . Ξ is composed of κ and σ ; Ψ , of π and σ . Σ is not composed of two consonants, but it has the effect of two in lengthening a preceding vowel (§ 19, 2).

• § 6. By another classification, the consonants are divided into semivowels and mutes.

1. The semivowels are λ , μ , ν , ρ , and σ ; of which the first four are called liquids, and σ is called a sibilant. M and ν are also called nasals; to which must be added γ before κ , γ , χ , or ξ , where it has the sound of ν , as in $\acute{\alpha}\gamma\kappa\upsilon\pi\alpha$ (ancora), anchor.

2. The mutes are of three orders:—

rough mutes, ϕ , χ , θ .

These again correspond in the following classes:—

lingual mutes, τ , δ , θ .

NOTE. Mutes of the same order are called co-ordinate; those of the same class are called cognate. The smooth and rough mutes, with σ , ξ , and ψ , are called surd (hushed sounds); the other consonants and the vowels are called sonant.

§ 7. The only consonants which can stand at the end of a Greek word are ν , ρ , and ς .

Ξ and Ψ ($\kappa\sigma$ and $\pi\sigma$) are no exceptions; and $\acute{\epsilon}\kappa$ and $\omicron\upsilon\kappa$ ($\omicron\upsilon\chi$) are varied forms of $\acute{\epsilon}\xi$ and $\omicron\upsilon$.

COLLISION OF VOWELS. HIATUS.

§ 8. A succession of two vowel sounds, not forming a diphthong, was generally displeasing to the Athenians. In the middle of a word this was avoided by contraction (§ 9). Between two words—where it is called hiatus and was especially offensive—it was avoided by crasis (§ 11), by elision (§ 12), or by adding a movable consonant (§ 13) to the former word.

CONTRACTION OF VOWELS.

§ 9. Two successive vowels, or a vowel and a diphthong, are often united by contraction in a single long vowel or a diphthong; as φιλέω, φιλῶ; φίλεε, φίλει; τίμαε, τίμα.

Contraction takes place especially in Attic Greek, but seldom unless the first vowel is open (§ 2, Note). It follows these general rules:—

1. Two vowels which can form a diphthong simply unite in one syllable; as τείχεῖ, τείχει; γέραῖ, γέρα; ῥαῖστος, ῥᾱστος.

2. If one of the vowels is o or ω, they are contracted into ω. But eo, oo, and oe give ou. Thus δηλόητε, δηλῶτε; φιλέωσι, φιλῶσι; τιμάομεν, τιμῶμεν; τιμάωμεν, τιμῶμεν; δηλόω, δηλῶ;—but γένεος, γένους; πλόος, πλοῦς; νόε, νοῦ.

NOTE. In contracts of the first and second declensions, o is dropped before a, and before any long vowel or a diphthong. (See § 43 and § 65.)

3. If the two vowels are a and ε (or η), the first vowel sound prevails, and we have ā or η. Aa gives ā, and εη or ηε gives η; but εε gives ει. Thus, ἐτίμαε, ἐτίμα; τιμάητε, τιμᾶτε; τείχεα, τείχη; μνάα, μνᾶ; φιλέητε, φιλήτε; τιμήεντος, τιμῆντος; ἐφίλεε, ἐφίλει.

NOTE. In the first and second declensions, εα becomes ā in the dual and plural and after a vowel or ρ; also in the third declension after a vowel. In the dual of the third declension εε becomes η. (§ 43, § 65, § 52, 2, N. 2, § 53, 3, N. 3. See also § 51, 2.)

4. If a simple vowel is followed by a diphthong, it is contracted with the first vowel of the diphthong, and the second vowel is dropped unless it can be retained as iota subscript (§ 3). But a, ε, and o are dropped before αι; and ε and o before οι.

Thus, τιμάει, τιμά̃; τιμάη, τιμά̃; τιμάοι, τιμά̃; τιμάον, τιμά̃; φιλέει, φιλεῖ; φιλέη, φιλη̃; λύηαι, λύη; μεμνήοιο, μεμνή̃; πλακόεις, πλακοῦς; δηλόου, δηλοῦ; — but μνάαι, μναῖ; φιλέοι, φιλοῖ; δηλόοι, δηλοῖ.

NOTE. In verbs in ὦω, except in the infinitive, σει and οη give οι; as δηλόεις, δηλοῖς; δηλόη, δηλοῖ; — but δηλόειν, δηλοῦν (regularly). Infinitives in -άειν drop ι in contraction; as τιμάειν, τιμά̃ν.

In the second person singular of the passive and middle, εαι gives η or ει (not αι); as λύεαι, λύη or λύει. (See § 114, 2.)

5. The close vowels (ι and υ) are contracted with a following vowel in some forms of nouns in ις and υς of the third declension. (See § 53.)

§ 10. Two successive vowels, not forming a diphthong, are sometimes united in pronunciation. This is called synízēsis. Thus, θεοί may make one syllable in poetry; στήθεα or χρυσέφ may make two.

CRASIS AND ELISION.

§ 11. 1. A vowel or diphthong at the end of a word is often contracted with one at the beginning of the following word. This is called crasis (κρᾶσις, mixture). The first of the two words is generally an article, a relative pronoun, or καί.

Crasis generally follows the laws of contraction (§ 9), but with these modifications:—

(a.) A diphthong at the end of the first word drops its last vowel before crasis takes place.

(b.) The article drops its final vowel or diphthong in crasis before α. The particle τοί drops οι before α; and καί drops αι before αυ, εν, ου, and the words εἰ, εἰς, οἱ, αἱ.

2. The following are examples of crasis:—

Τὸ ὄνομα, τοῦνομα; τὰ ἀγαθά, τᾶγαθά; τὸ ἐναντίον, τοῦναντίον; ὁ ἐκ, οὔκ; ὁ ἐπί, οὔπί; ἃ ἄν, ἄ̃ν; καὶ ἄν, κᾶ̃ν; καὶ εἴτα, κᾶ̃τα; — ὁ ἀνὴρ, ἀν̃ήρ; οἱ ἀδελφοί, ἀδελφοί; τῷ ἀνδρί, τᾶνδρί; τὸ αὐτό, καὶτό; τοῦ αὐτοῦ, ταῦτοῦ; — τοι ἄν, τᾶ̃ν (μέντοι ἄν, μεντᾶ̃ν); τοι ἄρα, τᾶ̃ρα; — καὶ αὐτός, καὶτό̃ς; καὶ αὕτη, χαὕτη (§ 17, 1); καὶ εἰ, κεί; καὶ οἱ, χοῖ; καὶ αἱ, χαῖ. So ἐγὼ οἶδα, ἐγῶδα; ὃ ἄνθρωπε, ὦνθρωπε; τῇ ἐπαρῇ, τῇπαρῇ; προέχων, προῦχων. So ποῦ ἐστιν, ποῦστιν.

NOTE 1. The rough breathing of the article or relative is retained on the contracted syllable, taking the place of the usual coronis (').

NOTE 2. In crasis, ἕτερος takes the form ἄτερος, — whence θατέρου, θατέρω, &c.

NOTE 3. Crasis may be left to pronunciation (§ 10). Thus, μὴ οὐ makes one syllable in poetry; so μὴ εἰδέναι, ἐπεὶ οὐ.

§ 12. A short final vowel may be dropped when the next word begins with a vowel. This is called elision. An apostrophe (') marks the omission. E. g.

Δι' ἐμοῦ for διὰ ἐμοῦ; ἀντ' ἐκείνης for ἀντὶ ἐκείνης; λέγοιμ' ἄν for λέγοιμι ἄν; ἀλλ' εὐθύς for ἀλλὰ εὐθύς; ἐπ' ἀνθρώπῳ for ἐπὶ ἀνθρώπῳ. So ἐφ' ἐτέρῳ; νύχθ' ὅλην for νύκτα ὅλην (§ 17, 1; 15, 1).

NOTE 1. The poets sometimes elide αι in the verbal endings μαι, σαι, ται, and σθαι. So οι in οἶμοι, and rarely in μοι.

NOTE 2. The prepositions περί and πρό, the conjunction ὅτι, and datives in ι of the third declension, are not elided in Attic Greek. The form ὄτ' stands for ὅτε, when.

NOTE 3. The poets sometimes cut off a short vowel even before a consonant. Thus in Homer we find ἄρ, ἄν, κάτ, and πάρ, for ἄρα, ἀνά, κατά, and παρά. Κάτ assimilates its τ to a following consonant, and drops it before two consonants; as κάββαλε and κάκτανε for κατέβαλε and κατέκτανε; — but καταθανεῖν for καταθανεῖν (§ 15, 1).

MOVABLE CONSONANTS.

§ 13. 1. Most words ending in σι, and all verbs of the third person ending in ε, add ν when the next word begins with a vowel. This is called ν movable. E. g.

Πᾶσι δίδωσι ταῦτα; but πᾶσιν ἔδωκεν ἐκείνα. So δίδωσί μοι; but δίδωσιν ἐμοί.

NOTE 1. Ἔστι takes ν movable, like third persons in σι. The Epic κέ (for ἄν) adds ν before a vowel. The enclitic νύν has an Epic form νύ. Many adverbs in -θεν (as πρόσθεν) have poetic forms in -θε.

NOTE 2. Ν movable is generally added at the end of a sentence or of a line of poetry. It may be added even before a consonant in poetry, to make position (§ 19, 2).

2. Οὕτως, ἐξ (ἐκς), and some other words, drop σ before a consonant; as οὕτω δοκεῖ, ἐκ πόλεως; — but οὕτως ἔχει, ἐξ ἄστεος.

Οὐ, not, becomes οὐκ before a smooth vowel, and οὐχ before a rough vowel. Μή inserts κ in μηκ-έτι (like οὐκ-έτι).

METATHESIS AND SYNCOPE.

§ 14. 1. Metathesis is the transposition of two letters in a word; as in κράτος and κάρτος, strength; θάρσος and θράσος, courage.

2. Syncope is the omission of a vowel from the middle of a word; as in πατέρος, πατρός. (See § 57.)

EUPHONY OF CONSONANTS.

§ 15. 1. A rough consonant (§ 6, 2) is never doubled; but πφ, κχ, and τθ are always written for φφ, χχ, and θθ. Thus Σαφφώ, Βάκχος, καθθανείν, not Σαφφώ, Βάχχος, καθθανείν (§ 12, N. 3). So in Latin, Sappho, Bacchus.

2. Initial ρ is doubled when a vowel precedes it in forming a compound word. After a diphthong it is unchanged. Thus, ἀναρρίπτω (of ἀνά and ῥίπτω), but εὔροος (of εὖ and ῥόος). So after the syllabic augment; as ἔρριπτον (imperfect of ῥίπτω).

§ 16. The following rules apply chiefly to euphonic changes made in the final consonant of a stem in adding the endings, especially in forming and inflecting the tenses of verbs:—

1. Before a lingual mute (τ, δ, θ), a labial or palatal mute must be of the same order (§ 6, Note), and another lingual mute must be changed to σ. E. g.

Τέτριπται (for τετριβ-ται), δέδεκται (for δεδεχ-ται), πλεχθῆναι (for πλεκ-θηναι), ἐλείφθην (for ἐλειπ-θην), γράβδην (for γραφ-δην). Πέπεισται (πεπειθ-ται), ἐπείσθην (ἐπειθ-θην), ἦσται (ἦδ-ται), ἴστε (ἰδ-τε).

NOTE. No combinations of different mutes, except those here included and those mentioned in § 15, 1, are allowed in Greek. When any such arise, the first mute is dropped; as in πέπεικα (for πεπειθ-κα).

2. No mute can stand before σ except π and κ (in ψ and ξ). Here β and φ become π; γ and χ become κ; the other mutes are dropped. E. g.

Τρίψω (for τριβ-σω), γράψω (for γραφ-σω), λέξω (for λεγ-σω), πείσω (for πειθ-σω), ἄσω (for ἄδ-σω), σώμασι (for σωματ-σι), ἐλπῖσι (for ἐλπιδ-σι). So φλέψ (for φλεβ-ς), ἐλπῖς (for ἐλπιδ-ς), νύξ (for νυκτ-ς). See examples under § 46, 2.

3. Before μ, a labial mute (π, β, φ) becomes μ; a palatal mute (κ , χ) becomes γ ; and a lingual mute (τ , δ , θ) becomes σ .

E. g.

Ἀλείμμαι (for λείπ-μαι), τέτριμμαι (for τετριβ-μαι), γέγραμμαι (for γεγραφ-μαι), πέπλεγμαι (for πεπλεκ-μαι), τέτευγμαι (for τετευχ-μαι), ὕσμαι (for ἥδ-μαι), πέπεισ-μαι (for πεπειθ-μαι).

4. In passive and middle endings, σ is dropped between two consonants. E. g.

Ἀλείφθε (for λείπ-σθε, § 16, 1), γέγραφθε (for γεγραφ-σθε), γεγράφθαι (for γεγραφ-σθαι), πεφάνθαι (for πεφαν-σθαι).

NOTE. In the verbal endings $\sigmaαι$ and $\sigmaο$, σ is often dropped after a vowel; as in λύσαι, λύσαι, λύη, or λύει (§ 9, 4, Note). Stems in $\epsilon\sigma$ of the third declension also drop σ before a vowel or another σ . (See § 52, 1, Note.)

5. Before a labial mute (π , β , ϕ), ν becomes μ ; before a palatal mute (κ , γ , χ) it becomes γ (§ 6, 1).

Before another liquid, ν is changed to that liquid; before σ , it is generally dropped and the preceding vowel is lengthened (ϵ to $\epsilonι$, $ο$ to $ου$). E. g.

Ἐμπίπτω (for ἐν-πιπτω), συμβαίνω (for συν-βαινω), ἐμφανής (for ἐν-φανης). Συγγέω (for συν-χέω), συγγενής (for συν-γενης). Ἐλλείπω (for ἐν-λείπω), ἐμμένω (for ἐν-μενω), συρρέω (for συν-ρεω). Μέλας (for μελαν-ς), εἰς (for ἐν-ς) λύνουσι (for λυο-νσι, § 112, Note).

NOTE 1. The combinations $\nu\tau$, $\nu\delta$, $\nu\theta$, are often dropped together before σ (§ 16, 2 and 5), and the preceding vowel is lengthened, as above (§ 16, 5); as $\pi\acute{\alpha}\sigmaι$ (for παντ-σι), $\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\nuουσι$ (for λεοντ-σι), $\tauιθεῖσι$ (dat. plur. for τιθεντ-σι), $\tauιθεῖς$ (for τιθεντ-ς), $\delta\acute{\omicron}\nuς$ (for δοντ-ς), $\sigmaπείσω$ (for σπενδ-σω).

NOTE 2. Before $\sigmaι$ of the dative plural, ν alone is dropped without lengthening the vowel; as $\deltaαῖμοσι$ (for δαιμον-σι). Compare $\pi\acute{\alpha}\sigmaι$ (for παντ-σι), Note 1.

So $\nu\tau$ in adjectives in $\epsilonις$, but never in participles; as $\chiαρίεσι$ (for $\chiαριεντ-σι$); but $\tauιθεῖσι$, as given above.

NOTE 3. The preposition $\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ is not changed before σ , ρ , or ζ . $\Sigmaύν$ becomes $\sigmaυσ-$ before σ and a vowel, but $\sigmaυ-$ before σ and a consonant or before ζ . Thus, $\acute{\epsilon}\nu\rho\acute{\alpha}\pi\tau\omega$, $\acute{\sigma}\acute{\upsilon}\sigma\sigma\iota\tau\omicron\varsigma$, $\acute{\sigma}\acute{\upsilon}\zeta\upsilon\gamma\omicron\varsigma$.

For ν retained before σ or changed to σ before μ , in the perfect passive and middle of verbs in $\nu\omega$, see § 113, N. 2.

§ 17. 1. A smooth mute standing before a rough vowel

(either by elision or in forming a compound word) is itself made rough. E. g.

Ἀφίημι (for ἀπ-ίημι), καθαιρέω (for κατ-αίρεω), ἀφ' ὧν (for ἀπὸ ὧν), νύχθ' ὅλην (for νύκτα ὅλην, § 12, § 16, 1).

So in crasis, where the rough breathing may even affect a consonant not immediately preceding it. (See § 11, 2.)

NOTE. The Ionic dialect does not observe this principle; but uses, for example, ἀπ' οὔ, ἀπίημι.

2. In reduplications (§ 101), an initial rough mute is always made smooth. E. g.

Πέφυκα (for φεφυκα), perfect of φύω; κέχηνα (for χεχηνα) perf. of χάσκω; τέθηλα (for θεθηλα), perf. of θάλλω.

NOTE. A similar change takes place in some other words; as in τρέφω (for θρεφω), τρέχω (for θρεχω), τριχός (for θριχ-ος) from θρίξ; ἐτάφην (for ἐθαφ-ην) from θάπτω; ταχύς (for θαχυς). So in ἐτύθην (for ἐθυθην) from θύω, and ἐτέθην (for ἐθεθην) from τίθημι.

3. The ending θι of the aorist imperative passive becomes τι after θη-, the regular characteristic of that tense (§ 110, 3); as λύθητι (for λυθη-θι).

SYLLABLES.

§ 18. 1. A Greek word has as many syllables as it has separate vowels or diphthongs. The syllable next to the last is called the penult (pen-ultima, almost last); the one before the penult is called the antepenult.

2. A pure syllable is one whose vowel or diphthong immediately follows another vowel or diphthong; as the last syllable of φιλέω, οἰκία, χρύσεος.

NOTE. In most editions of the Greek authors, the following rules are observed in dividing syllables at the end of a line:—

1. Single consonants, combinations of consonants which can begin a word (which can be seen from the Lexicon), and mutes followed by μ or ν, are placed at the beginning of a syllable. Other combinations of consonants are divided. Thus, ἔ-χω, ἐ-γώ, ἐ-σπέ-ρα, νέ-κταρ, ἀ-κμή, δε-σμός, μι-κρόν, πρᾶ-γμα-τος, πρᾶσ-σω, ἐλ-πίς, ἐν-δόν.

2. Compound words are divided into their original parts; but when elision has taken place, they are divided like simple words. Thus, προσ-ά-γω, but πα-ρά-γω.

QUANTITY OF SYLLABLES.

§ 19. 1. A syllable is long by nature when it has a long vowel or a diphthong; as in τῆμῆ, κτείνω.

2. A syllable is long by position when its vowel is followed by two consonants or a double consonant; as in ὄρτυξ.

3. When a vowel short by nature is followed by a mute and a liquid, the syllable is common (i. e. either long or short); as in τέκνον, ὕπνος, ὕβρις. But in Attic poetry such a syllable is generally short, in other poetry it is generally long.

NOTE. A middle mute (β, γ, δ) before λ, μ, or ν, lengthens the preceding vowel, as in ἀγνώς, βιβλίον, δόγμα.

§ 20. The quantity of most syllables can be seen at once. Thus η and ω and all diphthongs are long by nature; ε and ο are short by nature. (See § 2.)

When α, ι, and υ are not long by position, their quantity must generally be learned by observation. But it is to be remembered that

1. Every vowel arising from contraction or crasis (not from elision) is long; as α in ἄκων for ἀέκων.

2. The endings as and us are long when ν or ντ has been dropped before σ (§ 16, 5, and N. 1).

3. The accent often shows the quantity of a vowel. (See § 21, 1; § 22.)

The quantity of the terminations of nouns and verbs will be stated below in the proper places.

ACCENT.

General Principles.

§ 21. 1. There are three accents, the acute ('), the grave (`), and the circumflex (^). The acute can stand only on one of the last three syllables of a word, the circumflex only on one of the last two, and the grave only on the last. The circumflex can stand only on a syllable long by nature.

NOTE 1. The grave accent is rarely used except in place of the acute in the case mentioned in § 23, 1.

NOTE 2. The accent (like the breathing) stands on the second vowel of a diphthong. (See § 4, 1, Note.)

2. A word is called oxytone when it has the acute on the last syllable; paroxytone, when it has the acute on the penult; proparoxytone, when it has the acute on the antepenult.

A word is called perispomenon when it has the circumflex on the last syllable; properispomenon, when it has the circumflex on the penult.

A word is called barytone when its last syllable has no accent.

§ 22. 1. The antepenult cannot be accented if the last syllable is long (either by nature or by position). If accented, it takes the acute; as πέλεκυς, ἄνθρωπος.

2. The penult, if accented, takes the circumflex if it is long by nature and at the same time the last syllable is short by nature; as μῆλον, νῆσος, ἥλιξ. Otherwise, if accented, it takes the acute.

NOTE 1. Final αι and οι are considered short in determining the accent; as ἄνθρωποι, νῆσοι. Except in the optative mood, and in the adverb οἶκοι, at home; as τιμήσαι, ποιήσοι (not τίμησαι or ποιήσοι).

NOTE 2. Genitives in εως and ων from nouns in ις and υς of the third declension (§ 53, 1, N. 2), all cases of nouns and adjectives in ως and ων of the Attic (second) declension (§ 42, 2), and the Ionic genitive in εω of the first (§ 39), allow the acute on the antepenult; as ἀνώγεων, πόλεως, Τήρεω (Τήρης). For ὥσπερ, οἶδε, &c., see § 28, N. 3.

§ 23. 1. An oxytone changes its acute to the grave before other words in the same sentence; as τοὺς πονηροὺς ἀνθρώπους (for τοὺς πονηροὺς ἀνθρώπους).

NOTE. This change is not made before enclitics (§ 28) nor in the interrogative τίς, τί (§ 84). It is generally made before a comma, but not before a colon.

2. When a dissyllabic preposition follows its case, or a verb to which it belongs, it throws its accent back to the penult; as τούτων πέρι, ὀλέσας ἄπο (Homeric). (Except ἀνά, διά, ἀμφί, ἀντί.) So also when a preposition stands for itself compounded with ἐστίν; as πάρα for πάρεστιν. This is called anastrophe.

Accent of Contracted Syllables.

§ 24. 1. A contracted syllable is accented if either of the original syllables had an accent. If it is a penult or antepenult, the accent is regular (§ 22). If it is a final syllable, it is circumflexed; but if the original word had the acute on the last syllable, this is retained. E. g.

Τιμώμενος from τιμαόμενος, φιλεῖτε from φιλέετε, τιμῶ from τιμάω; but βεβῶς from βεβαῶς.

NOTE. If neither of the original syllables had an accent, the accent is not affected by contraction; as τίμα for τίμαε.

Some exceptions to the rule of § 24, 1, will be noticed under the declensions. (See § 43, Note; § 65.)

2. In crasis, the accent of the first word is lost and that of the second remains; as τάγαθά for τὰ ἀγαθὰ, ἐγῶῃδα for ἐγὼ οἶδα, κᾶτα for καὶ εἶτα.

3. In elision, oxytone prepositions and conjunctions lose their accent with the elided vowel; other oxytones throw the accent back to the penult. E. g.

Ἐπ' αὐτῷ for ἐπὶ αὐτῷ, ἀλλ' εἶπεν for ἀλλὰ εἶπεν, φήμ' ἐγὼ for φημὶ ἐγώ, κάκ' ἔπη for κακὰ ἔπη.

Accent of Nouns.

§ 25. 1. The place of the accent in the nominative singular must generally be learned by observation. In the other cases, the accent remains on the same syllable as in the nominative, if the last syllable permits (§ 22); otherwise it is placed on the following syllable. E. g.

Θάλασσα, θαλάσσης, θάλασσαν, θάλασσαι, θαλάσσαις; κόραξ, κόρακος, κόρακες, κοράκων; πρᾶγμα, πράγματος, πραγμάτων; ὁδός, ὁδόντος, ὁδόντων, ὁδοῦσιν.

The kind of accent is determined as usual (§ 22); as νῆσος, νήσου, νῆσον, νῆσοι, νήσοις.

2. The last syllable of the genitive and dative of oxytones of the first and second declensions is circumflexed. Ων of the genitive plural is regularly circumflexed in all nouns of the first declension (even in barytones), and in all adjectives and participles of the first declension except those in os. E. g.

Τιμῆς, τιμῇ, τιμαῖν, τιμῶν, τιμαῖς; θεοῦ, θεῷ, θεοῖν, θεῶν, θεοῖς; also δικῶν, δοξῶν (from δίκη, δόξα), but ἀξίων, λεγομένων (fem. gen. plur. of ἄξιος, λεγόμενος). See § 36, Note.

NOTE. Genitives in ῶ of the second declension (§ 42) are exceptions.

3. Most monosyllables of the third declension accent the last syllable in the genitive and dative of all numbers; and ων and οιν are circumflexed. E. g.

Θῆς, servant, θητός, θητί, θητοῖν, θητῶν, θησί.

NOTE. Παῖς, child, Τρώς, Trojan, and a few others, violate the last rule in the genitive dual and plural; so πᾶς, all, in both genitive and dative plural; as παῖς, παιδός, παιδί, παισί, but παίδων; πᾶς, παντός, παντί, πάντων, πᾶσι.

The interrogative τίς, τίνος, τίνι, &c. always accents the first syllable. So do all monosyllabic participles; as ὢν, ὄντος, ὄντι, ὄντων, οὔσι.

Accent of Verbs.

§ 26. Verbs throw the accent as far back as the last syllable permits; as βουλεύω, βουλεύομεν, βουλεύουσιν; παρέχω, παρέχε, ἀποδίδωμι, ἀπόδοτε.

NOTE 1. This applies to compound as well as simple verbs; but in compound verbs the accent cannot precede the augment. Thus, παρείχον (not πάρειχον). So when the verb begins with a long vowel or diphthong not augmented; as ἐξεύρον (not ἔξευρον).

NOTE 2. Participles in their inflection are accented as nouns, not as verbs. Thus, βουλεύων has in the neuter βουλεύον (not βούλευον); φιλέων, φιλῶν, has φιλέον (not φίλεον), φιλοῦν.

NOTE 3. The chief exceptions to the principle just stated (§ 26) are these:—

(1.) The following forms accent the penult: the first aorist active infinitive, the second aorist middle infinitive, the perfect passive infinitive and participle, and all infinitives in ναι or μεν (except those in μεναι). Thus, βουλεύσαι, γενέσθαι, λελύσθαι, λελυμένος, ιστάναι, διδόναι, λελυκέναι, δόμεν and δόμεναι (both Epic for δοῦναι).

Add the compounds of δός, ἔς, θές, and σχές; as ἀπόδος.

(2.) The following forms have the acute on the last syllable: the second aorist active participle, participles in eis, ous, us, and ws, and present participles in as from verbs in μι. Thus, λιπών, λυθείς, διδούς, δεικνύς, λελυκώς, ιστάς (but λύσας and στήσας).

Add the imperatives ιδέ, εἰπέ, ἔλθέ, εὔρέ, and λαβέ.

(3.) The following circumflex the last syllable: the second aorist active infinitive, and the second person singular of the second aorist middle imperative (except when the latter is compounded with a dissyllabic preposition). Thus, λιπεῖν, λιποῦ, προδοῦ, ἀφοῦ (but κατά-θου).

NOTE 4. Some other exceptions occur, especially in irregular verbs (like εἰμί and φημί). Some will be noticed hereafter under verbs in μι.

Enclitics.

§ 27. An enclitic is a word which loses its own accent, and is pronounced as if it were part of the preceding word; as ἄνθρωποι τε (like hōminēsque in Latin). The enclitics are

1. The personal pronouns μοῦ, μοί, μέ; σοῦ, σοί, σέ; οὔ, οἶ, ἐ, σφίσι (with σφί, σφίν, σφέ, σφωέ, σφωῖν, σφέων, σφέας, σφᾶς, σφέα, ἔθεν, μίν, νίν, § 79, 1), except when they are reflexive (§ 144, 2).

2. The indefinite pronoun τις, τὶ, in all its forms; also the indefinite adverbs πού, ποθί, πῇ, ποί, ποθέν, ποτέ, πώ, πώς. (These must be distinguished from the interrogatives τίς, ποῦ, πῇ, &c.)

3. The present indicative of εἰμί, to be, and of φημί, to say, except the forms εἶ and φῆς.

4. The particles γέ, τέ, τοί, πέρ, νύν (not νῦν); and the Epic κέ (or κέν), θῆν, and ῥά. Also the inseparable -δε in ὅδε, τούσδε, &c. (not δέ, but); and -θε and -χι in εἶθε and ναίχι.

§ 28. The word before an enclitic retains its own accent, and never changes a final acute to the grave (§ 23, 1).

1. If its last syllable is accented, the accent of the enclitic is merely dropped; as τιμαί τε, τιμῶν τε, σοφός τις, καλῶς φησιν.

2. If its last syllable is unaccented and it has not the acute on the penult, it receives from the enclitic an acute on the last syllable as an additional accent, while the enclitic loses its accent; as ἄνθρωπός τις, δείξόν μοι, παῖδες τινες, οὗτός ἐστιν, εἶ τις.

3. If it has the acute on the penult, it receives no second accent. A monosyllabic enclitic here drops its accent; a dissyllabic enclitic retains it. Thus, τούτου γε, πόσος τις, ἄνδρες τινές (but παῖδες τινες), οὕτω φησίν (but οὗτός φησιν).

NOTE 1. Enclitics retain their accent, — (1) when they begin a sentence, (2) when the preceding syllable is elided, (3) when they are emphatic. The personal pronouns generally retain their accent after prepositions (except in πρός με). 'Εστί at the beginning of a sentence, and when it signifies existence or possibility, becomes ἔστι: so after οὐκ, μή, εἰ, ὥς, καί, ἀλλ' (for ἀλλά), and τοῦτ' (for τοῦτο).

NOTE 2. When several enclitics occur in succession, each takes an acute from the following, the last remaining without accent; as εἴ τίς τί σοί φησιν.

NOTE 3. When an enclitic forms the last part of a compound word, the compound is accented as if the enclitic were a separate word. Thus, οὔτινος, φῆτινι, ὄντινων, ὥσπερ, ὥστε, οἷδε, τοῖσδε, are only apparent exceptions to § 22.

Proclitics.

§ 29. A proclitic is a word which has no accent, and is pronounced as if it were part of the following word. The proclitics are the articles ὁ, ἡ, οἱ, αἱ, and the particles εἰ, ὥς, οὐ (οὐκ, οὐχ), εἰς (ἐς), ἐξ (ἐκ), ἐν (ἐν).

NOTE. Οὐ takes the acute at the end of a sentence; as πῶς γὰρ οὐ; for why not? 'Ως and ἐξ take the acute when (in poetry) they follow their noun; as κακῶν ἐξ, from evils; θεὸς ὥς, as a God. 'Ως is accented also when it means thus; as ὥς εἶπεν, thus he spoke. When ὁ is used for the relative ὃς, it is accented; and many editors accent all articles when they are demonstrative (as in Π. I. 9).

DIALECTIC CHANGES IN LETTERS.

§ 30. 1. The Ionic dialect is marked by the use of η where the Attic has ā; and the Doric by the use of ā where the Attic has η. Thus, Ionic γενεή for γενεά, ἰήσομαι for ἰάσομαι (from ἰάομαι, § 106); Doric τιμᾶσῶ for τιμήσω (from τιμάω). But an Attic ā caused by contraction (as in τίμα from τίμαε), or an Attic η lengthened from ε (as in φιλήσω from φιλέω, § 106), is never thus changed.

2. The Ionic often has ει, ου, for Attic ε, ο; and ηῖ for Attic εἰ in nouns and adjectives in εἰος, εἰον; as ξεῖνος for ξένος, βασιλῆϊος for βασιλείος.

3. The Ionic does not avoid successive vowels, like the Attic: and it therefore very often omits contraction (§ 9). It contracts $\epsilon\omicron$ and $\epsilon\omicron\upsilon$ into $\epsilon\upsilon$ (especially in Herodotus); as $\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\upsilon\mu\epsilon\nu$, $\pi\omicron\iota\epsilon\upsilon\sigma\iota$ (from $\pi\omicron\iota\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\mu\epsilon\nu$, $\pi\omicron\iota\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\upsilon\sigma\iota$), for Attic $\pi\omicron\iota\omicron\upsilon\mu\epsilon\nu$, $\pi\omicron\iota\omicron\upsilon\sigma\iota$. Herodotus does not use ν movable (§ 13, 1). See also § 17, 1, Note.

PUNCTUATION-MARKS.

§ 31. The Greek uses the comma (,) and the period (.) like the English. It has also a colon, a point above the line ($\cdot$), which is equivalent to the English colon and semicolon. Its mark of interrogation (;) is the same as the English semicolon. The mark of exclamation (!) is sometimes used. Other marks are the same as in English.

PART II.

INFLECTION.

§ 32. 1. INFLECTION is a change in the form of a word, made to express its relation to other words. It includes declension of nouns, adjectives, and pronouns, conjugation of verbs, and comparison of adjectives and adverbs.

2. Every inflected word has a fundamental part, which is called the stem. To this are appended various syllables, called endings, to form cases, tenses, persons, numbers, &c.

NOTE. Most words contain a still more primitive element than the stem, which is called the root. Thus, the stem of τιμάω is τιμα-, that of τίω is τιν-, that of τίσις is τισι-, that of τίμιος is τιμιο-, that of τίμημα (τιμήματος) is τιμηματ-; but all these stems are developed from one root, τι-, which is seen pure in the verb τίω, to honor. In τίω, therefore, the stem and the root are the same.

The stem itself may be modified and assume various forms in different parts of a noun or verb. Thus, the same verbal stem may in different tenses appear as λιπ-, λειπ-, and λοιπ-; and the same nominal stem may appear as τιμα- and τιμη-; but these changes are entirely distinct from those produced by inflection. The stem, therefore, may be defined as the part which is not changed by inflection.

§ 33. 1. There are three numbers; the singular, the dual, and the plural. The singular denotes one object, the plural more than one. The dual is sometimes used to denote two objects, but even here the plural is more common.

2. There are three genders; the masculine, the feminine, and the neuter.

NOTE 1. The grammatical gender in Greek is generally different from the natural gender, especially in names of things. A Greek noun is called masculine, feminine, or neuter, when it requires an adjective or article to take the form adapted to either of these genders. The gender is often indicated by prefixing the article; as (ὁ) ἀνὴρ, man; (ἡ) γυνή, woman; (τὸ) πᾶγμα, thing. (See § 78.)

NOTE 2. Nouns which may be either masculine or feminine are said to be of the common gender; as (ὁ, ἡ) θεός, God or Goddess. Names of animals which include both sexes, but have but one grammatical gender, are called epicene (ἐπίκοινος); as ὁ ἀετός, the eagle; ἡ ἀλώπηξ, the fox.

NOTE 3. The gender must often be learned by observation. But names of males are generally masculine, and names of females feminine. Further, most names of rivers, winds, and months are masculine; and most names of countries, towns, trees, and islands are feminine. Other rules are given under the declensions.

3. There are five cases; the nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, and vocative.

The nominative and vocative plural are always alike. In neuters, the nominative, accusative, and vocative are alike in all numbers; and in the plural these cases end in a. The nominative, accusative, and vocative dual are always alike; and the genitive and dative dual are always alike.

NOTE 1. The cases have in general the same meaning as the corresponding cases in Latin; as Nom. a man (as subject), Gen. of a man, Dat. to or for a man, Accus. a man (as object), Voc. O man. The chief functions of the Latin ablative are divided between the Greek genitive and dative.

NOTE 2. All the cases except the nominative and vocative are called oblique cases.

NOUNS.

§ 34. There are three declensions of nouns, in which also all adjectives are included.

NOTE. The name noun (ὄνομα), according to ancient usage, includes both substantives and adjectives. But by modern custom noun is often used as synonymous with substantive, and it is so used in the present work.

FIRST DECLENSION.

§ 35. Stems of the first declension end originally in a, which is often modified into η in the singular. The nominative singular of feminines ends in a or η; that of masculines ends in as or ης.

§ 36. The following table shows the terminations in all the cases of this declension. These consist of the final a or η of the stem united with the case-endings (§ 32, 2).

Singular.					Dual.	Plural.
	Feminine.		Masculine.		Masc. & Fem.	Masc. & Fem.
N.	a	η	ᾱς	ης		N. αι
G.	ᾱς or ης	ης		ου	N. A. V. ᾱ	G. ῶν (άων)
D.	α or η	η	α	η	G. D. αιν	D. αις
A.	αν	ην	ᾱν	ην		A. ᾱς
V.	a	η	ᾱ	ᾱ or η		V. αι

NOTE. Here, as in most cases, the relation of the stem to the terminations cannot be perfectly understood without reference to the earlier forms of the language. Thus, ῶν of the genitive plural is contracted from the Homeric άων (§ 39); and ου of the genitive singular comes from the Homeric αο (through a form εο) by contraction. The forms in a and η have no case-endings.

§ 37. 1. The nouns (ή) τιμή, honor, (ή) Μοῦσα, Muse, (ή) οἰκία, house, (ό) πολίτης, citizen, (ό) ταμίας, steward, are thus declined:—

Singular.

N.	τιμή	Μοῦσα	οἰκία	πολίτης	ταμίας
G.	τιμῆς	Μούσης	οἰκίας	πολίτου	ταμίου
D.	τιμῇ	Μούσῃ	οἰκίᾳ	πολίτῃ	ταμίᾳ
A.	τιμήν	Μοῦσαν	οἰκίαν	πολίτην	ταμίαν
V.	τιμή	Μοῦσα	οἰκία	πολίτα	ταμία

Dual.

N. A. V.	τιμά	Μούσα	οἰκία	πολίτα	ταμία
G. D.	τιμαῖν	Μούσαιν	οἰκίαιν	πολίταιν	ταμίαιν

Plural.

N.	τιμαί	Μοῦσαι	οἰκίαι	πολίται	ταμίαι
G.	τιμῶν	Μουσῶν	οἰκίῶν	πολιτῶν	ταμιῶν
D.	τιμαῖς	Μούσαις	οἰκίαις	πολίταις	ταμίαις
A.	τιμάς	Μούσας	οἰκίας	πολίτας	ταμίας
V.	τιμαί	Μοῦσαι	οἰκίαι	πολίται	ταμίαι

2. Nouns ending in a pure (§ 18, 2), ρα, and a few others, are declined like οἰκία. Other nouns in a are declined like Μοῦσα; as θάλασσα, θαλάσσης, θαλάσση, θάλασσαν, &c. (See § 25, 1.)

NOTE 1. The nouns in ης which have ä in the vocative singular (like πολίτης) are chiefly those in της, national appellations (like Πέρσης, a Persian, voc. Πέρσᾱ), and compound verbals in ης (like γεωμέτρης, a geometer, voc. γεωμέτρα). Most other nouns in ης have the vocative in η.

NOTE 2. The termination a of the nominative singular is always short when the genitive has ης, and generally long when the genitive has ας. Exceptions are generally seen by the accent (§ 22).

Αν of the accusative singular and a of the vocative singular agree in quantity with a of the nominative. The quantity of all other vowels may be seen from the table in § 36.

Contract Nouns of the First Declension.

§ 38. Most nouns in αα, εα, and εας are contracted (§ 9). Μνάα, μνᾱ, μῖνα, συκέα, συκῆ, fig-tree, and Ἑρμέας, Ἑρμῆς, Hermes (Mercury), are thus declined:—

Singular.

N.	μνάα	μνᾱ	συκέα	συκῆ	Ἑρμέας	Ἑρμῆς
G.	μνάας	μνᾱς	συκέας	συκῆς	Ἑρμέου	Ἑρμοῦ
D.	μναα	μνᾱ	συκέα	συκῆ	Ἑρμέα	Ἑρμῆ
A.	μνάαν	μνᾱν	συκέαν	συκῆν	Ἑρμέαν	Ἑρμῆν
V.	μνάα	μνᾱ	συκέα	συκῆ	Ἑρμέα	Ἑρμῆ

Dual.

N. A. V.	μνάα	μνᾱ	συκέα	συκᾱ	Ἑρμέα	Ἑρμᾱ
G. D.	μνάαιν	μναῖν	συκειαιν	συκαῖν	Ἑρμείαιν	Ἑρμαῖν

Plural.

N.	μνάαι	μναῖ	συκέαι	συκαῖ	Ἑρμαῖ	Ἑρμαῖ
G.	μναῶν	μνῶν	συκεῶν	συκῶν	Ἑρμεῶν	Ἑρμῶν
D.	μνάαις	μναῖς	συκέαις	συκαῖς	Ἑρμαῖς	Ἑρμαῖς
A.	μνάας	μνᾱς	συκέας	συκᾱς	Ἑρμέας	Ἑρμᾱς
V.	μνάαι	μναῖ	συκέαι	συκαῖ	Ἑρμαῖ	Ἑρμαῖ

For adjectives of this class, see § 65. For peculiar contraction in the dual and plural, see § 9, 3, Note, and § 9, 4.

Dialects.

§ 39. Ionic η , $\eta\varsigma$, η , $\eta\nu$, in the singular, for $\tilde{a}$, $\tilde{a}\varsigma$, $\tilde{a}$, $\tilde{a}\nu$. Doric $\tilde{a}$, $\tilde{a}\varsigma$, $\tilde{a}$, $\tilde{a}\nu$, for η , &c. in the same cases. (See § 30.) The Ionic generally uses the uncontracted forms.

Nom. Sing. Hom. sometimes $\tilde{a}$ for $\eta\varsigma$; as $\iota\pi\pi\acute{o}\tau\alpha$ for $\iota\pi\pi\acute{o}\tau\eta\varsigma$, horseman. (Compare Latin poeta = $\pi\omicron\iota\eta\tau\acute{\eta}\varsigma$.)

Gen. Sing. For $\omicron\nu$, Hom. $\tilde{a}\omicron$, $\epsilon\omega$; as $\tilde{\alpha}\tau\rho\epsilon\acute{\iota}\delta\alpha\omicron$, $\tilde{\alpha}\tau\rho\epsilon\acute{\iota}\delta\epsilon\omega$: Hdt. $\epsilon\omega$ (sometimes in old Attic proper names): Doric $\tilde{a}$ (rarely in Attic).

Gen. Plur. Hom. $\acute{\alpha}\omicron\nu$, $\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\nu$ (whence, by contraction, Attic $\acute{\omega}\nu$, Doric $\acute{\alpha}\nu$): Hdt. $\acute{\epsilon}\omicron\nu$.

Dat. Plur. Poetic $\alpha\iota\varsigma\iota$, Ionic $\eta\varsigma\iota$, $\eta\varsigma$; as $\tau\iota\mu\alpha\acute{\iota}\varsigma\iota$, $\mu\acute{o}\upsilon\sigma\eta\varsigma\iota$ or $\mu\acute{o}\upsilon\sigma\eta\varsigma$ (for $\mu\acute{o}\upsilon\sigma\alpha\iota\varsigma$).

SECOND DECLENSION.

§ 40. The nominative singular of most nouns of the second declension ends in $\omicron\varsigma$ or $\omicron\nu$ (gen. $\omicron\nu$). Those in $\omicron\varsigma$ are masculine, rarely feminine; those in $\omicron\nu$ are neuter.

NOTE. The stem of nouns of this declension ends in $\omicron$; which is sometimes lengthened to ω , and becomes ϵ in the vocative singular, and α in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural of neuters.

§ 41. The following table shows the terminations in this declension, that is, the final $\omicron$ of the stem (with its modifications) united with the case-endings:—

Singular.			Dual.	Plural.
Masc. & Fem.	Neuter.		Masc., Fem., & Neuter.	Masc. & Fem.	Neut.
N. $\omicron\varsigma$	$\omicron\nu$			N. $\omicron\iota$	$\tilde{\alpha}$
G. $\omicron\nu$ ($\omicron\omicron$)			N. A. V. ω	G. $\omega\nu$
D. φ			G. D. $\omicron\nu$	D. $\omicron\iota\varsigma$
A. $\omicron\nu$				A. $\omicron\nu\varsigma$	$\tilde{\alpha}$
V. ϵ	$\omicron\nu$			V. $\omicron\iota$	$\tilde{\alpha}$

Singular.

N.	λόγος	νήσος	ἄνθρωπος	δῶρον
G.	λόγου	νήσου	ἀνθρώπου	δώρου
D.	λόγῳ	νήσῳ	ἀνθρώπῳ	δώρῳ
A.	λόγον	νήσον	ἄνθρωπον	δῶρον
V.	λόγε	νήσε	ἄνθρωπε	δῶρον

Dual.

N. A. V.	λόγω	νήσω	ἀνθρώπῳ	δώρω
G. D.	λόγοιν	νήσοιν	(ἀνθρώποιν)	δώροιν

Plural.

N.	λόγοι	νήσοι	ἄνθρωποι	δῶρα
G.	λόγων	νήσων	ἀνθρώπων	δώρων
D.	λόγοις	νήσοις	ἀνθρώποις	δώροις
A.	λόγους	νήσους	ἀνθρώπους	δῶρα
V.	λόγοι	νήσοι	ἄνθρωποι	δῶρα

2. A few masculine and feminine nouns of this declension end in ως (gen. ω), and a few neuters in ων (gen. ω). This is often called the Attic declension. The nouns (ὁ) νεώς, temple, and (τὸ) ἀνώγειον, hall, are thus declined:—

Singular.		Dual.		Plural.
N.	νεώς			N.	νεῶ
G.	νεώ	N. A. V.	νεώ	G.	νεῶν
D.	νεῶ	G. D.	νεῶν	D.	νεῶς
A.	νεών			A.	νεώς
V.	νεώς			V.	νεῶ
N. A. V.	ἀνώγειον	N. A. V.	ἀνώγειω	N. A. V.	ἀνώγειω
G.	ἀνώγειω	G. D.	ἀνώγειων	G.	ἀνώγειων
D.	ἀνώγειῳ			D.	ἀνώγειως

The accent of these nouns is irregular. (See § 22, N. 2; and § 25, 2, Note. See also § 53, 1, N. 2.)

NOTE. Some masculines and feminines of this class may drop ν of the accusative singular; as λαγώς, accus. λαγών or λαγώ. So *Αθως, τὸν *Αθων or *Αθω; Κῶς, τὴν Κῶν or Κῶ; and Κέως, Τέως, Μίνως. *Εως, dawn, has regularly τὴν *Εω.

Contract Nouns of the Second Declension.

§ 43. Many nouns in εος, οος, εον, and οον are contracted. Νόος, νοῦς, mind, and ὀστέον, ὀστούν, bone, are thus declined:—

Singular.			Dual.		Plural.
N.	νόος	νοῦς			N.	νόοι	νοῖ
G.	νόου	νοῦ	N. A. V.	νόω νό	G.	νόων	νών
D.	νόφ	νῶ	G. D.	νόοιν νοῖν	D.	νόοις	νοῖς
A.	νόον	νοῦν			A.	νόους	νοῦς
V.	νόε	νοῦ			V.	νόοι	νοῖ
N. A. V. ὀστέον ὀστούν			N. A. V.	ὀστέω ὀστώ	N. A. V.	ὀστέα ὀστᾶ
G.	ὀστέου ὀστού		G. D.	ὀστέοιν ὀστοῖν	G.	ὀστέων ὀστών
D.	ὀστέφ	ὀστῶ			D.	ὀστέοις ὀστοῖς

For the forms in εος and οον, which are generally adjectives, see § 65.

NOTE. The accent of these contract forms is irregular in several points:—

1. The nominative, accusative, and vocative dual contract έω and ὦω into ῶ (not ῱). See § 24, 1.

2. Adjectives in εος circumflex the last syllable of all contract forms; as χρύσεος, χρυσοῦς (not χρύσεους, § 24, 1). So κάνεον, κανοῦν, basket. Except ῶ in the dual, just mentioned.

3. The contracted forms of compounds in οος follow the accent of the contracted nominative singular; as ἀντίπνοος, ἀντίπνους, gen. ἀντιπνήου, ἀντίπνου (not ἀντιπνοῦ), &c.

Dialects.

§ 44. Gen. Sing. For ου, Epic οιο, Doric ω (for οο); as θεοῖο, μεγάληω.

Gen. and Dat. Dual. Epic οιν for οιν.

Dat. Plur. Ionic and poetic οισι for οις.

Acc. Plur. Doric ως or ος for ονς.

THIRD DECLENSION.

§ 45. 1. This declension includes all nouns not belonging to either the first or the second. Its genitive singular ends in ος (sometimes ως).

2. The stem of a noun of the third declension cannot always be determined by the nominative singular; but it is generally found by dropping ος (or ως) of the genitive. The cases are formed by adding to the stem the following endings (which here are not united with any letter of the stem):—

Singular.		Dual.	Plural.
Masc. & Fem.	Neuter.	Mas., Fem., Neu.	Masc. & Fem.	Neut.
N. s	None (rarely s)		N. ες	ᾱ
G. ος, ως		N. A. V. ε	G. ων
D. ι		G. D. οιν	D. σιν
A. ᾱ or ν	Like N.		A. ας	ᾱ
V. None, or like N.	Like N.		V. ες	ά

Nominative Singular.

§ 46. The forms of the nominative singular of this declension are numerous, and must be learned partly by practice. The following are the general principles on which the nominative is formed from the stem.

1. In neuters, the nominative singular is generally the same as the stem. Stems ending in τ (including ντ) regularly drop the τ (§ 7). E. g.

Σῶμα, σώματ-ος; μέλᾱν (neuter of μέλᾱς), μέλαν-ος; λῦσαν (neuter of λύσας), λύσαντ-ος; πᾶν, παντ-ός; τιθέν, τιθέντ-ος; χαρίεν, χαρίεντ-ος; διδόν, διδόντ-ος; λέγον, λέγοντ-ος; δεικνύν (ῦ), δεικνύντ-ος. For the masculine nominatives of these adjectives and participles, see below, § 46, 2, 3, and Note 1.

Some neuter stems in ατ form the nominative in ας, and a few in αρ; as τέρας, τέρατ-ος; ἡπαρ, ἡπατ-ος.

2. Masculine and feminine stems (except those included under 3 and 4) form the nominative singular by adding s and making the needful euphonic changes (§ 16). E. g.

Φύλαξ, φύλακ-ος; γύψ, γυπ-ός; φλέψ, φλεβ-ός (§ 16, 2); ἐλπís, ἐλπίδ-ος (§ 16, 2; cf. § 47, Note); χάρις, χάριτ-ος; ὄρνις, ὄρνιθ-ος; νύξ, νυκτ-ός; μάστιξ, μάστιγ-ος; σάλπιγξ, σάλπιγγ-ος. So Αἶās, Αἶαντ-ος (§ 16, 5, N. 1); λύsās, λύσαντ-ος; πās, παντ-ός; τιθείς, τιθέντ-ος (§ 16, 5); χαρίεις, χαρίεντ-ος; δεικνύς (ῥ), δεικνύντ-ος. (The neuters of the last five words, λῦσαν, πᾶν, τιθέν, χαρίεν, and δεικνύν, are given under § 46, 1.)

3. Masculine and feminine stems in ν and ρ lengthen the last vowel if it is short, but are otherwise unchanged in the nominative. E. g.

Αἰών, αἰών-ος; δαίμων, δαίμον-ος; λιμήν, λιμέν-ος; θήρ, θηρ-ός; ἄήρ, ἄερ-ος.

Exceptions are μέλās, μέλαν-ος, black; τάλās, τάλαν-ος, wretched; εἶς, ἐν-ός, one; κτεῖς, κτεν-ός, comb; ῥίς, ῥιν-ός, nose; which add s.

4. Masculine stems in οντ generally drop τ, and form the nominative like stems in ν (§ 46, 3). E. g.

Λέων, λέοντ-ος; λέγων, λέγοντ-ος; ὄν, ὄντ-ος.

NOTE 1. Masculine participles from verbs in ωμι change οντ to ους (§ 46, 2); as διδούς, διδόντ-ος (§ 16, 5, N. 1). So a few nouns in ους; as ὀδούς, tooth, ὀδόντ-ος. Neuters in οντ-are regular (§ 46, 1).

NOTE 2. The perfect active participle (§ 68), with a stem in οτ, forms its nominative in ως (masc.) and ος (neut.); as λελυκώς, λελυκός, gen. λελυκότ-ος.

NOTE 3. For nominatives in ης (ες) and ος, gen. εος, see § 52, 1, Note. A few other peculiar formations in contract nouns will be noticed below, §§ 54–56.

Accusative Singular.

§ 47. 1. Most masculines and feminines form the accusative singular by adding ᾱ to the stem; as φύλαξ (φυλακ-), φύλακα; λέων (λεοντ-), λέοντα.

2. Nouns in ις, υς, αυς, and ους, if the stem ends in a vowel or diphthong, change ς of the nominative to ν; as πόλις, πόλιν; ἰχθύς, ἰχθύν; ναῦς, ναῦν; βοῦς, βοῦν.

But if the stem ends in a consonant, barytones of these classes have two forms, one in α and one in ν, while others have only the form in α; as ἔρις, ἔριν or ἔριδα; ὄρνις, ὄρνιν or ὄρνιθα; εὐελπίς, εὐέλπιν or εὐέλπιδα (while ἐλπίς has only ἐλπίδα); πούς (ποδ-), πόδα.

When there are two forms, that in α is not common in Attic prose.

NOTE. The anomalous accusative in ω of nouns in ις, gen. ιτος, ιδος, or ιθος, may be explained by supposing the original stem of all nouns in ις to end in ι, and the lingual to be a euphonic insertion in certain cases. This would also explain the vocative in ι, and render the formation of the nominative singular and the dative plural simpler.

For accusatives in εα from nouns in ης and ευσ, see § 52, 1, Note, and § 53, 3, Note 1.

Vocative Singular.

§ 48. 1. The vocative singular of masculines and feminines is generally the same as the nominative.

2. But in the following cases it is the same as the stem:—

(a.) In barytones with stems ending in a liquid; as δαίμων (δαιμων-), voc. δαῖμον; ῥήτωρ (ρήτορ-), voc. ῥήτορ.

But if the last syllable is accented, the vocative is the same as the nominative; as λιμήν (λιμεν-), voc. λιμήν; αἰθήρ (αἰθερ-), voc. αἰθήρ.

(b.) In nouns and adjectives whose stems end in ντ, final τ of the stem being dropped (§ 7); as γίγας (γιγαντ-), voc. γίγαν; λέων (λεοντ-), voc. λέον; χαρίεις (χαριεντ-), voc. χαρίεν.

But all participles of the third declension have the vocative and nominative alike. (Compare λύων, loosing, voc. λύων, with λέων, lion, voc. λέον.)

(c.) In nouns and adjectives in ις, υς, ευσ, and αυς. These drop ς of the nominative to form the vocative; as ἐλπὶς (ἐλπιδ-), voc. ἐλπί (§ 7); ἰχθύς, ἰχθύ; βασιλεύς, βασιλεῦ (§ 53, 3, N. 1); γραῦς, γραῦ (§ 54, Note); παῖς (for πάϊς), παῖ (for πάϊ). So in compounds of πούς, foot.

(d.) In nouns and adjectives in ης, gen. εος (ους). These form the vocative in ες (§ 52); as Σωκράτης, voc. Σώκρατες; τρίηρης, voc. τρίηρες; ἀληθής, voc. ἀληθές. For the accent, see § 52, 2, Note 1.

NOTE. The vocatives Ἀπολλων, Πόσειδον, and σῶτερ (from stems in ων and ηρ) shorten the last vowel and throw back the accent. For the vocative of syncopated nouns, see § 57. Ἀγάμεμνον and some other compound proper names throw back their accent. (See § 52, 2, Note 1.)

3. Nouns in ώ, gen. ούς (§ 55), form the vocative in οῖ. So a few in ών, gen. ούς (§ 55, N. 2); as ἀηδών, voc. ἀηδοῖ.

Dative Plural.

§ 49. The dative plural is formed by adding σι to the stem. E. g.

Φύλαξ (φυλακ-), φύλαξι; ῥήτωρ (ρήτορ-), ῥήτορσι; ἐλπίς (ἐλπιδ-), ἐλπίσι; ποῦς (ποδ-), ποσί; λέων (λεοντ-), λέουσι; δαίμων (δαιμον-), δαίμοσι; τιθείς (τιθεντ-), τιθείσι; χαρίεις (χαριεντ-), χαρίεσι; ἰστάς (ίσταντ-), ἰστᾶσι; δεικνύς (δεικνυντ-), δεικνῦσι; βασιλεύς (βασιλευ-), βασιλεῦσι; βοῦς (βου-), βουσί; γραῦς (γραυ-), γραυσί (§ 54). For the euphonic changes, see § 16, 2 and 5, with Notes.

For changes in syncopated nouns, see § 57.

Uncontracted Nouns.

§ 50. The following are examples of the most common forms of uncontracted nouns of the third declension.

For the formation of the cases of these nouns, see §§ 46–49. For euphonic changes in nearly all, see § 16, 2, and § 46. For special changes in λέων and γίγας, see § 16, 5. For contract forms of nouns in ας, ατος, see § 56, 2.

I. MASCULINES AND FEMININES.

Contract Nouns.

§ 51. 1. Most nouns of the third declension in which a vowel of the stem precedes a vowel in the case-ending are contracted in some of their cases.

2. The contracted nominative and accusative plural have the same form. (See, however, § 53, 3, N. 3.)

§ 52. 1. Nouns in ης (ες) and ος, gen. εος, are contracted whenever ε of the stem precedes a vowel.

NOTE. A comparison of kindred languages shows that the original stem of these nouns ended in εσ, in which σ is dropped before a vowel or another σ in the case-ending (§ 16, 4, Note). The genitive γένεος, therefore, stands for an original form γενεσ-ος, which, however, is never found in Greek. (See § 56, 1, Note.) The proper substantive stems change ες to ος in the nominative singular (as in γένος, τεῖχος); the adjective stems lengthen ες to ης in the masculine and feminine, and retain ες in the neuter. (See § 66.) A few adjectives in ῥηης are used substantively, as τριῥηης (triply fitted, sc. ναῦς), trireme.

2. The nouns (ῆ) τριῥηης, trireme, and (τὸ) γένος, race, are thus declined:—

Singular.

N.	τριήρης		γένος
G.	τριήρεος	τριήρους	γένεος	γένους
D.	τριήρεϊ	τριήρει	γένεϊ	γένει
A.	τριήρεα	τριήρη	γένος
V.	τριήρες		γένος

Dual.

N. A. V.	τριήρεε	τριήρη	γένεε	γένη
G. D.	τριηρέοιν	τριήρου	γενέοιν	γενοῖν

Plural.

N. V.	τριήρες	τριήρεις	γένεα	γένη
G.	τριηρέων	τριήρων	γενέων	γενῶν
D.	τριήρεσι		γένεσι
A.	τριήρεας	τριήρεις	γένεα	γένη

NOTE 1. Barytones in ης throw back the accent as far as possible in all forms; as voc. Σώκρατες, Δημόσθενες, from Σωκράτης, Δημοσθένης, declined like τριήρης in the singular.

NOTE 2. When the termination εα is preceded by a vowel, it is generally contracted into ᾱ; as ὑγιής, healthy, accus. sing. ὑγιέα, ὑγιᾶ (sometimes ὑγιῇ); χρέος, debt, N. A. V. plur. χρέᾱ. In the dual, εε is irregularly contracted into η.

NOTE 3. Proper names in κλέης are doubly contracted in the dative, sometimes in the accusative. Περικλέης, Pericles, is thus declined (see also § 59, 4):—

N.	Περικλέης	Περικλῆς
G.	Περικλέεος	Περικλέους
D.	Περικλέεϊ	Περικλέει	Περικλεῖ
A.	Περικλέεα	Περικλέᾱ	Περικλή
V.	Περικλέες	Περικλείς

§ 53. Nouns in ις and ς (stems in ι), υς and υ (stems in υ), contract only the dative singular, and the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural. Nouns in ευς generally contract only the dative singular and the nominative and vocative plural.

1. Most stems in ι, with a few in υ, change their final ι or υ to ε in all cases except the nominative, accusative, and vocative singular.

The nouns (ῆ) πόλις, city, (stem πολι-), πῆχυς, cubit, (stem πηχυ-), and ἄστυ, city (stem ἄστυ-), are thus declined:—

Singular.

N.	πόλις		πῆχυς		ἄστυ
G.	πόλεως		πήχεως		ἄστεος (ἄστεως)
D.	πόλεϊ	πόλει	πήχεϊ	πήχει	ἄστεϊ ἄστει
A.	πόλιν		πήχυν		ἄστυ
V.	πόλι		πήχυ		ἄστυ

Dual.

N. A. V.	πόλεε		πήχέε		ἄστεε
G. D.	πολέοιν		πήχέοιν		ἄστέοιν

Plural.

N. V.	πόλεες	πόλεις	πήχεες	πήχεις	ἄστεα ἄσθη
G.	πόλεων		πήχεων		ἄστέων
D.	πόλεσι		πήχεσι		ἄστεσι
A.	πόλεας	πόλεις	πήχεας	πήχεις	ἄστεα ἄσθη

For the Ionic forms of nouns in is, see § 59, 2.

NOTE 1. Nouns in ι are declined like ἄστυ; as (τὸ) σινάπι, mustard, gen. σινάπεος, dat. σινάπεϊ, σινάπει, &c.

NOTE 2. The genitives in εως and ων of nouns in is and us accent the antepenult. So genitives in εως of nouns in υ.

2. Most nouns in υς retain υ and are regular; as (ὁ) ἰχθύς, fish, which is thus declined:—

Singular.		Dual.		Plural.
N.	ἰχθύς			N. V.	ἰχθύες (ἰχθῦς)
G.	ἰχθύος	N. A. V.	ἰχθύε	G.	ἰχθύων
D.	ἰχθύϊ (ἰχθυί)	G. D.	ἰχθύοιν	D.	ἰχθύσι
A.	ἰχθύν			A.	ἰχθύας ἰχθῦς
V.	ἰχθύ

NOTE 1. The contracted nominative plural in υς is not common. The contracted dative in υι is Homeric.

NOTE 2. Adjectives in vs are declined in the masculine like πῆχυς, and in the neuter like ἄστυ. But the masculine genitive ends in εος (like the neuter); and εος and εα are not contracted. (See § 67.) ἄστυ* is the principal noun in v; its genitive ἄστεως is poetic.

3. Nouns in εὐς retain ευ in the nominative and vocative singular and dative plural; as (ὁ) βασιλεύς, king (stem βασιλευ-), which is thus declined:—

Singular.		Dual.	Plural.
N.	βασιλεύς		N. V. βασιλέες βασιλεῖς
G.	βασιλέως	N. A. V. βασιλέε	G. βασιλέων
D.	βασιλεῖ βασιλεῖ	G. D. βασιλέου	D. βασιλεῦσι
A.	βασιλέᾱ		A. βασιλέᾱς
V.	βασιλεῦ

NOTE 1. The stem of nouns in εὐς ended originally in εϝ (§ 1, Note 2), in which ϝ was dropped before a vowel and was elsewhere changed to υ. The cases of these nouns are therefore perfectly regular, except in ως of the genitive (only Attic, see § 59, 3), and long α and ας in the accusative. (See § 54.)

NOTE 2. The older Attic writers (as Thucydides) contract έες in the nominative plural of nouns in εὐς into ῆς; as ἱππῆς, βασιλῆς, for ἱππεῖς, βασιλεῖς. The form in ῆς is rarely found also in the accusative plural; but here εᾱς usually remains uncontracted.

NOTE 3. When a vowel precedes, έως of the genitive singular may be contracted into ῶς, and έα of the accusative singular into ᾱ; rarely έας of the accusative plural into ᾱς, and έων of the genitive plural into ῶν. Thus, Πειραιεύς, Peiraeus; gen. Πειραιέως, Πειραιῶς; accus. Πειραιέα, Πειραιᾱ; [χοεύς,] a kind of measure; χοέως, χοῶς; χοέα, χοᾱ; χοέας, χοᾱς; Δωριεύς, Dorian; gen. plur. Δωριέων, Δωριῶν.

§ 54. The nouns (ὁ, ἡ) βοῦς, ox or cow (stem βου-), (ἡ) γραῦς, old woman (stem γρᾱν-), and (ἡ) ναῦς, ship (stem ναυ-), are peculiar in their declension.

The stems of these nouns were originally βοϝ-, γρᾱϝ-, and ναϝ- (compare the Latin bov-is and nav-is), which dropped ϝ before a vowel and changed it to υ elsewhere. (See § 53, 3, N. 1.) For dialectic forms of ναῦς, in which it is much more regular than in Attic, see the Lexicon. In Attic, it changes να- to νε- before ω and οι, and to νη- before ε and ι. They are thus declined:—

Singular.

N.	βοῦς	γραῦς	ναῦς
G.	βοός	γραῶς	νεώς
D.	βοῖ	γραῖ	νηί
A.	βοῦν	γραῦν	ναῦν
V.	βοῦ	γραῦ	ναῦ

Dual.

N. A. V.	βοε	γραε	νηε
G. D.	βοοῶ	γραοῖν	νεοῖν

Plural.

N. V.	βοε	γραες	νηες
G.	βοῶν	γραῶν	νεῶν
D.	βοουσί	γραυσί	ναυσί
A.	βοῦς	γραῦς	ναῦς

§ 55. Some feminines in $\acute{\omega}$ contract $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\omicron}\acute{\omicron}$, $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\iota}$, and $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\alpha}$ in the singular into $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\upsilon}\acute{\varsigma}$, $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\iota}$, and $\acute{\omega}$, and form the vocative singular irregularly in $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\iota}$. The dual and plural (which rarely occur) follow the second declension. Ἠχώ (η), echo, is thus declined:—

Singular.		Dual.	Plural.
N.	ἦχώ		N. V. ἦχοί
G.	[ἦχώος] ἦχοῦς	N. A. V. ἦχώ	G. ἦχῶν
D.	[ἦχώϊ] ἦχοῖ	G. D. ἦχοῖν	D. ἦχοῖς
A.	[ἦχώα] ἦχώ		A. ἦχοῦς
V.	ἦχοῖ

NOTE 1. Αἰδώς, shame, and the Ionic ἦώς, morning, form their oblique cases like ἦχώ (but with $\acute{\omega}$, not $\acute{\omega}$, in the accusative singular); as αἰδώς, αἰδοῦς, αἰδοί, αἰδῶ, — ἦώς, ἦοῦς, ἦοῖ, ἦῶ.

Nouns in $\acute{\omega}\acute{\varsigma}$, gen. $\acute{\omega}\acute{\varsigma}$, are regular, but are sometimes contracted; as ἥρως, hero, ἥρωος, ἥρωϊ (or ἥρω), ἥρωα (or ἥρω), &c.

NOTE 2. A few nouns in $\acute{\omega}\acute{\nu}$ (as εἰκῶν, image, and ἀηδών, nightingale) have forms like those of nouns in $\acute{\omega}$; as gen. εἰκοῦς, ἀηδοῦς; accus. εἰκῶ; voc. ἀηδοῖ.

NOTE 3. The uncontracted forms of these nouns, in $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\omicron}\acute{\omicron}$, $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\iota}$, and $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\alpha}$, are not used. Herodotus has an accusative singular in $\acute{\omicron}\acute{\upsilon}\acute{\nu}$; as Ἰοῦν for Ἰῶ, from Ἰῶ, Ἰοῦς.

§ 56. 1. Neuters in as, gen. aos, are contracted when the a of the stem is followed by a vowel; as (τὸ) γέρας, prize, which is thus declined:—

Singular.		Dual.		Plural.
N	γέρας			N.	γέραα γέρα
G.	γέραος γέρως	N.	γέραε γέρα	G.	γεράων γερῶν
D.	γέραϊ γέρα	G. D.	γεράοιν γερῶν	D.	γέρασι
A.	γέρας			A.	γέραα γέρα
V.	γέρας			V.	γέραα γέρα

NOTE. The original stem of these nouns in as, gen. aos, is supposed to have ended in ασ, as that of nouns in ης and ος, gen. eos, is supposed to have ended in εσ (§ 52, 1, Note). Here ασ dropped σ before a vowel or σ, but retained it in the nominative. Neuters in as, ατος, which drop τ (§ 56, 2) would be said, according to this view, to have one stem in ατ, and another in α(σ), the latter appearing in the nominative singular. According to this view, nouns in as form their nominative regularly (§ 46, 1).

2. A few neuters in as, gen. ατος, drop τ and are contracted like γέρας; as (τὸ) κέρας, horn, gen. κέρατος, κέραος, κέρως; dat. κέρατι, κέραϊ, κέρα; plur. κέρατα, κέραα, κέρα; κεράτων, κεράων, κερῶν; κέρασι.

NOTE. Ἀπόλλων and Ποσειδῶν (Ποσειδάων) contract the accusative into Ἀπόλλω and Ποσειδῶ, after dropping ν.

For a similar contraction of ονα into ω, and of ονες and ονας into ους, see the declension of comparatives, § 72, 2.

Synocopated Nouns.

§ 57. Some nouns in ηρ (stem ερ), gen. ερος, are synocopated (§ 14, 2) by dropping ε in the genitive and dative singular. In the dative plural they change ερ to ρα before σι. The accent is irregular, the synocopated genitive and dative being accented on the last syllable (except in Δημήτηρ). The vocative irregular throws the accent as far back as possible; it also ends in ερ, as in barytones (§ 48, 2, α).

1. Πατήρ (ὁ), father, and θυγάτηρ (ῆ), daughter, are thus declined:—

Singular.

N.	πατήρ		θυγάτηρ
G.	πατέρος	πατρός	θυγατέρος	θυγατρός
D.	πατέρι	πατρί	θυγατέρι	θυγατρί
A.	πατέρα		θυγατέρα
V.	πάτερ		θύγατερ

Dual.

N. A. V.	πατέρε	θυγατέρε
G. D.	πατέροιν	θυγατέροιν

Plural.

N. V.	πατέρες	θυγατέρες
G.	πατέρων	θυγατέρων
D.	πατράσι	θυγατράσι
A.	πατέρας	θυγατέρας

NOTE 1. Μήτηρ (ή), mother, and γαστήρ (ή), belly, are declined and accented like πατήρ. Thus, μήτηρ has μητέρος, μητρός, and μητέρι, μητρί; plur. μητέρες, μητέρων, &c.

Ἄστηρ (ό), star, has ἀστράσι in the dative plural, but is otherwise regular (without syncope).

NOTE 2. The uncontracted forms of all these nouns are often used by the poets, who also syncope other cases of θυγάτηρ.

2. Ἄνθρωπος (ό), man, drops ε whenever a vowel follows ερ, and inserts δ in its place. It is thus declined : —

Singular.		Dual.		Plural.
N. ἄνθρωπος				N. V. ἄνθρωποι ἄνδρες
G. ἀνθρώπου		N. A. V. ἀνθρώποι		G. ἀνθρώπων
D. ἀνθρώπῳ		G. D. ἀνθρώποι		D. ἀνθρώποις
A. ἀνθρώπου				A. ἀνθρώπους
V. ἄνθρωπε

3. The proper name Δημήτηρ syncopates all the oblique cases, and then accents the first syllable. Thus, gen. Δημήτερος, Δήμητρος; dat. Δημήτερι, Δήμητρι; accus. Δημήτερα, Δήμητρα; voc. Δήμητερ.

Gender of the Third Declension.

§ 58. The gender of many nouns in this declension must be learned by observation. A few general rules, however, may be given.

1. The following are masculine: substantives ending in ἄν, ην, εὺς, most of those in ηρ and ωρ, and all that have ντος in the genitive. Except (ῆ) φρήν, mind.

2. The following are feminine: those in αὐς, της (gen. τητος), ας (gen. αδος), ώ or ός (gen. οὺς), and most of those in ις.

3. The following are neuter: those in α, η, ι, υ, αρ, ορ, ος, and ας (gen. ατος or αος).

Dialects.

§ 59. 1. Gen. and Dat. Dual. Homeric οἶν for οἷν.

Dat. Plur. Homeric εσσι, εσι, σσι, for σι.

2. The original ι of the stem of nouns in ις (Attic gen. εως) is retained in the Doric and Ionic. Thus, πόλις, πόλιος, (πόλι) πόλῃ, πόλιν, πόλι; Dual, πόλιε, πολίον; Plur. πόλιες, πολίων, πολῖσι, πόλιας (Hdt. πολῖς). Homer generally has the Attic πόλει (with πόλεῖ) and πόλεσι in the dative. There are also Epic forms πόλῃος, πόλῃι, πόλῃες, πόλῃας. The Attic poets have πόλεος.

3. In nouns in εὺς, Doric and Ionic βασιλέος for βασιλέως; Epic also βασιλῆος, βασιλῆι, βασιλῆα; βασιλῆε, βασιλῆοιν; βασιλῆες, βασιλῆων, βασιλῆεσσι, βασιλῆας. Doric βασιλῆ for βασιλέα, sometimes used by Attic poets.

4. Nouns in κλέης (sometimes others in έης) drop the ε in Herodotus; as Ἡρακλέης, Ἡρακλῆς. They are then declined like nouns in ης; Ἡρακλέος, Ἡρακλεί, Ἡρακλέα, Ἡρακλες. In Homer, εε is contracted into η (as Ἡρακλῆος, Ἡρακλῆι, Ἡρακλῆα); but sometimes into ει (as εὐκλέης, εὐκλέεας, contracted εὐκλείας). Κλέος, glory, contracts κλέεα into κλέᾱ in Homer.

IRREGULAR NOUNS.

§ 60. 1. Nouns which belong to more than one declension are called heteroclitcs. Thus σκότος, darkness, is usually declined like λόγος (§ 41), but sometimes like γένος (§ 52, 2). So Οιδίπους, Oedipus, has genitive Οιδίποδος or Οιδίπου, dative Οιδίποδι, accusative Οιδίποδα or Οιδίπουν.

Especially, proper names in ης (gen. εος) of the third declension (except those in κλέης) have also an accusative in ην like those of the first; as Δημοσθένης, accus. Δημοσθένην or Δημοσθένη. So nouns in ᾱς (gen. ατος or ανος) have poetic forms like the first declension; as Πολυδάμας, voc. Πολυδάμα (Hom.); Αἴας, accus. Αἴαν.

2. Nouns whose singular and plural are of different genders are called heterogeneous; as (ὁ) σῖτος, corn, plur. (τὰ) σῖτα.

3. Defective nouns have only certain cases; as ὄναρ, dream, ὄφελος, use (only nom. and accus.); (τὴν) νίφα, snow (only accus.).

4. Indeclinable nouns have one form for all cases. These are chiefly foreign words, as Ἀδάμ, Ἰσραήλ; and names of letters, Ἄλφα, Βῆτα, &c.

5. Many of the most important irregularities in declension will be seen by consulting the Lexicon under the following words:—

θρίξ, τριχός, hair (§ 17, 2, Note).

LOCAL ENDINGS.

§ 61. These endings may be added to nouns to denote place :—

-θι, denoting where; as ἄλλοθι, elsewhere; οὐρανόθι, in heaven.

-θεν, denoting whence; as οἴκοθεν, from home.

-δε (-ζε or -σε), denoting whither; as οἴκαδε, homeward.

NOTE 1. In Homer, the forms in -θι and -θεν are governed by a preposition as genitives; as Ἰλιόθι πρό, before Ilium; ἐξ ἀλόθεν, from the sea.

NOTE 2. Sometimes a relic of an original locative case is found, with the ending ι in the singular and σι in the plural; as Ἴσθμοί, at the Isthmus; Ἀθήνησι, at Athens. These forms (and indeed those of § 61) are commonly classed among adverbs.

NOTE 3. The Epic ending φι or φιν forms a genitive or dative in both singular and plural. It is sometimes locative, as κλισίῃφι, in the tent; and sometimes has other meanings of the genitive or dative, as βίῃφι, with violence. So after prepositions; as παρὰ ναύφι, by the ships.

ADJECTIVES.

FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSIONS.

§ 62. 1. Most adjectives in ος have three endings, ος, η, ον. The masculine and neuter are of the second declension, and the feminine is of the first; as σοφός, σοφή, σοφόν, wise.

2. If a vowel or ρ precedes ος, the feminine ends in ᾱ; as ἄξιος, ἄξια, ἄξιον, worthy. But adjectives in οος have η in the feminine, except those in ροος; as ἀπλός, ἀπλόη, ἀπλόον, simple; ἀθρόος, ἀθρόα, ἀθρόον, crowded.

3. Σοφός, wise, and ἄξιος, worthy, are thus declined :—

Singular.

The present participles of verbs in όω (contracted ῶ) are declined in their contracted form like φιλῶν, the contracted form of φιλέων. Thus δηλῶν, δηλοῦσα, δηλοῦν, manifesting; gen. δηλοῦντος, δηλούσης; dat. δηλοῦντι, δηλούσῃ, &c. The uncontracted form of verbs in όω is not used.

NOTE. A few second perfect participles in αώς and εώς have ῶσα in the feminine, and retain ω in the oblique cases; as τεθνεώς, τεθνεῶσα, τεθνεός, dead; gen. τεθνεῶτος, τεθνεώσης, &c. Those in αώς are contracted in Attic; as έσταώς, έσταῶσα, έσταός, contr. έστῶς, έστῶσα, έστός (irregular for έστῶς); gen. έστῶτος, έστῶσης, &c. (See § 130.)

§ 70. The most important irregular adjectives are μέγας, great, and πολύς, much, which are thus declined: —

Singular.

N.	μέγας	μεγάλη	μέγα	πολύς	πολλή	πολύ

A.	μεγάλους	μεγάλας	μεγάλα	πολλούς	πολλάς	πολλά

Most of the forms of these adjectives are derived from stems in o, μεγαλο- and πολλο-. Πολλός, ή, όν, is found in Homer and Herodotus, declined regularly throughout. In Homer, πολύς has forms πολέος, πολέες, πολέων, &c., which must not be confounded with Epic forms of πόλις (§ 59).

NOTE. Πρᾶος (or πρᾶος), mild, forms its feminine like an adjective in us; as πραεῖα, πραεῖας, πραεῖα, &c. The masculine and neuter plural have forms in εῖς, έα, &c., like those of γλυκός, as well as the regular forms in οι, &c.

COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES.

I. Comparison by -τερος -τατος.

§ 71. Most adjectives add τερος to the stem to form the comparative, and τατος to form the superlative. Stems in o with a short penult change o to ω before τερος and τατος. E. g.

Σοφός (σοφο-), wise, σοφώτερος, wiser, σοφώτατος, wisest.

NOTE 1. Stems in ο do not lengthen ο to ω if the penultimate vowel is followed by a mute and a liquid (19, 3). See πικρός, above.

NOTE 2. Μέσος, middle, and a few others drop .ος and add αίτερος and αίρατος; as μέσος, μεσαίτερος, μεσαίρατος; ἴδιος, ιδιαιτέρος, ιδιαιρατος.

NOTE 3. Adjectives in οος drop ος and add έστερος and έστατος, which are contracted with ο to ούστερος and ούστατος; as εὔνοος, well-disposed, εὐνούστερος, εὐνούστατος.

NOTE 4. Adjectives in ων add έστερος and έστατος to the stem; as σώφρων (σωφρον-), prudent, σωφρονέστερος, σωφρονέστατος.

NOTE 5. Adjectives in εις change final εντ- of the stem to εσ-, and add τερος and ρατος; as χαρίεις (χαριεντ-), graceful, χαριέστερος, χαριέστατος.

II. Comparison by -ίων, -ιστος.

§ 72. 1. Some adjectives in υς and ρος are compared by changing these endings to ίων and ιστος. E. g.

Κυδρός, glorious, κυδίων, κύνδιστος.

Some adjectives have both ίων, ιστος, and τερος, ρατος.

D.		ἡδιόσι
A.	ἡδιόνας ἡδιούς	ἡδιονα ἡδίω

The terminations -ονα, -ονες, -ονας may drop ν, and be contracted into -ω and -ους. (See § 56, 2, Note.) The vocative singular of these comparatives seems not to occur.

The irregular comparatives in ων are declined like ἡδίων.

III. Irregular Comparison.

§ 73. 1. The following are the most important cases of irregular comparison :—

- | | | |
|--|--------------------------------|---------------------|
| 1. ἀγαθός, good , ἀμείνων, | ἀρίων (Hom.), | ἄριστος, |
| | βελτίων, | βέλτιστος, |
| | κρείσσων or κρείττων, | κράτιστος, |
| | φέρτερος, | φέρτατος, φέριστος, |
| | λώϊων, λῶφον, | λώϊστος, λῶφστος. |
| 2. κακός, bad , κακίων, | | κάκιστος, |
| | χειρόν, | χείριστος, |
| | ἥσσων or ἥττων (§ 108, 4, N.), | ἥκιστος (rare). |
| 3. καλός, beautiful , καλλίων, | | κάλλιστος. |
| 4. μέγας, great , μείζων (Hdt. μέζων), | | μέγιστος. |
| 5. μικρός, small , μικρότερος, | | μικρότατος, |
| | ἐλάσσων or ἐλάττων, | ἐλάχιστος, |
| | μείων | μείστος (Poetic). |
| 6. ὀλίγος, little , few, | | ὀλίγιστος, |
| | ἐλάσσων or ἐλάττων, | ἐλάχιστος. |
| 7. πένης, poor , πενέστερος, | | πενέστατος. |
| 8. πολὺς, much , πλείων or πλέων, | | πλείστος. |
| 9. ῥάδιος, easy , ῥάων, | | ῥᾶστος. |
| 10. ταχύς, swift , θάσσων (for ταχίων, § 108, 4, N.), | | τάχιστος. |
| 11. φίλος, dear , φίλτερος, | | φίλτατος. |

NOTE. Irregularities in the comparison of the following words will be found in the Lexicon :—

αἰσχροός, ἀλγεινός, ἄρπαξ, ἄφθονος, ἄχαρις, βαθύς, βλάξ, βραδύς, γεραίός, γλυκύς, ἐπιλήσμων, ἐπιχαρις, ἥσυχος, μάκαρ, μακρός, μέσος, νέος, ὀλίγος, παλαιός, παχύς, πέπων, πίων, πλησίος, πρέσβυς, προὔργου, σπουδαῖος, σχολαῖος, φίλος, ψευδής, ὥκυσ.

2. Some comparatives and superlatives have no positive, but their stem generally appears in an adverb or preposition. E. g.

Ἀνώτερος, upper, ἀνώτατος, uppermost, from ἄνω, up ; πρότερος, former, πρῶτος or πρῶτιστος, first, from πρό, before ; κατώτερος, lower, κατώτατος, lowest, from κάτω, downward.

See also in the Lexicon ἀγχότερος, ἀφάρτερος, κερδίων, ὀπλότερος, προσώτερος, ῥίγιον (neuter), ὑπέρτερος, ὕστερος, ὑψίων, φαάντερος, with their regular superlatives; also ἔσχατος and κήδιστος.

3. Comparatives and superlatives may be formed from nouns, and even from pronouns. E. g.

Βασιλεύς, king, βασιλεύτερος, a greater king, βασιλεύτατος, the greatest king, κλέπτης, thief, κλεπτίστερος, κλεπτίστατος; κύων, dog, κύντερος, more imprudent, κύντατος, most imprudent. So αὐτός, self, αὐτότατος, his very self, ipsissimus.

ADVERBS AND THEIR COMPARISON.

§ 74. 1. Adverbs are regularly formed from adjectives. Their form (including the accent) is found by changing ν of the genitive plural masculine to ς. E. g.

Φίλως, dearly, from φίλος; δικαίως, justly, from δίκαιος; σοφῶς, wisely, from σοφός; ἡδέως, sweetly, from ἡδύς (gen. plur. ἡδέων); ἀληθῶς, truly, from ἀληθής (gen. plur. ἀληθέων, ἀληθῶν); σαφῶς (Ionic σαφέως), plainly, from σαφής (gen. plur. σαφέων, σαφῶν); πάντως, wholly, from πᾶς (gen. plur. πάντων).

2. The neuter accusative of an adjective (either singular or plural) may be used as an adverb. E. g.

Πολύ and πολλά, much, from πολύς; μέγα or μεγάλα, greatly, from μέγας (also μεγάλως, § 74, 1); μόνον, only, from μόνος, alone.

NOTE. Other forms of adverbs with various terminations will be learned by practice.

§ 75. The neuter accusative singular of the comparative of an adjective forms the comparative of the corresponding adverb; and the neuter accusative plural of the superlative forms the superlative of the adverb. E. g.

Σοφῶς (from σοφός), wisely; σοφώτερον, more wisely; σοφώτατα, most wisely. Ἀληθῶς (from ἀληθής), truly; ἀληθέστερον, ἀληθέστατα. Ἡδέως (from ἡδύς), sweetly, ἡδιον, ἡδιστα. Χαριέντως (from χαρίεις), gracefully; χαριέστερον, χαριέστατα. Σωφρόνως (from σώφρων), prudently; σωφρονέστερον, σωφρονέστατα.

NOTE 1. Other adverbs generally form a comparative in τερω, and a superlative in τατω; as ἄνω, above; ἀνωτέρω, ἀνωτάτω.

A few comparatives end in τέρως; as βεβαιωτέρως, more firmly, from βεβαίως.

NOTE 2. Some adverbs are irregular in their comparison; as μᾶλα, much, very, μᾶλλον (for μαλιον), more, rather, μάλιστα, most, especially.

NUMERALS.

§ 76. The most important numerals are the cardinal and ordinal numeral adjectives, and the numeral adverbs. These are here given:—

NOTE. The dialects have the following peculiar forms: —

1–4. See § 77, 1, Note 1. Epic τρίτατος, τέτρατος.

12. Doric and Ionic δυνώδεκα; Poetic δυοκαίδεκα.

20. Epic εἰκοσι; Doric εἴκατι.

30, 80, 200, 300. Ionic τριήκοντα, ὀγδώκοντα, διηκόσιοι, τριηκόσιοι.

40. Herod. τεσσαρήκοντα.

§ 77. 1. The cardinal numbers εἷς, one, δύο, two, τρεῖς, three, and τέσσαρες (or τέτταρες), four, are thus declined: —

N.	εἷς	μία	ἓν
G.	ένός	μιάς	ένός	N. A.	δύο
D.	ένί	μῖᾱ	ένί	G. D.	δυοῖν
A.	ἓνα	μίαν	ἓν

N.	τρεῖς	τρία	τέσσαρες	τέσσαρα
G.	τριῶν		τεσσάρων
D.	τρισί		τέσσαρσι
A.	τρεῖς	τρία	τέσσαρας	τέσσαρα

NOTE 1. Homer has fem. ἱᾶ, ἱῆς, &c., for μία; and ἱᾶ for ἐνί. Homer has δύνω for δύο, and forms δαιώ, δαιοί (declined regularly). For δυνῶν, δυοῖσι, and other forms, see the Lexicon. Δύο is sometimes indeclinable. Herodotus has τέσσερες, and the poets have τέττασι.

NOTE 2. The compounds οὐδεῖς and μηδεῖς, no one, none, are declined like εἷς. Thus, οὐδεῖς, οὐδεμία, οὐδέν; gen. οὐδενός, οὐδεμῖας; dat. οὐδενί, οὐδεμῖᾱ; &c. Plural forms sometimes occur; as οὐδένες, οὐδένων, οὐδέσι, οὐδένας, μηδένες, &c. When οὐδέ or μηδέ is separated from εἰς (by a preposition or by ἀν), the negative is more emphatic; as ἐξ οὐδενός, from no one; οὐδ' ἐξ ενός, from not even one.

NOTE 3. Both is expressed by ἀμφω, ambo, ἀμφοῖν; and by ἀμφότερος, generally plural, ἀμφότεροι, ai, a.

2. The cardinal numbers from 5 to 100 are indeclinable. The higher numbers in ιοι and all the ordinals are declined regularly like other adjectives in ος.

NOTE 1. When τρεῖς καὶ δέκα and τέσσαρες καὶ δέκα are used for 13 and 14, the first part is declined. In ordinals we may say τρίτος καὶ δέκατος, &c.

NOTE 2. In compound expressions like 21, 22, &c., 31, 32, &c., 121, 122, &c., the numbers can be connected by καί in either order; but if καί is omitted, the larger precedes. Thus, εἰς καὶ εἴκοσι, one and twenty, or εἴκοσι καὶ εἰς, twenty and one; but (without καί) only εἴκοσι εἰς, twenty-one.

NOTE 3. Μύριοι means ten thousand, while μυρίοι means innumerable. We find even μυρίος, countless.

NOTE 4. Numbers are usually expressed by letters; the two obsolete letters, Vau and Koppa, and the character San, denoting 6, 90, and 900. (See § 1, Note 2.) The last letter in a numerical expression has an accent above. Thousands begin anew with α, with a stroke below. Thus, αωξή, 1868; βχκέ, 2625; δκέ, 4025; βγ', 2003; φμ', 540; ρδ', 104.

The letters of the ordinary Greek alphabet are used to number the books of the Iliad and Odyssey, each poem having twenty-four.

THE ARTICLE.

§ 78. The definite article ὁ, the (stem το-), is thus declined:—

Singular.				Dual.			Plural.
N.	ὁ	ἡ	τό	N. A.	τῶ	τά	τῶ	N.	οἱ	αἱ	τά
G.	τοῦ	τῆς	τοῦ		τῶ	τά	τῶν	G.	τῶν
D.	τῷ	τῇ	τῷ		τοῖν	ταῖν	τοῖν	D.	τοῖς	ταῖς	τοῖς
A.	τόν	τήν	τό		τοῖν	ταῖν	τοῖν	A.	τούς	τάς	τά

NOTE 1. The Greek has no indefinite article; but often the indefinite τῖς (§ 84) may be translated by a or an; as ἀνθρωπὸς τῖς, a certain man, often simply a man.

NOTE 2. The feminine dual τά is rare, and τώ is generally used for all genders. (§ 138, Note 5.) The regular nominatives τοί and ταί are Epic and Doric; and the article has the usual dialectic forms of the first and second declensions, as τοῖο, τοῖν, τάων, τοῖσι, τῇσι, τῇς.

PRONOUNS.

Personal and Intensive Pronouns.

§ 79. 1. The personal pronouns are ἐγώ, I, σύ, thou, and οὗ (genitive), of him, of her, of it. Αὐτός, himself, &c. is used as a personal pronoun for him, her, it, in the oblique cases, but never in the nominative. They are thus declined:—

Singular.

N.	ἐγώ	σύ	—	αὐτός	αὐτή	αὐτό
G.	ἐμοῦ, μου	σοῦ	οὗ	αὐτοῦ	αὐτῆς	αὐτοῦ
D.	ἐμοί, μοί	σοί	οἱ	αὐτῷ	αὐτῇ	αὐτῷ
A.	ἐμέ, μέ	σέ	ἐ	αὐτόν	αὐτήν	αὐτό

Dual.

N. A.	νώ	σφώ	(σφωέ)	αὐτώ	αὐτά	αὐτώ
G. D.	νῶν	σφῶν	(σφωῖν)	αὐτοῖν	αὐταῖν	αὐτοῖν

Plural.

N.	ἡμεῖς	ὑμεῖς	σφεῖς (σφέα)	αὐτοί	αὐταί	αὐτά
G.	ἡμῶν	ὑμῶν	σφῶν	αὐτῶν	αὐτῶν	αὐτῶν
D.	ἡμῖν	ὑμῖν	σφίσι	αὐτοῖς	αὐταῖς	αὐτοῖς
A.	ἡμᾶς	ὑμᾶς	σφᾶς (σφέα)	αὐτούς	αὐτάς	αὐτά

Σφωέ, σφωῖν, and the neuter σφέα are not used in Attic prose.

NOTE 1. Αὐτός in the nominative of all numbers, and as an adjective pronoun in the oblique cases, is intensive, like ipse (§ 145, 1); except in ὁ αὐτός, the same (§ 79, 2). For the uses of οὗ, see § 144, 2.

NOTE 2. The following is the Ionic declension of ἐγώ, σύ, and οὗ. The forms in () are not used by Herodotus.

Sing. N.	ἐγώ (ἐγών)	σύ (τύνη)
G.	ἐμεῦ, μεῦ, from ἐμέο (ἐμεῖο, ἐμέθεν)	σέο, σεῦ (σεῖο, σέθεν)	(ξο) εἶδ (εἶο, ἔθεν)
D.	ἐμοί, μοί	σοί, τοί (τεῖν)	οἶ (ἐοῖ)
A.	ἐμέ, μέ	σέ	ξ (ἐέ)

Dual N. A.	(νῶϊ, νῶ)	(σφῶϊ, σφῶ)	(σφῶε)
G. D.	(νῶϊν)	(σφῶϊν, σφῶν)	(σφῶϊν)
Plur. N.	ἡμεῖς (ἄμμες)	ὕμεῖς (ὄμμες)
G.	ἡμέων (ἡμείων)	ὕμέων (ὄμειών)	σφέων (σφείων)
D.	ἡμῖν (ἄμμι)	ὕμῖν (ὄμμι)	σφίσι, σφί(ν)
A.	ἡμέας (ἄμμε)	ὕμέας (ὄμμε)	σφέας (σφείας), σφέ

Herodotus has also σφεῖς and σφέα in the plural of the third person, which are not found in Homer.

Σφέ is used as both singular and plural, him, her, it, them, by the tragedians.

The tragedians use the Doric accusative νίν as a personal pronoun in all genders, and in both singular and plural. The Ionic form μίν is used in all genders, but only in the singular.

The poets sometimes shorten the final syllable of ἡμῖν, ἡμᾶς, ὕμῖν, ὕμᾶς, and σφᾶς, changing the circumflex to the acute; and sometimes accenting ἡμιν, ἡμας, &c.

Herodotus has αὐτέων in the feminine (not in the masculine or the neuter) for αὐτῶν (§ 39). See § 83, N. 3. The Ionic contracts ὁ αὐτός into ὠτός or ὡτός, and τὸ αὐτό into τωτό (§ 3).

2. Αὐτός preceded by the article means the same; as ὁ αὐτὸς ἀνὴρ, the same man; τὸν αὐτὸν πόλεμον, the same war. (See § 142, 4, Note 2.)

NOTE. Αὐτός is often contracted with the article; as ταυτοῦ for τοῦ αὐτοῦ; ταυτῶ for τῶ αὐτῶ; ταυτῇ for τῇ αὐτῇ (not to be confounded with ταύτῃ from οὗτος). In the contract form the neuter singular has ταυτό or ταυτόν.

Reflexive Pronouns.

§ 80. The reflexive pronouns are ἐμαυτοῦ, ἐμαυτῆς, of myself, σεαυτοῦ, σεαυτῆς, of thyself, and ἐαυτοῦ, ἐαυτῆς, of himself, herself, itself. They are thus declined:—

Singular.

	Masc.	Fem.	Masc.	Fem.
G.	ἐμαυτοῦ	ἐμαυτῆς	σεαυτοῦ or σαυτοῦ	σεαυτῆς or σαυτῆς
D.	ἐμαυτῶ	ἐμαυτῇ	σεαυτῶ or σαυτῶ	σεαυτῇ or σαυτῇ
A.	ἐμαυτόν	ἐμαυτήν	σεαυτόν or σαυτόν	σεαυτήν or σαυτήν

Plural.

	ἡμῶν αὐτῶν		ὕμῶν αὐτῶν
G.	ἡμῶν αὐτοῖς	ἡμῖν αὐταῖς	ὕμῖν αὐτοῖς	ὕμῖν αὐταῖς
D.	ἡμῖν αὐτοῖς	ἡμῖν αὐταῖς	ὕμῖν αὐτοῖς	ὕμῖν αὐταῖς
A.	ἡμᾶς αὐτούς	ἡμᾶς αὐτάς	ὕμᾶς αὐτούς	ὕμᾶς αὐτάς

Singular.			Plural.
G.	ἐαυτοῦ	ἐαυτῆς	ἐαυτοῦ	ἐαυτῶν
D.	ἐαυτῷ	ἐαυτῇ	ἐαυτῷ	ἐαυτοῖς	ἐαυταῖς
A.	ἐαυτόν	ἐαυτήν	ἐαυτό	ἐαυτούς	ἐαυτάς contracted into
G.	αὐτοῦ	αὐτῆς	αὐτοῦ	αὐτῶν
D.	αὐτῷ	αὐτῇ	αὐτῷ	αὐτοῖς	αὐταῖς
A.	αὐτόν	αὐτήν	αὐτό	αὐτούς	αὐτάς

The contracted forms of ἐαυτοῦ must not be confounded with αὐτοῦ, &c., from αὐτός.

NOTE. The reflexives are compounded of the personal pronouns and αὐτός. These appear separately in the plural of the first and second persons, and in Homer in all persons and numbers. Herodotus has ἐμεωντοῦ, σεωντοῦ, ἐωντοῦ.

Reciprocal Pronoun.

§ 81. The reciprocal pronoun is ἀλλήλων, of one another, used only in the dual and plural. It is thus declined:—

Dual.			Plural.
G.	ἀλλήλοιν	ἀλλήλαιν	ἀλλήλοιν	ἀλλήλων	ἀλλήλων
D.	ἀλλήλοιν	ἀλλήλαιν	ἀλλήλοιν	ἀλλήλοις	ἀλλήλαις
A.	ἀλλήλω	ἀλλήλα	ἀλλήλω	ἀλλήλους	ἀλλήλας

Possessive Pronouns.

§ 82. The possessive pronouns are ἐμός, my, σός, thy, ὅς, his; ἡμέτερος, our, ὑμέτερος, your, σφέτερος, their. They are declined like adjectives in ος.

NOTE. Homer has dual possessives νωῖτερος, of us two, σφωῖτερος, of you two; also τεός (Doric) for σός, ἐός for ὅς, ἀμός and ἀμός (ā) for ἡμέτερος (in Attic poetry for ἐμός), ὑμός for ὑμέτερος, σφός for σφέτερος. Ὅς is not used in Attic prose.

Demonstrative Pronouns.

§ 83. The demonstrative pronouns are οὗτος and ὅδε, this, and ἐκεῖνος, that. They are thus declined:—

Singular.

N.	οὗτος	αὕτη	τούτο	ὅδε	ἧδε	τόδε
G.	τούτου	ταύτης	τούτου	τοῦδε	τῆσδε	τοῦδε
D.	τούτῳ	ταύτῃ	τούτῳ	τῷδε	τῇδε	τῷδε
A.	τοῦτον	ταύτην	τούτο	τόνδε	τήνδε	τόδε

G. D.	τούτοιν	ταύταιν	τούτοιν	τοῖνδε	ταῖνδε	τοῖνδε

Plural.

N.	οὗτοι	αὗται	ταῦτα	οἷδε	αἷδε	τάδε
G.	τούτων	τούτων	τούτων	τῶνδε	τῶνδε	τῶνδε
D.	τούτοις	ταύταις	τούτοις	τοῖσδε	ταῖσδε	τοῖσδε
A.	τούτους	ταύτας	ταῦτα	τούσδε	τάσδε	τάδε

Singular.

N.	ἐκεῖνος	ἐκείνη	ἐκεῖνο
G.	ἐκείνου	ἐκείνης	ἐκείνου
D.	ἐκείνῳ	ἐκείνῃ	ἐκείνῳ
A.	ἐκείνον	ἐκείνην	ἐκεῖνο

Plural.

N.	ἐκεῖνοι	ἐκεῖναι	ἐκεῖνα
G.	ἐκείνων	ἐκείνων	ἐκείνων
D.	ἐκείνοις	ἐκείναις	ἐκείνοις
A.	ἐκείνους	ἐκείνας	ἐκεῖνα

Dual.

N. A.	ἐκείνω	ἐκεῖνα	ἐκείνω
G. D.	ἐκείνοιν	ἐκείναιν	ἐκείνοιν

NOTE 1. Ἐκεῖνος is regular except in the neuter ἐκεῖνο. Ὅδε is merely the article ὁ with the inseparable particle -δε added. For its accent, see § 28, N. 3.

Other demonstratives will be found among the pronominal adjectives (§ 87, 1).

NOTE 2. The demonstratives, including some adverbs (§ 87, 2), may be emphasized by the addition of long ί, before which a short vowel is dropped. Thus, οὐτοσί, αὐτηί, τουτί; ὀδί, ἡδί, τοδί; τουτουί, ταυτί, τουτωνί; τοσουτοσί, ὠδί, οὐτωσί.

NOTE 3. Herodotus has τουτέων in the feminine (not in the masculine or the neuter) for τούτων. (For αὐτέων, see § 79, 1.) Homer has τοῖσδεσι or τοῖσδεσι for τοῖσδε. The poets have κεῖνος for ἐκεῖνος.

Interrogative and Indefinite Pronouns.

§ 84. The interrogative pronoun τίς, τί, who? which? what? always takes the acute on the first syllable.

The indefinite pronoun τις, τι, any one, some one, is enclitic, and its proper accent belongs on the last syllable.

These pronouns are thus declined:—

Interrogative.			Indefinite.
Singular.
N.	τίς	τί	τις	τι
G.	τίνος, τοῦ		τινός, του
D.	τίνι, τῷ		τινί, τῷ
A.	τίνα	τί	τινά	τι
Dual.
N. A.	τινε		τινέ
G. D.	τινοιν		τινοῖν
Plural.
N.	τίνες	τίνα	τινές	τινά
G.	τίνων		τινῶν
D.	τίσι		τισί
A.	τίνας	τίνα	τινάς	τινά

For the indefinite plural τινά there is a form ἄττα (Ionic ἄσσα).

NOTE 1. Οὔτις and μήτις, poetic for οὐδείς and μηδείς, no one, are declined like τίς.

NOTE 2. The acute accent of τίς is never changed to the grave (§ 23, 1, Note). The indefinites τις and τι seldom occur with an accent, as they are enclitic (§ 27). The Ionic has τέο and τεῦ for τοῦ, τέῳ for τῷ, τέων for τίνων, and τέοισι for τίσι; also the same forms as enclitics for του, τῷ, &c.

§ 85. The indefinite δεῖνα, such a one, is sometimes indeclinable, and is sometimes declined as follows:—

	Singular.	Plural.
N.	δεῖνα	δεῖνες
G.	δεῖνος	δεῖνων
D.	δεῖνι	—
A.	δεῖνα	δεῖνας

Relative Pronouns.

§ 86. The relative pronouns are ὅς, ἥ, ὅ, who, and ὅστις, ἥτις, ὅ τι, whoever. They are thus declined:—

Singular.				Dual.			Plural.
N.	ὅς	ἥ	ὅ	N. A.	ᾧ	ᾧ	N.	οἱ	αἱ	ᾶ
G.	οὗ	ἧς	οὗ				G.	ᾧν	ᾧν	ᾧν
D.	ᾧ	ἧ	ᾧ				D.	οἷς	αἷς	οἷς
A.	ὃν	ἣν	ὃ				A.	οὖς	ᾶς	ᾶ

NOTE 1. Ὅστις is compounded of the relative ὅς and the indefinite τις, and is called the indefinite relative. Each part is declined separately. (See § 28, N. 3.) It has a form ᾅττα (Ionic ᾅσσα) for ᾶτινα in the plural, corresponding to ᾅττα for τινά (§ 84). Ὁ τι is thus written (sometimes ὅ, τι) to distinguish it from ὅτι, that.

NOTE 2. Homer has ὄσιν, ἔης, for οὗ, ἧς. The following are the peculiar Homeric forms of ὅστις:—

Singular.			Plural.
N.	ὅτις	ὅ τι	ὄτεων	ᾅσσα
G.	ὄτεν, ὄττεο, ὄττεν

PRONOMINAL ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS.

§ 87. 1. There are many pronominal adjectives which correspond to each other in form and meaning. The following are the most important :—

Interrogative.	Indefinite.	Demonstrative.	Relative.
πόσος; how much? quantus?	ποσός, of a certain quantity.	(τόσος), τοσόσδε, τοσοῦτος, so much, tantus.	ὅσος, ὁπόσος, as much, as many, quantus.
ποιός; of what kind? qualis?	ποιός, of a certain kind.	(τοῖος), τοιόσδε, τοιοῦτος, such, talis.	οἷος, ὁποῖος, of which kind, [such] as, qualis.
πῆλικος; how old? how large?	πῆλικος, of a certain age or size.	(τῆλικος), τῆλικόσδε, τῆλικοῦτος, so old or so large.	ἡλικος, ὁπῆλικος, of which age or size, [as old] as, [as large] as.
πότερος; which of the two?	πότερος (or ποτέρως), one of two (rare).	ἕτερος, the one or the other (of two).	ὁπότερος, which ever of the two.

τίς, who?	τις, any one.	ὅδε, οὗτος, this, this one.	ὅς, ὅστις, who, which.
------------------	----------------------	------------------------------------	-------------------------------

NOTE. Τόσος and τοῖος seldom occur in Attic prose, τῆλικός never. Τοσόσδε, τοιόσδε, and τῆλικόσδε are declined like τόσος and τοῖος; as τοσόσδε, τοσήδε, τοσόνδε, &c., — τοιόσδε, τοιάδε (ᾱ), τοιονδέ. (See § 28, N. 3.) Τοσοῦτος, τοιοῦτος, and τῆλικοῦτος are declined like οὗτος (omitting the first τ in τούτου, τούτο, &c.), except that the neuter singular has ο or ον; as τοιοῦτος, τοιαύτη, τοιοῦτο or τοιοῦτον; gen. τοιούτου, τοιαύτης, &c.

2. Certain pronominal adverbs correspond like the adjectives given above. Such are the following :—

Interrogative.	Indefinite.	Demonstrative.	Relative.
ποῦ; where?	πού, somewhere.	(ἐνθα), ἐνταῦθα, ἐκεῖ, there.	οὔ, ὅπου, where.
πῇ; which way? how?	πῇ, some way, some how.	(τῇ), τῇδε, ταύτη, this way, thus.	ῇ, ὅπῃ, which way, as.

ποῖ; whither?	ποῖ, to some place.	ἐκεῖσε, thither.	οἱ, ὅποι, whither.
πόθεν; whence?	ποθέν, from some place.	(τόθεν), ἔνθεν, ἐκεῖ- θεν, thence.	ὅθεν, ὁπόθεν, whence.
πῶς; how?	πῶς, in some way, somehow.	ὥς, ὥδε, οὕτως, thus.	ὥς, ὅπως, in which way, as.
πότε; when?	ποτέ, at some time.	τότε, then.	ὅτε, ὁπότε, when.

VERBS.

§ 88. 1. The Greek verb has three voices, the active, middle, and passive.

The middle voice generally signifies that the subject performs an action upon himself or for his own benefit. (See § 199.)

2. Deponent verbs are those which have no active voice, but are used in the middle or passive forms with an active sense.

§ 89. There are five moods, the indicative, subjunctive, optative, imperative, and infinitive. To these are added, in the conjugation of the verb, participles of all the principal tenses.

The first four moods, as opposed to the infinitive, are called finite moods.

§ 90. 1. There are seven tenses, the present, imperfect, perfect, pluperfect, aorist, future, and future perfect. The imperfect and pluperfect are found only in the indicative. The future and future perfect are wanting in the subjunctive and imperative. The future perfect belongs regularly to the passive voice.

2. The present, perfect, future, and future perfect indicative are called primary tenses; the imperfect, pluperfect, and aorist indicative are called secondary (or historical) tenses.

NOTE. Many verbs have tenses known as the second aorist (in all voices), the second perfect and pluperfect (active), and the second future (passive). Very few verbs have both these and the first (or the ordinary) aorist, perfect, &c.; and in such cases the two forms usually differ in meaning.

§ 91. There are three persons, the first, second, and third; and three numbers (as in nouns), the singular, dual, and plural.

§ 92. The principal parts of a Greek verb are the present, future, aorist, and perfect indicative active, and the perfect and aorist passive; as λύω, to loose, λύσω, ἔλυσα, λέλυκα, λέλυμαι, ἐλύθην.

In deponent verbs they are the present, future, perfect, and aorist indicative; as βούλομαι, to wish, βουλήσομαι, βεβούλημαι, ἐβούληθην; γίγνομαι, to become, γενήσομαι, γεγέννημαι, ἐγενόμην. So ἔρχομαι, to go, ἐλεύσομαι, ἐλήλυθα, ἦλθον.

NOTE. These parts are chosen because they show all the important tense-formations, even in an irregular verb. It will be seen from the indicative of λύω (§ 96), that there is one stem λυ- belonging to the present and imperfect, which appears (with the prefix λε-) as λελυ- in the perfect passive and middle; that there is a second form λυσ- belonging to the future active and middle, which appears (with a prefix ε-) as ελυσ- in the aorist active and middle; that there is a third form λελυκ- belonging to the perfect and pluperfect active; and that there is a fourth form λυθη-, which appears in the aorist passive as ἐλυθη- and in the future passive as λυθησ-. These are the four principal tense-stems, of which a complete table is given in § 111.

§ 93. There are two principal classes of Greek verbs, verbs in ω, and verbs in μι.

NOTE. As most verbs end in ω, many rules are given under verbs in ω which apply equally well to those in μι.

CONJUGATION OF VERBS IN Ω.

§ 94. The principal stem of a verb in ω is found by dropping ω of the present indicative active. Those whose stem ends in a vowel are called pure verbs; those whose stem ends in a mute are called mute verbs; those whose stem ends in a liquid are called liquid verbs. Thus, φιλέ-ω, λέγ-ω, στέλλ-ω.

NOTE. It often happens, especially in mute and liquid verbs, that some of the tenses are formed from a stem different from that of the present. Thus, in the examples below (§ 96), the stem of λείπω (λειπ-) appears in its two other forms λιπ- and λοιπ-, and that of στέλλω (στελλ-) in its two forms στελ- and σταλ-. (See §§ 108, 109.)

§ 95. 1. The following synopsis contains all the tenses of λύω, to loose, with the second aorist active and middle and the second perfect and pluperfect active of λείπω, to leave, and the second aorist and second future passive of στέλλω, to send. No single verb has all these tenses.

2. The following table shows the meaning of each tense of λύω in the indicative, imperative, infinitive, and participle of the active voice :—

	Indicative.	Imperative.	Infinitive.	Participle.
Pres.	I loose or am loosing.	Loose thou.	To loose or to be loosing.	Loosing.
Imp.	I was loosing.
Fut.	I shall loose.		To loose (fut.).	About to loose.
Aor.	I loosed.	Loose thou.	To loose or to have loosed.	Having loosed or loosing.
Perf.	I have loosed.	(§ 202, 2, N. 1.)	To have loosed.	Having loosed.
Plup.	I had loosed.

The meaning of each tense of the middle can be seen by adding the words for myself, for thyself, &c., to the meaning of the corresponding active form.

In the passive the tenses are changed merely to suit that voice; as I am loosed, I was loosed, I shall be loosed, I have been loosed, &c. The future perfect passive means I shall have been loosed (i. e. before some future event referred to).

NOTE. The meaning of the various forms of the subjunctive and optative cannot be fully understood until the constructions are explained in the Syntax. But the following examples will make them clearer than a mere translation of the forms:—

Λύωμεν (or λύσωμεν) αὐτόν, let us loose him; μὴ λύῃς αὐτόν, do not loose him. Ἐὰν λύω (or λύσω) αὐτόν, χαίρῃσει, if I (shall) loose him, he will rejoice. Ἐρχομαι, ἵνα αὐτόν λύω (or λύσω), I am coming that I may loose him. Εἴθε λύοιμι (or λύσαιμι) αὐτόν, O that I may loose him. Εἰ λύοιμι (or λύσαιμι) αὐτόν, χαίροι ἄν, if I should loose him, he would rejoice. Ἦλθον ἵνα αὐτόν λύοιμι (or λύσαιμι), I came that I might loose him. Εἶπον ὅτι αὐτόν λύοιμι, I said that I was loosing him; εἶπον ὅτι αὐτόν λύσαιμι, I said that I had loosed him; εἶπον ὅτι αὐτόν λύσοιμι, I said that I would loose him. For the difference between the present and aorist, see § 202, 1; for the perfect, see § 202, 2.

§ 96. The regular verb λύω, and the tenses of λείπω and στέλλω which are included in the synopsis, are thus inflected:—

Periphrastic Forms.

§ 98. 1. All verbs whose stems end in a consonant form the third person plural of the perfect and pluperfect indicative passive and middle by the perfect participle and εἰσί and ἦσαν, the present and imperfect of εἰμί, to be (§ 129).

These tenses of τρίβω (stem τριβ-), to rub, πλέκω (πλεκ-), to weave, πείθω (πειθ-), to persuade, and στέλλω (στελλ-, στέλ-, σταλ-), to send, are thus inflected:—

Perfect Indicative.

S.	1. τέτριμμαι	πέπλεγμαι	πέπεισμαι	ἔσταλμαι
	2. τέτριψαι	πέπλεξαι	πέπεισαι	ἔσταλσαι
	3. τέτριπται	πέπλεκται	πέπεισται	ἔσταλται
D.	2. τέτριφθον	πέπλεχθον	πέπεισθον	ἔσταλθον
	3. τέτριφθον	πέπλεχθον	πέπεισθον	ἔσταλθον

	3. τετριμμένοι ἦσαν	πεπλεγμένοι ἦσαν	πεπεισμένοι ἦσαν	ἐσταλμένοι ἦσαν

NOTE. The regular third person plural in these tenses (τετριβ-νται, πεπλεκ-νται, &c., like λέλυ-νται) could not be pronounced. The other variations from the corresponding forms of λύω arise from ordinary euphonic changes, which are all explained in § 16, 1, 2, 3, and 4. The regular endings (§ 112, § 117, 1, § 118) are added to the root of the tense (§ 113) with the necessary changes.

2. The perfect subjunctive and optative of the passive and middle voices is formed by the perfect participle and ᾧ or εἶην, the subjunctive and optative of εἰμί. Similar forms are sometimes used in the active voice, instead of the forms in ω and οἰμι.

NOTE. Even the perfect and pluperfect indicative are sometimes expressed by the participle and εἰμί. A similar periphrasis for the future perfect active is often necessary, as this tense is found in very few verbs; as τοῦτο ἐγνωκότες ἐσόμεθα, we shall have learned this.

3. A periphrastic future is sometimes formed by μέλλω and the present or future (seldom the aorist) infinitive; as μέλλομεν τοῦτο ποιεῖν (or ποιήσκειν), we are about to do this. (See § 202, 3, Note.)

AUGMENT.

§ 99. 1. In the secondary tenses of the indicative, and in the perfect and future perfect of all the moods and the participle, the stem of the verb receives an augment (i. e. increase) at the beginning.

2. Augment is either syllabic or temporal. The syllabic augment prefixes a syllable to verbs beginning with a consonant. The temporal augment lengthens the first syllable of verbs beginning with a vowel.

Syllabic Augment.

§ 100. Most verbs beginning with a consonant augment the imperfect and aorist by prefixing ε. E. g.

Λύω, ἔλυνον, ἔλυσα; γράφω, ἐγραφόμην, ἐγραψάμην; ρίπτω, ἔρριπτον, ἔρριψα (15, 2).

§ 101. 1. Most verbs beginning with a consonant augment the perfect and future perfect by prefixing that consonant followed by ε. This is called reduplication. E. g.

Λύω, λέ-λυκα, λέ-λυνμαι, λε-λυκέναι, λε-λυκώς, λε-λυμένος; γράφω, γέ-γραφα, γε-γράφθαι. So θύω, τέ-θυκα (§ 17, 2); φαίνω (φαν-), πέ-φασμαι (§ 113, N. 2); χαίνω, κέ-χηναι.

2. The pluperfect of these verbs is augmented by prefixing ε to the reduplication; as λέλυκα, ἐλελύκειν.

NOTE 1. A few verbs take ει instead of the reduplication; as εἴληφα, εἴληχα (from λαμβάνω, λαγχάνω).

NOTE 2. The pluperfect may omit the additional augment; as λέλυκα, plup. λελύκειν.

3. Verbs beginning with two consonants (except a mute and a liquid), with a double consonant (ζ, ξ, ψ), or with ρ, have the simple augment ε in the perfect, future perfect, and pluperfect. E. g.

Στέλλω, ἔσταλκα, ἐστάλκειν; ζητέω, ἐζήτηκα; ψεύδω, ἔψευσμαι, ἐψευσμένος; ρίπτω, ἔρριμμαι, ἐρρίφθαι (for ρρ see § 15, 2).

NOTE. Verbs beginning with γν, and some others beginning with a mute and a liquid, take ε instead of the reduplication; as γνωρίζω, ἐγνώρικα; γιγνώσκω (γνο-), ἔγνωκα; but κλείω, κέκλεικα (regularly).

Temporal Augment.

§ 102. 1. Verbs beginning with a short vowel are augmented in all forms by lengthening that vowel. If the initial vowel is long, it remains so; but ă and ā are both changed to η. E. g.

ἄγω, ἤγον, ἤχα, ἤγμαι, ἤχθην; ἐλαύνω, ἤλαυνον; ὀνειδίζω, ὀνειδίζον; ὑβρίζω (ÿ), ὑβρίσθην (ÿ); ἀκολουθέω, ἠκολούθησα, ἠκολούθηκα, ἠκολουθήκηναι, ἠκολουθηκώς; ὀρθόω, ὥρθωσα, ὥρθωμαι; αἰσσω (ā), ἤξα.

NOTE. Βούλομαι, to wish, δύναμαι, to be able, and μέλλω, to intend, may add the temporal augment to the syllabic; as ἐβουλόμην or ἡβουλόμην; ἐβουλήθην or ἡβουλήθην; ἔδυνάμην or ἡδυνάμην; ἔμελλον or ἡμελλον.

2. Verbs beginning with a diphthong receive the temporal augment on the first vowel of the diphthong. E. g.

Αἰτέω, ἤτησα; οἰκέω, ὤκησα, ὤκημένος; εὐχομαι, ἠύχόμην.

NOTE. Ου is never augmented, and ει very seldom.

§ 103. Some verbs beginning with a vowel take the syllabic augment as if they began with a consonant. When ε follows the augment, εε is contracted into ει. E. g.

ᾠθέω (stem ωθ-), to push, ῥωσα, ῥωσμαι, ῥώσθην; ἄγνυμι (stem ἀγ-), to break, ῥαξα, 2 Perf. ῥᾶγα; ἐθίζω, to accustom, εἴθισα, εἴθικα (from εἴθισα, &c.), εἰάω, to permit, εἰᾶσα, εἰᾶκα; ῥδω, to do, 2 Perf. ῥοργα.

Ὀράω, to see, takes the temporal augment after the syllabic; as έώραων, έώρακα (or έόρακα), έώραμαι. So οἶγω, to open.

NOTE. Most of these verbs originally (at least in their primitive roots) began with the consonant r (digamma), so that their augment is really regular. Thus ῥαξα is for ῥραξα, from root ray-; ῥοργα is for ῥεφοργα, from root ferγ-, which appears in English work (werk).

Attic Reduplication.

§ 104. Some verbs beginning with a, ε, or ο augment the perfect by prefixing their first two letters to the common temporal augment. This is called the Attic reduplication. E. g.

Ἀκούω (ἀκο-), ἀκήκοα; έμέω, έμήμεκα; έλέγχω, έλήλεγμαι; έλαύνω (έλα-), έλήλακα, έλήλαμαι.

Augment of Compound Verbs.

§ 105. 1. When the first part of a compound verb is a preposition, the augment follows the preposition. Prepositions (except περί and πρό) drop a final vowel before the augment ε. E. g.

Προσγράφω, προσέγραφον, προσγέγραφα; εἰσάγω, εἰσῆγον (§ 26, N. 1); έκβάλλω, έξέβαλλον (§ 13, 2); συμπλέκω, συνέπλεκον (§ 16, 5); ἀποβάλλω, ἀπέβαλλον; — but περιέβαλλον and προέλεγον.

NOTE 1. Πρό may be contracted with the augment; as προῦλεγον and προῦβαινον, for προέλεγον and προέβαινον.

NOTE 2. Some verbs not themselves compounds, but derived from nouns or adjectives compounded with prepositions, are augmented after the preposition; as ὑποπτεύω (from ὑποπτος), to suspect, ὑπόπτεουν, as if the verb were from ὑπό and ὀπτεύω. So κατηγορέω (from κατήγορος), to accuse, κατηγοροῦν (not ἐκατηγοροῦν).

NOTE 3. A few verbs take the augment before the preposition, and others have both augments; as ἀνοίγω, ἡνοιοῦν; ἀνέχω, ἡνειχόμεν, ἡνεσχόμεν (or ἡνεσχόμην).

See in the Lexicon ἀμφισβητέω, διᾱκονέω, διδιαιτάω, ἐγγυάω, παρανομέω, as examples of these irregularities and those of Note 2.

2. Compounds of δυσ-, ill, and occasionally those of εὖ, well, are augmented after the adverb, if the verb itself begins with a vowel. E. g.

Δυσαρεστέω, δυσηρέστηκα; εὐαρεστέω, εὐηρέστηκα.

NOTE. In other cases, compounds of δυσ- are augmented regularly, and those of εὖ omit the augment.

VERBAL STEMS.

§ 106. Pure verbs (§ 94) lengthen the final vowel of the stem, if it is short, in all tenses except the present and imperfect. A and e become η, and o becomes ω; but when σ follows e, i, or ρ, it becomes ᾱ. E. g.

Τιμάω (τιμᾶ-), τιμή-σω, ἐτίμη-σα, τετίμη-κα, τετίμη-μαι, ἐτιμή-θην. Φιλέω (φιλε-), φιλή-σω, ἐφίλη-σα, πεφίλη-κα, πεφίλη-μαι, ἐφίλη-θην. Δηλόω (δηλο-), δηλώ-σω, &c. So τίω, τίσω (ī); δακρύω, δακρύσω (ū). But εἰάω, εἰάσω (ā); ἰάομαι, ἰάσομαι (ā); δράω, δράσω (ā), ἔδρᾱσα, δέδρᾱκα.

Λύω has ū in the present in Attic poetry (generally ū in Homer); but generally ŷ in other tenses except the future and aorist.

NOTE 1. Ἀκροάομαι, to hear, has ἀκροάσομαι (ā), &c. Χράω, to give oracles, has χρήσω, &c.

NOTE 2. Some pure verbs retain the short vowel of the stem contrary to the general rule; as καλέω, καλέσω, ἐκάλεσα; γελάω, γελάσω (ä), ἐγέλασα; ἄρκέω, ἄρκέσω; τελέω, τελέσω. (See § 120, 2.)

§ 107. Many mute and liquid verbs form part of their tenses from a simpler stem than that which appears in the present and imperfect. E. g.

Πράσσω and ἔπρασσον are from the stem πρασσ-; but πράξω (πραγσω) and ἔπραξα are from the simple stem πραγ-. Μανθάνω and ἐμάνθανον are from the stem μανθαν-; but ἔμαθον and μαθήσομαι are from μαθ-.

NOTE 1. The simple stem must often be learned by observation; but the following rules (§ 108) for forming the stem of the present from the simple stem include the greater part of the cases that occur.

NOTE 2. A verb which has more than one stem is commonly called irregular (or anomalous), although many of the irregularities may be brought under general rules.

Formation of the Present from the Simple Stem.

§ 108. Verbs have been divided into nine classes, with reference to the formation of the present from the simple stem.

1. FIRST CLASS. (Stem unchanged.) Here the present is formed directly from the simple stem; as in λύω, λέγω, πλέκω, τρίβω, γράφω.

2. SECOND CLASS. (Lengthened Mute Stems.) Mute stems of this class lengthen short a, i, or u into η, ει, or ευ, to form the stem of the present; as τήκω (τᾱκ-), λείπω (λῑπ-), φεύγω (φῡγ-).

The simple stem here is found chiefly in second aorists and kindred forms; as ἐτάκην, ἔλιπον, ἔφυγον. For ει changed to οι in the second perfect, see § 109, 2.

3. THIRD CLASS. (Verbs in πτω, or T Class.) Simple labial (π, β, φ) stems generally add τ, and thus form the present in πτω (§ 16, 1); as κόπτω (κοπ-), βλάπτω (βλαβ-), ρίπτω (ρίφ-).

Here the simple stem cannot be determined from the present. Thus, in the examples above given, the stem is to be found in the second aorists ἐκόπην, ἐβλάβην, and ἐρρίφην; and in καλύπτω (καλύβ-), to cover, it is seen in καλύβ-η, hul.

4. FOURTH CLASS. I. (Verbs in σσω and ζω.) Presents in σσω (ττω) generally come from palatal (κ, γ, χ) stems; as πράσσω (πᾱγ-), fut. πράξω; μαλάσσω (μαλακ-, seen in μαλακός), fut. μαλάξω; ταράσσω (ταραχ-, seen in ταραχή), fut. ταράξω.

Presents in ζω may come from stems in δ or from stems in γ (or γγ); as φράζω (φραδ-), fut. φράσω, 2 aor. (Epic) πέφραδον; κομίζω (κομιδ-, seen in κομιδή), fut. κομίσω; ρέζω (ρέγ-). fut. ρέξω; κλάζω (κλαγγ-, compare clango), fut. κλάξω.

A few presents in σσω come from lingual stems; as ῥέσσω, to row (from ῥρετ-, seen in ῥέτης, rower). One in ζω and one in σσω come from labial stems; νίζω (νιβ-), to wash, fut. νίψω; and πέσσω (πεπ-), to cook, fut. πέψω.

II. (Lengthened Liquid Stems.) Simple stems in λ form presents in λλω; those in αν, αρ, εν, or ερ form presents in αινω, αιρω, εινω, or ειρω; those in ιν, υν, or υρ form presents in ινω, υνω, or υρω. Thus, στέλλω (στελ-), ἀγγέλλω (ἀγγελ-); φαίνω (φᾶν-), αἶρω (ᾶρ-), κτείνω (κτεν-), σπείρω (σπερ-); κρίνω (κρῖν-), ἀμύνω (ἀμῦν-), σύρω (σύρ-). (See § 109, N. 1.)

ὀφείλω (ὀφελ-), to be obliged, to owe, follows the analogy of stems in εν, to avoid confusion with the regular ὀφέλλω, to increase; but in Homer it has its regular form ὀφέλλω.

NOTE. The whole fourth class is called the Iota Class, as all these changes are explained by supposing an ι to have been added to the simple stem with the consequent euphonic changes. By these changes, palatals (κ, γ, χ) and rarely other mutes with ι form σς; δ (sometimes γ) with ι forms ξ; λ with ι forms λλ; ν and ρ with ι undergo metathesis (§ 14, I), and ι is then contracted with the preceding vowel (ι and νι becoming ι and υ). On the same principle are explained apparently irregular comparatives like μᾶλλον for μαλιον (§ 75, N. 2), ἐλάσσων for ἐλαχ-ιων (§ 73, 1), μέζων and μείζων for μεγ-ιων, θάσσων for ταχ-ιων (stem θαχ-, § 17, 2, Note), ἡσσων for ἡκ-ιων (cf. ἡκ-ιστος); so also feminines like μέλαινα for μελαν-ια (§ 67), σώτεira for σωτερ-ια, γλυκεῖa for γλυκε-ια. For feminine participles in ουσα, ᾶσα, and εισα, see § 119, 1, Note.

5. FIFTH CLASS. (N Class.) Many simple stems are lengthened in the present by adding αν; as ἀμαρτάν-ω (from ἀμαρτ-), αἰσθάν-ομαι (αἰσθ-). If the last vowel of the simple stem is short, a nasal (ν, μ, or γ, according to the following consonant, § 16, 5) is inserted after the vowel; as, λαμβάν-ω (from λάβ-, λαβαν-), μανθάν-ω (from μάθ-, μαθαν-), λαγχάνω (from λαχ-, λαχαν-).

Some stems add simply ν; as φθάνω (φθα-), κάμνω (καμ-).

Others add νε; as ικνέομαι (ικ-).

Others add νυ (after a vowel ννυ); as, δείκνυ-μι (δεικ-), σβέννυ-μι (σβε-). These verbs end in νμι.

6. SIXTH CLASS. (Verbs in σκω.) These add σκ or ισκ to the simple stem to form the stem of the present; as γηράσκω (γηρα-), εὐρίσκω (εὐρ-).

7. SEVENTH CLASS. (E Class.) A few simple roots add ε to form the stem of the present; as δοκέω (δοκ-), fut. δόξω; ὠθέω (ὠθ-), fut. ῶσω (§ 16, 2).

Most verbs in ew have stems in e, and belong to the first class; as ποιέω (ποιε-), fut. ποιήσω.

8. EIGHTH CLASS. (Reduplicated Verbs.) A few simple stems are reduplicated in the present by prefixing their first consonant with an i; as τιτράω (τρα-), to bore; πίπτω (πετ-) for πι-πετω; γίγνομαι (γεν-) for γι-γενομαι. Most verbs of this class end in μι; as, τίθημι (θε-), δίδωμι (δο-), ἵστημι (στα-) for σι-στα-μι. So ἵμμι (έ-) for ί-έ-μι. See § 125, 2.

9. NINTH CLASS. (Mixed Class.) This class includes those verbs in which different parts are derived from essentially different stems; as φέρω, to bear, οἶσω, ἤνεγκα, ἐνήνοχα, ἐνήνεγμαi, ἠνέχθην. Here we have three stems (οἶ-, ένεκ-, ένεγκ-) all entirely independent of the present stem φερ-.

NOTE. A verb may belong to more than one class at the same time. Thus, βαίνω (βα-), to go, adds ν to its stem (class 5), and then lengthens βάν- to βαιν- (class 4, II.), like φαίνω (φαν-). So γινώσκω (γνο-) belongs both to class 6 and to class 8.

Modification of the Simple Stem.

§ 109. The vowel of the simple stem may be variously modified in the tenses formed from it.

1. The second perfect regularly changes e of the simple stem to o, and lengthens ä to η (after ρ, to ā). E. g.

Στέργω (στεργ-), ἔστοργα; γίγνομαι (γεν-), γέγονα; τίκτω (τεκ-), τέτοκα; φαίνω (φᾶν-), πέφηνα; κράζω (κρᾶγ-), κέκρᾶγα.

2. Verbs of the second class (§ 108, 2) form the second perfect from the lengthened stem; but ει lengthened from ĩ becomes οι. E. g.

Φεύγω (φῦγ-), πέφευγα; τήκω (τᾶκ-), τέτηκα; λείπω (λιπ-), λέλοιπα.

3. When e in a monosyllabic simple stem either precedes or follows a liquid, it is generally changed to a in all tenses formed from the simple stem, except the future and aorist active and middle; except also the second perfect (§ 109, 1). E. g.

Στέλλω (στελ-), ἔσταλκα, ἔσταλμαι, ἐστάλην; τρέπω, τέτραμμαι, ἐτράφθην (Ion.), ἔτραπον, ἐτράπην, ἐτραπόμην; τρέφω (θρεφ-), τέθραμμαι, ἐτράφην, ἔτραφον; σπείρω (σπερ-), ἔσπαρμαι, ἐσπάρην.

Note 1. Four verbs in νω omit ν of the stem before terminations beginning with a consonant; κρίνω (κρίν), to separate, κέκρικα, κέκριμαι, ἐκρίθην; κλίνω (κλῖν), to incline, κέκλικα, κέκλιμαι, ἐκλίθην; πλύνω (πλύν-), to wash, πέπλῦμαι, ἐπλύθην; τείνω (τεν-), to stretch, τέτακα, τέταμαι, ἐτάθην (§ 109, 3). So κτείνω (p. 226) in some poetic forms.

When ν is not thus dropped, it regularly becomes γ before κα (§ 16, 5), and irregularly becomes σ before μαι (§ 113, N. 2); as φαίνω (φᾶν-), πέφαγκα, πέφασμαι, ἐφάνθην.

NOTE 2. For the peculiar modification of the stem in the future and aorist active and middle of liquid verbs, see §§ 120, 121.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE TENSES.

§ 110. The letters which are added to the stem of a verb to form the special stem of any tense are called the characteristic of that tense. Such are the following:—

1. Σ in the future and aorist active and middle, and in the future perfect. But in liquid verbs the future active and middle adds ε to the simple stem, and the aorist merely lengthens the last vowel of the stem (α to η, ε to ει). See §§ 120, 121.

2. Κ in the perfect and pluperfect active. But stems ending in π or β, κ or γ, merely aspirate those letters, those in φ and χ remaining unchanged.

3. Θη in the aorist passive; η in the second aorist passive. But θε and ε in the subjunctive, optative, and participle.

4. Θησ in the future passive; ησ in the second future passive.

NOTE. The present and imperfect, the second perfect and pluperfect, the second aorist active and middle, and the perfect and pluperfect passive and middle, have no characteristic. In these tenses the stem undergoes only the modifications already described.

§ 111. The stem of a verb with the proper characteristics gives the stem of each tense. Thus, λύω (λυ-), τρίβω (τριβ-), and στέλλω (στελ-) have the following special tense-stems:—

I.	(a.) Pres. & Imp. of all voices	λν-	τριβ-	(a.) στελλ-
	(b.) Pf. & Plup. pass. & mid.			(b.) στᾶλ- (§ 109, 3)
II.	(a.) Future active and middle	λυσ-	τριψ-	(a.) στελε- (§ 120, 1)
	(b.) Aorist active and middle			(b.) στειλ- (§ 121)
	(c.) Future Perfect.			(c.) —
III.	Perf. and Plup. active	λυκ-	τριφ-	σταλκ-

IV. (a.) Future passive	λυθησ-	τριφθησ-	—
(b.) Second Future passive	—	—	σταλησ-
V. (a.) Aorist passive	λυθη-(λυθε-)	τριφθη-(τριφθε-)	—
(b.) Second Aorist passive	—	—	σταλη-(σταλε-)

By adding the terminations and connecting vowels (§§ 112, 114–119) to these tense-stems, and prefixing the augment when necessary, any tense of a regular verb can be formed.

ENDINGS AND CONNECTING VOWELS.

Indicative.

§ 112. The endings which are peculiar to the different persons of the verb are called personal endings. These have one form for the active voice, and another for the passive and middle; but the aorist passive has the endings of the active.

The personal endings of the indicative are as follows :—

Active.			Passive and Middle.
	Primary Tenses.	Secondary Tenses.		Primary Tenses.	Secondary Tenses.
Sing. 1.	μι or —	ν or —	μαι	μην
2.	ς (σι)	ς	σαι	σο
3.	σι (τι) or —	—	ται	το
Dual. 2.	τον	τον	σθον	σθον
3.	τον	την	σθον	σθην
Plur. 1.	μεν (μες)	μεν (μες)	μεθα	μεθα
2.	τε	τε	σθε	σθε
3.	νσι (ντι)	ν or σαν	νται	ντο

NOTE. The forms enclosed in () are primitive forms, not Attic, but found in other dialects. The active endings μι and σι in the first and third person singular are not used in the indicative except in verbs in μι, verbs in ω having no endings in these persons. The original ending σι of the second person singular is found only in the Epic έσ-σί, thou art. In the third person singular τι is Doric, as τίθη-τι for τίθησι; and it occurs in Attic in έσ-τί, he is. In the third person plural νσι always drops ν and lengthens the preceding vowel, as in λύνουσι for λυο-νσι (§ 16, 5); the original form ντι is Doric, as φέρουντι for φέρουσι (Lat. ferunt). The perfect indicative of all verbs, and the present indicative of verbs in μ i (§ 125, 1, N. 2), have $\alpha\sigma\iota$ (for $\alpha\sigma\iota$) in the third person plural.*

§ 113. In the perfect and pluperfect passive and middle, and in the aorist passive, the terminations are added directly to the stem of the tense; as $\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\upsilon\text{-}\mu\alpha\iota$, $\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\upsilon\text{-}\sigma\alpha\iota$, $\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\upsilon\text{-}\tau\alpha\iota$; $\epsilon\lambda\epsilon\lambda\upsilon\text{-}\mu\eta\nu$, $\epsilon\lambda\epsilon\lambda\upsilon\text{-}\sigma\sigma\circ$; $\epsilon\lambda\upsilon\theta\eta\text{-}\nu$, $\epsilon\lambda\upsilon\theta\eta\text{-}\varsigma$, $\epsilon\lambda\upsilon\theta\eta$ (§ 111).

NOTE 1. Many pure verbs insert σ before all terminations not beginning with σ , in the perfect, pluperfect, and aorist passive. This is especially common in verbs which retain the short vowel of the stem (§ 106, N. 2). Thus, $\tau\epsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, $\tau\epsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\sigma\text{-}\mu\alpha\iota$ (for $\tau\epsilon\tau\epsilon\lambda\epsilon\text{-}\mu\alpha\iota$), $\acute{\epsilon}\tau\epsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\theta\eta\nu$, $\tau\epsilon\lambda\epsilon\sigma\theta\eta\nu\alpha\iota$. (See Note 4.)

NOTE 2. Verbs in $\nu\omega$ generally change ν to σ before μ in the perfect and pluperfect passive and middle, the ν remaining unchanged before other letters. Thus, $\phi\alpha\acute{\iota}\nu\omega$ (root $\phi\acute{\alpha}\nu\text{-}$), $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\phi\alpha\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$, $\pi\acute{\epsilon}\phi\alpha\tau\alpha\iota$, $\pi\epsilon\phi\acute{\alpha}\nu\theta\alpha\iota$, $\acute{\epsilon}\phi\acute{\alpha}\nu\theta\eta\nu$. (See Note 4.) The regular change of ν to μ (§ 16, 5) is very rare in verbs in $\nu\omega$.

For four verbs which drop ν in all tenses before consonants, see § 109, 3, N. 1.

* Among the original active endings, inherited from the parent language of the Greek, Latin, Sanskrit, German, &c., were $\mu\iota$, $\sigma\iota$, $\tau\iota$, in the singular, and $\nu\tau\iota$ in the third person plural. In the past tenses, these were first shortened by dropping ι , and became μ , ς , τ , and $\nu\tau$, in which form they appear in Latin. In $\mu\iota$, $\sigma\iota$, and $\tau\iota$, and in the original $\mu\epsilon\varsigma$ in the first person plural (compare Latin mus), we see the roots of the personal pronouns, I, thou, he, and we (compare $\acute{\mu}\acute{\epsilon}$, $\sigma\acute{\epsilon}$, $\tau\acute{\omicron}\nu$, and the Epic $\acute{\alpha}\mu\text{-}\mu\epsilon\varsigma$), which were originally appended to the verbal root, instead of being prefixed as in English. These forms therefore really include the pronoun, which is commonly said to be omitted.

A comparison of the various forms of the present indicative of the verb to be (whose original stem is as-, in Greek and Latin es-), as it appears in Sanskrit, the older Greek, Latin, Old Slavic, and Lithuanian (the most primitive modern language, still spoken on the Baltic), will illustrate the Greek verbal endings.

Singular.

Sanskrit.	Greek.	Latin.	Old Slavic.	Lithuanian.
1. as-mi	$\acute{\epsilon}\mu\text{-}\mu\acute{\iota}$ (for $\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\text{-}\mu\iota$)	(e)s-um	yes-m'	es-mi
2. asi	$\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\text{-}\sigma\acute{\iota}$	es	yesi	esi
3. as-ti	$\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\text{-}\tau\acute{\iota}$	es-t	yes-t'	es-ti

Plural.

1. s-mas	$\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\text{-}\mu\acute{\epsilon}\nu$ (Dor. $\epsilon\lambda\mu\acute{\epsilon}\varsigma$)	s-u-mus	yes-mi	es-me
2. s-tha	$\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\text{-}\tau\acute{\epsilon}$	es-tis	yes-te	es-te
3. s-a-nti	$\acute{\epsilon}\nu\tau\acute{\iota}$ (Doric)	s-u-nt	s-u-t'	es-ti

NOTE 3. Such combinations as γγμ, μμμ, ρμμ, drop the middle letter; as ἐλέγχω, ἐλήλεγ-μαι (for ἐληλεγχ-μαι, ἐληλεγγ-μαι); κάμπτω, κέκαμ-μαι (for κεκαμπ-μαι, κεκαμμ-μαι); τέρπω, τέτερ-μαι (for τετερπ-μαι, τετερμ-μαι). See § 16, 3.

NOTE 4. It will be seen that the endings before which σ is inserted (as in Note 1) are the same as those before which a final lingual (τ, δ, θ) in the stem is changed to σ (§ 16, 1 and 3), and those before which no σ is inserted (those beginning with σ) are those before which a lingual is dropped (§ 16, 2). These classes of verbs therefore inflect these tenses alike as regards σ, the terminations remaining unchanged. On the other hand, the σ before μ in πέφασμαι and ἐπεφάσμην (Note 2) is an irregular substitute for ν of the stem; which ν reappears before all other letters, causing σ to be dropped in σθον and σθε (§ 16, 4). In the following comparison of the perfect passive of τελέω (τελε-) with that of πείθω (πειθ-) and that of φαίνω (φαν-), the distinction is shown by the hyphens.

	2.	τετέλε-σαι	πέπει-σαι	πέφαν-σαι
	3.	τετέλε-σ-ται	πέπεισ-ται	πέφαν-ται
Dual.	2. 3.	τετέλε-σθον	πέπει-σθον	πέφαν-θον
Plural.	1.	τετελέ-σ-μεθα	πεπεισ-μεθα	πεφάσ-μεθα
	2.	τετέλε-σθε	πέπει-σθε	πέφαν-θε
	3.	τετελε-σ-μένοι εισί	πεπεισ-μένοι εισί	πεφασ-μένοι εισί

§ 114. 1. In all the tenses of verbs in ω not included in § 113, a vowel (or diphthong) called the connecting vowel stands between the stem and the ending.

This vowel is added to the stem even when there is no personal ending (§ 112, Note).

The following are the connecting vowels of the indicative, in the present, future, and imperfect of all voices, and in the second aorist active and middle : —

	Singular.		Dual.	Plural.
	Active.				Pass. & Mid.
	Primary.	Secondary.	All tenses.	All voices & tenses.
1.	ω	ο	ο		ο
2.	ει	ε	ε	ε	ε
3.	ει	ε	ε	ε	ο

The connecting vowel is a in all persons of the aorist middle; and in the perfect and aorist active except the third person singular, where it is ε. In the pluperfect active it is ει; but in the third person plural it is ει or ε, generally ε.

Further, the aorist active and middle retain α in the dependent moods and the participle, except in the second person singular of the imperative active and in the subjunctive.

2. The personal endings of the indicative united with the connecting vowels are as follows:—

I. Active.

	Pres. & Fut.	Perf. Aor.	Imp. & 2 Aor.	Plup.
Sing.	1. ω	ᾶ	ον	ειν
	2. εις	ᾶς	ες	εις
	3. ει	ε	ε	ει
Dual.	2. ετον	ᾶτον	ετον	ειτον
	3. ετον	ᾶτον ᾶτην	ετην	ειτην
Plur.	1. ομεν	ᾶμεν	ομεν	ειμεν
	2. ετε	ᾶτε	ετε	ειτε
	3. ουσι	ᾶσι ᾶν	ον	εισαν
				ΟΙ εσαν

II. Passive and Middle.

	Pres., Fut., and Fut. Perf.	Imp. Pass. & Mid. & 2 Aor. Middle.	Aor. Middle.
Sing.	1. ομαι	ομην	ᾶμην
	2. η or ει (for ει)	ου (for εο)	ω (for αο)
	3. εται	ετο	ᾶτο
Dual.	2. εσθον	εσθον	ασθον
	3. εσθον	εσθην	ασθην
Plur.	1. ομεθα	ομεθα	ᾶμεθα
	2. εσθε	εσθε	ασθε
	3. ονται	οντο	αντο

By adding these terminations to the different tense-stems (§ 111), all the tenses of the indicative, except those included in § 113, may be formed.

For forms of the pluperfect in η for ειν, and ειν for ει, see § 122.

NOTE 1. The endings σαι and σο in the second person singular of the passive and middle always drop σ after a connecting vowel

(§ 16, 4, N.), and are then contracted with the connecting vowel. Thus, λύη or λύει is for λύεσαι, λύειαι; ἐλύον is for ἐλύεσο, ἐλύεο; ἐλύσω (aor. middle) is for ἐλύσασο, ἐλύσαο. (See § 122, 2.)

The second persons βούλει, οἶει, and ὄψει have no forms in η.

NOTE 2. A first person dual in μέθον is found very rarely in poetry.

Subjunctive.

§ 115. The Subjunctive has the primary endings of the indicative, with long connecting vowels, ω, η, and η, for ω (or ο), ε, and ει.

Active.			Passive and Middle.
Sing.	Dual.	Plural.	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
1. ω		ωμεν	ωμαι		ωμεθα
2. ης	ητον	ητε	η (for ηαι)	ησθον	ησθε
3. η	ητον	ωσι (for ωνσι)	ηται	ησθον	ωνται

For the perfect subjunctive passive and middle, see § 98, 2.

NOTE. The aorist passive subjunctive has the active terminations (as given above), which are contracted with the final ε of the characteristic; as λυθέω, λυθῶ, &c.

Optative.

§ 116. The Optative has the secondary terminations of the indicative, but usually has μί for ν in the first person singular. The connecting vowel is regularly ο; but in the aorist active and middle it is α. To this the optative adds the vowel ι, making οι and αι. In the third person plural active, ε is inserted before ν.

Active.			Passive and Middle.
Sing.	Dual.	Plural.	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
1. οιμι		οιμεν	οιμην		οιμεθα
2. οισ	οιτον	οιτε	οιο	οισθον	οισθε
3. οι	οιτην	οιεν	οιτο	οισθην	οιντο

Aorist Active.			Aorist Middle.
Sing.	Dual.	Plural.	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
1. αιμι		αιμεν	αιμην		αιμεθα
2. αις	αιτον	αιτε	αιο	αισθον	αισθε
3. αι	αιτην	αιεν	αιτο	αισθην	αιντο

For the perfect optative passive and middle, see § 98, 2.

NOTE 1. The Attic generally uses the Aeolic terminations ειας, ειε, and ειαν, for αις, αι, αιεν, in the aorist active. See λύω (page 66).

NOTE 2. In certain cases the optative uses the regular secondary ending ν in the first person singular, and σαν in the third person plural. The endings are then always preceded by ιη. This takes place

(a.) in the aorist and second aorist passive, where the characteristic θε or ε (§ 110, 3) is contracted with ιη into θειη or ειη; as in λυθε-ιη-ν, λυθείην; σταλε-ιη-ν, σταλείην. See the paradigm, where contracted forms of the dual and plural are given.

(b.) in the present and second aorist active of verbs in ημι and ωμι. See § 127, 3.

(c.) in the present of contract verbs. Here the regular connecting vowel ο is contracted with ιη into οιη, to which the endings ν, &c., are added; then the form undergoes the regular contraction with the final vowel of the stem. Thus, φιλε-ο-ιη-ν, φιλεοίην, φιλοίην; τιμα-ο-ιη-ν, τιμαοίην, τιμώην. (See § 123.)

A few verbs have οιην in the second perfect optative; as πέφευγα, πέφευγοίην. So σχοίην, 2 aor. opt. of ἔχω.

Imperative.

§ 117. 1. The personal endings of the imperative are as follows:—

Active.			Passive and Middle.
Sing.	Dual.	Plural.	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
2. θι or —	τον	τε	σο or ο	σθον	σθε
3. τω	των	τωσαν or ντων	σθω	σθων	σθωσαν or σθων

2. The regular connecting vowel of the imperative is ε; but before ν it is ο, and in the aorist active and middle it is αι. The second person singular in the aorist active ends in ον, and in the aorist middle in αι. The endings united with the connecting vowels are as follows:—

Active.			Passive and Middle.
Sing.	Dual.	Plural.	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
2. ε	ετον	ετε	ου (for εο)	εσθον	εσθε
3. ετω	ετων	ετωσαν	εσθω	εσθων	εσθωσαν or οντων			or εσθων
Aorist Active.			Aorist Middle.
2. ον	ατον	ατε	αι	ασθον	ασθε
3. ατω	ατων	ατωσαν	ασθω	ασθων	ασθωσαν
		or αντων			or ασθων

3. Θι in the second person singular active is found only when no connecting vowel is used. It is retained in verbs in μι, and in the aorist passive (§ 113). The aorist passive adds the ordinary active terminations (θι, τω, &c.) directly to the characteristic θη (§ 110, 3), after which θι becomes τι (§ 17, 3); as λύθη-τι, λυθή-τω, &c.

The second aorist passive adds the same terminations to the characteristic η; as στάλη-θι, σταλή-τω, &c.

Both aorists have ετων in the third person plural.

Infinitive.

§ 118. The terminations of the infinitive (including the connecting vowels) are as follows:—

Present and Future Active	ει-ν
Second Aorist Active	έει-ν (contr. -ειν)
Perfect Active	έ-ναι
Aorist Active	αι
Aorist Passive (no connecting vowel)	ναι
Perf. Pass. and Mid. (no connecting vowel)	σθαι
Aorist Middle	α-σθαι
Other tenses, Passive and Middle	ε-σθαι

Participles and Verbals.

§ 119. 1. The stem of the active participle ends in ντ (τ in the perfect), which is joined to the stem of the tense by the connecting vowel ο (α in the aorist).

The passive and middle participle ends in μενος, preceded by the connecting vowel ο (α in the aorist middle). The aorist passive participle takes the active form (ντ) without a connecting vowel; as, λυθε-, λυθε-ντ- (nom. λυθείς, § 46, 2).

NOTE. Participial stems in ντ add σα to form the stem of the feminine, where most adjectives add ια (§ 108, 4, Note); as, λυνοντ-σα, λύουσα; ισταντ-σα, ιστάσα; λυθεντ-σα, λυθείσα (§ 16, 5, N. 1).

2. The stem of the verbal adjectives in τος and τέος is formed by adding το- or τεο- to the stem of the verb, which has the same form here as in the aorist passive; as λυτός, λυτέος (stems λυ-το-, λυ-τεο-); τριπτός, πειστέος (stems τριπ-το-, πεισ-τεο-).

PECULIAR FORMS OF FUTURE AND AORIST.

§ 120. 1. Liquid verbs form the future active by adding έω, contracted ώ, to the simple stem ; and the future middle by adding έομαι, contracted οὔμαι. See the examples, § 97.

2. Some futures in εσω from verbs in εω (§ 106, N. 2) drop σ and contract έω to ώ ; as, καλέω, fut. καλέσω, καλέω, καλῶ ; τελέω, fut. τελέσω, τελέω, τελῶ. These futures have the same form as the present.

Some futures in ᾶσω from verbs in αζω are contracted in the same way ; as βιβάζω, fut. βιβάσω, βιβάω, βιβῶ. So ελαύνω (έλα-), fut. ελάσω, ελάω, έλῶ. So in the middle, μάχομαι (μαχε-), fut. μαχέσομαι, μαχέομαι, μαχοὔμαι.

3. Futures in ῖσω and ῖσομαι from verbs in ιζω regularly drop σ and insert ε ; then ιέω and ιέομαι are contracted into ιῶ and ιούμαι ; as κομίζω, fut. κομίσω, κομιέω, κομιῶ (κομιείς, κομιεῖ, &c.) ; κομίσομαι, κομιούμαι (κομιεῖ, κομιεῖται, &c.).

The forms described in § 120, 2 and 3, are called Attic Futures.

NOTE. A few verbs have a future perfect active, generally formed by adding σω to the stem of the perfect ; as, θνήσκω (τέθνηκα), τεθνήξω ; ἵστημι (ἔστηκα), ἑστήξω.

§ 121. Liquid verbs form the aorist active and middle by adding α, αμην, to the augmented simple stem and lengthening the preceding vowel (α to η, and ε to ει) ; as ἀγγέλλω (ἀγγελ-) ἤγγειλα ; φαίνω (φᾶν-), ἔφηνα, ἔφηνάμην.

NOTE 1. Some verbs in αινω (especially those in ιαινω and ραινω) change αι to ᾱ (not α) in the aorist ; as πιαίνω, ἐπιᾶνα ; περαίνω, ἐπέρᾶνα ; κερδαίνω, ἐκέρδᾶνα.

NOTE 2. Three verbs, δίδωμι, ἵμι, and τίθημι, form the aorist in κα : — ἔδωκα, ἦκα, ἔθηκα. These forms are seldom used except in the indicative ; and they are most common in the singular, where the second aorists ἔδων, ἦν, and ἔθην are not in use. (See § 126, 2, and § 129.) Even ἠκάμην and ἔθηκάμην occur, the latter not in Attic Greek.

Dialectic Forms of Verbs in Ω.

§ 122. 1. AUGMENT. The temporal augment is often omitted by Herodotus, and both syllabic and temporal augment by the Epic and Lyric poets.

In Homer, a liquid (especially λ) may be doubled, like ρ, after the augment ϵ ; as ἔλλαχον for ἔλαχον. So sometimes σ ; as ἐσσεύοντο from σείω.

The second aorist active and middle in all the forms sometimes has a reduplication in Homer; as φράζω, to tell, πέφραδε; κάμνω, to labor, subj. κεκάμω; κέλωμαι, to order, κεκλόμην (for ἐκελόμην). The indicative here may prefix the syllabic augment to the reduplication; as ἐκεκλόμην, ἔπεφνον (from φεν-), ἐπέφραδον.

2. TERMINATIONS. Doric μέσ for μέν, τᾶν for τήν, μᾶν for μήν, οντι for ουσί, αντι for ᾄσι. Hom. τον for τήν, σθον for σθην, in the dual. Poetic μεσθα for μεθα.

(Indicative.) When σ is dropped in σαι and σο of the second person (§ 114, 2, N. 1), the Ionic often keeps the uncontracted forms εαι, ηαι, αο, εο; but εο may become ευ. In Hom. σαι and σο sometimes drop σ even in the perf. and pluperf.; as μέμνηται for μέμνησαι, ἔσσυτο for ἔσσυσο.

The Ionic has iterative endings σκον and σκομην in the imperfect, and in both aorists active and middle. They are added to the tense-stem, with ϵ (α in first aorist) inserted after a preceding consonant; as ἔχω, ἔχ-εσκον; πωλέομαι, πωλέ-σκετο; ἐρύω, ἐρύσ-ασκε. These forms denote repetition, and omit the augment.

The Ionic has αται and ατο for νται and ντο in the third person plural of the perfect and pluperfect, and ατο for ντο in the optative. Hdt. has αται and ατο also in the present and imperfect of verbs in μι (§ 128). Before these endings, π, β, κ, and γ are aspirated (φ, χ); as κρύπτω (κρυβ-), κεκρύφ-αται, λέγω, λελέχ-αται, λελέχ-ατο. These forms occur occasionally in Attic. When they are used, the periphrastic forms (§ 98, 1) are of course unnecessary.

The Ionic has εα, εας, εε(ν), for ειν, εις, ει, in the pluperfect; whence come Attic forms in η, ης (for εα, εας), and ειν (for εεν).

The Ionic has the uncontracted forms of the future of liquid verbs (in εω and εομαι), and of the aorist subjunctive passive (in εω); as μενέω, λυθέω (Attic μενῶ, λυθῶ). So in the aorist subj. act. of verbs in μι, the Homeric forms of which belong also to the ordinary aorist subj. passive. (See § 128.)

The Doric has σεω, σεομαι (contracted σῶ, σοῦμαι or σεῦμαι) for σω, σομαι in the future. The Attic has σοῦμαι in the future middle of a few verbs; as πλέω, to sail, πλεύσομαι or πλευσοῦμαι; πνέω, to breathe, πνεύσομαι or πνευσοῦμαι; φεύγω, to flee, φεύξομαι or φευξοῦμαι; πίπτω, (πес-), only πεσοῦμαι.

In Homer, σ is often doubled in the future and aorist after a short vowel; as γελάω, to laugh, ἐγέλασσα for ἐγέλασα.

In Homer, ησαν in the aor. pass. indic. often becomes εν; as ὥρμηθεν for ὥρμήθησαν. So in the aor. active of verbs in μι (§ 128).

In Homer, the second aorist middle sometimes omits the connecting vowel; as in ἄλτο, ἄλμενος (for ἄλετο, &c.), from ἄλλομαι (αλ-), to leap.

(Subj. and Opt.) In Homer, the subjunctive often has the short connecting vowels of the indicative (ε and ο for η and ω); as ἴομεν, μίσσεται (for ἴωμεν, μίσσηται). In the subjunctive active, Hom. often has ωμι, ἦσθα, ἦσι, for ω, ἦς, ἦ. For the aor. pass. subj. see § 128, 2.

The Aeolic forms of the aorist optative active, ειας, ειε, and ειαν, are the regular forms in all dialects; the Aeolic uses also first persons in εια and ειμεν.

(Infinit.) Homer has ἐμεναι and ἐμεν in the infinitive for εἶν; as ἀμν-νέμεναι or ἀμννέμεν for ἀμύνειν; ἐλθέμεναι or ἐλθέμεν for ἐλθεῖν. The Ionic has the uncontracted second aorist infinitive in εῖν for εἶν; as βαλέειν, βαλεῖν; ἰδέειν, ἰδεῖν.

The uncontracted forms of these tenses are never used in Attic Greek. Those of verbs in αω sometimes occur in Homer; those of verbs in εω are common in Homer and Herodotus; but those of verbs in οω are never used. See, however, § 124.

NOTE 1. Dissyllabic verbs in εω contract only εε and εει. Thus πλέω, to sail, has pres. πλέω, πλείς, πλεῖ, πλείτον, πλέομεν, πλείτε, πλέουσι; imperf. ἔπλεον, ἔπλεις, ἔπλει, &c.; infin. πλεῖν; partic. πλέων.

Δέω, to hind, is the only exception, and is contracted in most forms; as δούσι, δούμαι, δούνται, ἔδουν, partic. δῶν, δοῦν.

NOTE 2. A few verbs in αω have η for α in the contracted forms; as διψάω, διψῶ, to thirst, διψῆς, διψῆ, διψῆτε; imperf. ἐδίψων, ἐδίψης, ἐδίψη; infin. διψῆν. So ζάω, to live, πεινάω, to hunger, χράω with χράομαι, and a few others.

NOTE 3. 'Ριγώω, to shiver, has infinitive ῥιγῶν (for ῥιγοῦν), and other similar forms in ω. 'Ιδρώω, to sweat, has ἰδρῶσι, ἰδρῆ, ἰδρῶντι, &c.

NOTE 4. The third person singular of the imperfect active does not take ν movable in the contracted form; thus ἐφίλειε or ἐφίλειεν, but ἐφίλει (never ἐφίλειεν). Except ἐχρῆν or χρῆν (for ἔχραεν, see Note 2), and a very few poetic forms.

Dialectic Forms of Contract Verbs.

§ 124. 1. (Verbs in αω.) Verbs in αω are generally contracted regularly in Homer and Herodotus, except in the following cases:—

In Homer, a contracted ω is often protracted into οω or ωω, and α contracted α into ἀα or ἀα; as ὀρώω for ὀρῶ, ὀρώωσι for ὀρώσι, ὀρώωμι for ὀρώμι; μενοινῶω for μενοινῶ, ἡβῶωσα for ἡβῶσα; ὀράασθε for ὀράσθε, ὀράα for ὀρά, αἰτιόωω for αἰτιόω (opt. of αἰτιάομαι). The long vowel (ω or α) is prefixed chiefly when the preceding vowel is long, to suit the metre. Sometimes ω is protracted into ωω, as in ἡβῶωντες for ἡβῶντες; and sometimes ω becomes ωοι, as ἡβῶοιμι for ἡβῶμι.

Homer sometimes has εον for αον in the imperfect. Herodotus changes α to ε before ω, ου, and ο; as ὀρέω, ὀρέομεν, ὀρέουσι, ὤρεον.

2. (Verbs in εω.) Verbs in εω generally remain uncontracted in both Homer and Herodotus. But sometimes εο or εου becomes ευ; and in Homer, sometimes εε or εει becomes ει.

The Ionic often drops the connecting vowel ε in the second person singular of the passive and middle, thus changing ἔσαι, ἔσο, into ἔαι, ἔο; as μυθεῖαι for μυθέεαι (from μυθέομαι), φοβέαι and φοβέο (from φοβέομαι), ἐξηγέο (from ἐξηγέομαι). Besides thus omitting ε, the forms ἔσαι and ἔσο are often in Homer contracted into εἶαι and εἶο; as μυθεῖαι, αἰδεῖαι, αἰδεῖο.

In Homer, final ε of the stem is often lengthened into ει; as νεικείω, πνείω, for νεικέω, πνέω. So in ἐτελεί-ετο from τελέω, τελείω. A similar change takes place in εω of the aorist passive subjunctive, &c. (§ 128).

3. (Verbs in οω.) Verbs in οω are always contracted; but Herodotus sometimes has ευ for ου, as in ἐδικαίειν, ἀξιεύμεθα. In Homer, protracted forms occur, which would naturally come from verbs in αω; as ἀρώωσι (from ἀρώω, to plough), formed as if from ἀρά-ω, like ὀρώωσι, above; so δηῶωντο (from δηῶω).

VERBS IN MI.

§ 125. 1. Some pure verbs omit the connecting vowels in most forms of the present and imperfect, and of the second aorist active and middle. The terminations (§ 112) are added directly to the stem; the final vowel of which is lengthened in the singular of the present and imperfect indicative, and throughout the second aorist indicative, imperative, and infinitive, in the active voice. See § 127, N. 1.

NOTE 1. As the original terminations μι and σι are retained in the present indicative of these verbs, they are called verbs in μι. (See § 93.) The forms of the second aorist here mentioned very often do not belong to presents in μι, but are irregular tenses of verbs in ω. Such are ἔβην, ἔγνων, ἐπτάμην, from βαίνω, γινώσκω, πέτομαι. Such tenses are called μι-forms. (See § 130.)

These forms generally retain the original σαι and σο in the second person passive and middle. But in the second aorist and in the subjunctive and optative, σ is omitted and contraction takes place; as in θοῦ for θέσο, ἔθου for ἔθεσο. This sometimes takes place in other forms. The secondary tenses have σαν in the third person plural.

NOTE 2. The third person plural has a connecting vowel α before νσι making ᾱσι, which is contracted with a preceding α; as ἰσᾱσι for ἰστα-α-νσι, τιθέᾱσι, διδόᾱσι, δεικνύᾱσι. Forms in ῖσι, οῦσι, and ῦσι, from stems in ε, ο, and υ, are rare in Attic, but regular in Ionic.

2. Many verbs in μι prefix a reduplication to the stem in the present and imperfect. (§ 108, 8.) This consists of the first consonant of the stem with ι; but stems beginning with two consonants prefix ι. Thus, τίθημι (stem θε-), δίδωμι (δο-), ἵστημι (στα-).

§ 126. 1. The following is a synopsis of ἵστημι, to set (stem στα-), τίθημι, to put (stem θε-), δίδωμι, to give (stem δο-), and δείκνυμι, to show (stem δεικνυ-).

As ἵστημι wants the second aorist middle, ἐπριάμην, I bought (from a stem πρια- which has no present), is added; and as δείκνυμι wants the second aorist active, ἔδυν, I entered (from δύνω, formed as if from δυ-μι), is added. The optative δύην (contracted for δυ-ίην) is found in Homer. Ordinary verbs in νμι have no second aorist middle.

REMARK. The following remarks apply only to the tenses which are mentioned in § 125, 1. In other tenses verbs in μι follow the general rules for verbs in ω (§ 93, Note).

§ 127. 1. Most verbs in μι may be inflected in some of their parts like verbs in αω, εω, οω, and υω. Especially, verbs in υμι form their present subjunctive and optative like verbs in υω. The forms ἔτιθεις, ἔτιθει (as if from τιθέω), and ἐδίδουν, ἐδίδους, ἐδίδου (as if from διδόω) are much more common than the regular forms. (See the paradigms, and § 127, 3.)

2. The subjunctive of verbs in ημι and ωμι has the regular connecting vowels ω and η, which are contracted with the final vowel of the stem; as τιθῶ, θῶ, τιθῶμαι, for τιθέω θέω, τιθέωμαι; διδῶ for διδόω. Verbs in μι from stems in α have ᾶ, ῆς, ῆ in the subjunctive, as if from εω, εης, εη (see ἴστημι and § 128, 2); those from stems in ο have ῶ, ῶς, ῶ (§ 9, 2 & 4), not οῖς, οῖ (§ 9, 4, N.).

3. The optative active of verbs in ημι and ωμι is formed like the aorist optative passive of verbs in ω, by adding to the stem the secondary endings (§ 112) preceded by ιη; as ἴστα-ίη-ν, τιθε-ίη-ν, διδο-ίη-ν. (See § 116, N. 2.) The optative passive and middle adds to the stem the regular endings preceded by ι; as ἴστα-ί-μην, τιθε-ί-μην, διδο-ί-μην (ἴσταῖο, τιθεῖο, &c., § 24, 1). τίθημι sometimes has τιθοίμην, τιθοῖο, &c. for τιθείμην, and (in composition) θοίμην, &c. for θείμην, as if from τιθέω. See also ἦμι, p. 109.

4. The present imperative active commonly omits θι in the second person singular, and lengthens the final vowel of the stem (α, ε, ο, υ) to η, ει, ου, ῦ. The second aorist retains θι, except in θές, δός, and ῥές, also in σχές (from ἔχω).

5. The infinitive active adds ναι to the tense-stem; the infinitive passive and middle adds σθαι. Thus, ἰστά-ναι, ἴστα-σθαι; στῆ-ναι, θεῖ-ναι, δοῦ-ναι (§ 125, 1); θί-σθαι, δό-σθαι.

6. The stem of the participle active is formed by adding ντ to the tense-stem; that of the participle passive and middle by adding μενο-. (See § 119, 1, and § 46.)

NOTE 1. The second aorist active of two verbs, τίθημι and δίδωμι, lengthens the vowel of the stem only in the infinitive; the forms ἔθην, -ης, -η, ἔδων, -ως, -ω, not being in use in the singular of the indicative. These verbs (as inflected in § 126, 2) are therefore irregular in the indicative and imperative of this tense; the regular form being seen in ἔγνω (stem γνω-), which has 2 aor. act. indic. ἔγνω,

-ως, -ω, -ωτον, -ωτην, -ωμεν, -ωτε, -ωσαν; subj. γνῶ (like δῶ), opt. γνοίην (like δοίην), imperat. γνῶθι, γνώτω, γνῶτον, γνῶτων, γνῶτε, γνῶτωσαν; infin. γῶναι; partic. γνούς (γνونت-).

For three aorists in κα, see § 121, Note 2.

NOTE 2. A few deponent verbs accent the subjunctive and optative as if there were no contraction. Such are δύναμαι, ἐπίσταμαι, κρέμαμαι, ἐπριάμην (§ 126, 2); as δύνωμαι, δύναιτο (not δυνῶμαι, δυνάιτο); and sometimes other verbs in μι. The infinitive πρίασθαι (§ 126) is accented like a present. (See § 26, N. 3.)

Dialectic Forms of Verbs in MI.

§ 128. 1. Indicative. Doric τι, ντι, for σι, νσι. Epic sometimes σθα for s in 2 pers. sing. For 3 pers. plur. in εἶσι, οὔσι, ὄσι, see § 125, N. 2. Epic ν for σαν in 3 pers. plur., with preceding vowel short; as ἔσταν for ἔστησαν, ἔεν for ἔεσαν:—in aor. pass. εν for ησαν; as ἐκόσμηθεν for ἐκοσμήθησαν. The Ionic σκον and σκομην (§ 122, 2) have no connecting vowel in verbs in μι; as ἴστα-σκον. Herod. often has αται and ατο (§ 122, 2) for νται and ντο in the pres. and imperf., changing a preceding α to ε; as τιθέ-αται, δυνέ-αται (δυνα-), ἐδυνέ-ατο. (See § 128, 2.)

2. Subj. The Ionic sometimes leaves εω uncontracted in the subj. of verbs in ημι; as in θέωμεν for θῶμεν, διαθέωνται for διαθῶνται. It forms the subj. in εω and εωμαι even from stems in α; as στέωμεν for στῶμεν (στα-ωμεν), ἐπιστέωνται for ἐπίστωνται (ἐπιστα-ωνται, § 127, N. 2).

In Homer, when the 2 aor. act. subj. is uncontracted, the vowel of the stem is generally lengthened (ε to ει or η, and ο to ω); in which case the short connecting vowels ο and ε are used in the dual and plural, except before σι (for νσι). Thus, in place of Attic θῶ, &c. and στῶ, &c., we find θείω, θείης, θείη, θέομεν, στήης, στήη, στείομεν, παρ-στήετον, περι-στήωσι. Also θέιομαι for θῶμαι. So, for δῶ, &c., we have δώη (also δώησι and δῶσι), δῶομεν, δῶωσι. The same forms are found in the aor. pass. subj. (§ 115, N.); as δαείω (for δαῶ) from indic. ἐδάην, δαμείης and δαμήη (for δαμήης and δαμήη) from ἐδάμην, μυγείη (for μυγῆη) from ἐμίγην.

3. Infin. and Partic. Homer has μεναι and μεν for ναι; as ἰστάμεναι or ἴστα-μεν, sometimes with lengthened vowel, as τιθή-μεναι. So in aor. pass. ὁμοιωθή-μεναι for ὁμοιωθή-ναι (from ὁμοιῶω, to liken).

The participle passive and middle sometimes has ημενος for αμενος or εμενος in Homer; as τιθήμενος.

Second Perfect and Pluperfect of the MI-form.

§ 130. 1. A few second perfects and pluperfects drop the connecting vowel, and are inflected like the present of verbs in μ. But they are not used in the singular of the indicative, and they form the participle in ώς. They are formed from stems in a.

The principal verbs which have these forms are βαίνω, to go, 2 perf. infin. βεβάναι; θνήσκω, to die, τεθνάναι; and ἵστημι, to set, ἑστάναι. All these have ordinary perfects, βέβηκα, τέθνηκα, ἔστηκα, which are used in the singular of the indicative. The second perfect and pluperfect of ἵστημι (στα-) are thus inflected:—

Second Perfect.

Second Pluperfect.

Dual. ἔστατον, ἐσάτην

Plural. ἔσταμεν, ἐστατε, ἔστασαν

NOTE 1. Homer has a form in -άασι in the third person plural, as βεβάασι; also a participle γεγάως and some other forms of a second perfect of γίγνομαι of this class.

NOTE 2. The Epic δείδω or δίω, to fear, has a second perfect δέδια (Epic δεΐδια) with many forms of this class. See the Lexicon.

2. The second perfect οἶδα, I know, and its pluperfect ἤδειν, I knew, are thus inflected:—

Second Perfect.

		Indicative.	Subjunctive.	Optative.	Imperative.
Sing.	1.	οἶδα	εἰδῶ	εἰδείην

Second Pluperfect.

	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
1.	ἤδειν or ἤδη		ἤδειμεν or ἤσμεν
2.	ἤδειςθα or ἤδησθα	ἤδειτον or ἤστων	ἤδειτε or ἤστε
3.	ἤδει(ν) or ἤδη	ἤδείτην or ἤστην	ἤδесαν or ἤσαν

NOTE. The Ionic occasionally has the regular forms οἶδας, οἶδαμεν, οἶδασι; and very often ἴδμεν for ἴσμεν. Hdt. has future εἰδήσω; Hom. εἴσομαι, rarely εἰδήσω. Hom. has ιδύια for εἰδυῖα in the participle.

Ionic ἤδεα, ἤδεε, ἠδέατε, — Hom. ἠείδης, ἠείδη, ἴσαν, — in pluperfect. The Attic poets have ἤδεμεν and ἤδετε (like ἤδεσαν).

Hom. ἔδομεν, &c. for εἰδῶμεν in subj.; ἔδμεναι and ἔδμεν in infin.

COMPOUND WORDS.

§ 131. 1. When the first part of a compound word is a noun or adjective, only its stem appears in the compound. The final vowel of a stem is dropped before another vowel. Before a consonant, stems of the first declension change a to o, and stems of the third declension add o. E. g.

Πρωτο-τόκος, θαλασσο-κράτωρ, παιδο-τρίβης, θεο-μαχία; χορ-ηγός, but χορo-διδάσκαλος; φιλο-σοφία, φυσιο-λόγος, ἀνδριαντο-ποιός.

NOTE. The exceptions to this rule are very numerous, the noun sometimes appearing in one of its cases as if it were a distinct word; as νεώσ-οικος, ship-house; ναυσί-πορος, traversed by ships.

2. When the first part of a compound is a verb, its stem generally appears without change before a vowel, and with ε, ι, ο, or σι (sometimes εσ, σε, or σο) added before a consonant. Such compounds are chiefly poetic. E. g.

Πιείθ-αρχος, ἀρχ-ι-τέκτων, λιπ-ό-γαμος, μεν-έ-μαχος, τερψί-νοος (τερπ-), λυ-σί-πονος, στρεψί-δικος (στρεφ-).

3. When the first part of a compound is a preposition, its final vowel (except in περί and πρό) is dropped before a vowel; as ἀν-άγω, ἀπ-έχω; but περιάγω, προάγω.

Πρό may be contracted with a following ε, as in προϋχω for προέχω. (See § 105, 1, N. 1.)

§ 132. The following inseparable particles are used only as prefixes:—

1. α- (αν- before a vowel), called alpha privative, prefixed to nouns and adjectives, rarely to verbs, with a negative force, like English un-, Latin in-; as ἄ-παις, childless, ἄ-γραφος, unwritten, ἄ-θεος, godless, ἀν-ελεύθερος, unfree, ἀν-αιδής, shameless, ἀν-όμοιος, unlike.

2. δυσ-, ill (opposed to εὖ, well), denoting difficulty or trouble; as δύσ-πορος, hard to pass; δυσ-τυχής, unfortunate (opposed to εὐτυχής).

3. νη- (Latin ne), a negative prefix; as νή-ποινος, unavenged; νη-μερτής, unerring.

NOTE 1. A few other intensive prefixes are sometimes used,—ἀρι-, ἐρι-, δα-, ζα-, λα-; as ἀρί-γνωτος, well known; δα-φυνός, bloody.

NOTE 2. The prefix α- is rarely intensive, as in ἄ-τενής, stretched; or copulative (denoting union), as in ἄ-λοχος, bedfellow (from λέχος).

PART III.

SYNTAX.

§ 133. 1. EVERY sentence must contain two parts, a subject and a predicate. The subject is that of which something is stated. The predicate is that which is stated of the subject. Thus in the sentence Δαρείος βασιλεύει, Darius is king, Δαρείος is the subject and βασιλεύει is the predicate.

NOTE 1. When any part of εἰμί, to be, connects the subject with a following noun or adjective, the verb is called the copula, and what follows is called the predicate; as Δαρείός ἐστι βασιλεύς, Darius is king, where ἐστί is the copula.

NOTE 2. The simple subject and predicate may each be modified by additional words or clauses; as Κῦρος, ἀκούσας ἃ εἶπεν, εἰσῆλθεν εἰς τὴν πόλιν, Cyrus, on hearing what he said, went into the city, where Κῦρος, ἀκούσας ἃ εἶπεν, is the modified subject, and the rest is the modified predicate.

2. That upon which the action of a verb is exerted is called the object, which may be either direct or indirect. Thus, in ἔδωκε τὰ χρήματα τῷ ἀνδρί, he gave the money to the man, χρήματα is the direct object, and ἀνδρί is the indirect (or remote)-object.

SUBJECT AND PREDICATE.

§ 134. 1. The subject of a finite verb is in the nominative; as ὁ ἀνὴρ ἦλθεν, the man came.

A verb in a finite mood is called a finite verb (§ 89).

2. The subject of the infinitive mood is in the accusative; as λέγουσι τοὺς ἄνδρας ἀπελθεῖν, they say that the men went away.

But the subject is generally omitted, when it is the same as the subject or the object of the leading verb; as βούλεται ἀπελθεῖν, he wishes to go away; παρανοῦμέν σοι μένειν, we advise you to remain.

NOTE 1. The subject nominative of the first or second person is omitted, except when special emphasis is required. (See foot-note, page 85.)

The nominative of the third person is omitted, —

(a.) When it is expressed or implied in the context;

(b.) When it is a general word for persons, as λέγουσι, they say, it is said;

(c.) When it is indefinite, as ὄψέ ἦν, it was late, καλῶς ἔχει, it is well; and in passives like παρασκευάσται μοι, I am prepared (preparation has been made by me, like ventum est in Latin); also in the impersonal construction with the verbal in τέον, as in πειστέον (ἐστί) τῷ νόμῳ, we must obey the law.

(d.) When the verb implies its own subject, as κηρύσσει, the herald (κηρυξ) proclaims, ἐσάλπιγξε, the trumpeter sounded the trumpet, κωλύει, a hindrance occurs.

(e.) With verbs like ὕει, it rains, ἀστράπτει, it lightens, σείει, there is an earthquake (it shakes), where, however, some subject like Ζεὺς or θεός was originally supplied.

NOTE 2. Many verbs in the third person singular have an infinitive or a sentence as their subject. These are called impersonal verbs. Such are δεῖ and χρή, it is required, one ought, πρέπει and προσέκει, it is proper, ἔνεστι and ἔξεστι, it is possible, δοκεῖ, it seems good, συμβαίνει, it happens, and the like; as δεῖ ἡμᾶς ἀπελθεῖν, we must go away (i. e. that we go away is required).

The name impersonal is applied with still greater propriety (though less frequently) to the verbs included in (c) and (d) of Note 1.

Subject Nominative and Verb.

§ 135. 1. A verb agrees with its subject nominative in number and person; as (ἐγὼ) λέγω, I say, οὗτος λέγει, this man says, οἱ ἄνδρες λέγουσιν, the men say.

2. But a nominative in the neuter plural regularly takes a singular verb; as ταῦτα ἐγένετο, these things happened, τὰ οἰκήματα ἔπεσεν, the buildings fell. So ἀδύνατά ἐστι (or ἀδύνατόν ἐστι), it is impossible.

3. A singular collective noun may take a plural verb; as τὸ πλῆθος ἐψηφίσαντο πολεμεῖν, the majority voted for war.

NOTE 1. When several subjects are connected by and, they generally have a plural verb. But the verb often agrees with one of the subjects (generally the nearest) and is understood with the rest, which generally happens when they are connected by or or nor. E. g.

Ἐμφωνοῦμεν ἐγὼ καὶ ὑμεῖς, I and you agree; σοφοὶ ἐγὼ καὶ σὺ ἤμεν, I and you were wise; καὶ σὺ καὶ οἱ ἀδελφοὶ παρῆστε, both you and your brothers were present. Ἐμὲ οὔτε καιρὸς . . . οὔτ' ἐλπὶς οὔτε φόβος οὔτ' ἄλλο οὐδὲν ἐπ' ἡρεν.

NOTE 2. If the subjects are of different persons, the verb is in the first person rather than the second, and in the second rather than the third. (See examples under Note 1.)

NOTE 3. A verb in the dual may follow two subjects in the singular, or even a plural subject denoting two persons or things. But even a subject in the dual may have a verb in the plural. (See II. IV. 453; V. 10, 275; XVI. 218.)

NOTE 4. Sometimes a verb agrees with the predicate nominative; as αἱ χορηγαὶ ἱκανὸν εὐδαιμονίας σημειῶν ἐστιν, the payments for choruses are a sufficient sign of prosperity.

Predicate.

§ 136. After verbs signifying to be, to become, to appear, to be called, chosen, considered, and the like, a noun in the predicate is in the same case as the subject, both denoting the same person or thing. E. g.

Οὗτός ἐστι βασιλεὺς, this man is king; Ἀλέξανδρος θεὸς ὀνομάζεται, Alexander was named a God; ἡρέθη στρατηγός, he was chosen general; ἡ πόλις φρούριον κατέστη, the city became a fortress; λέγουσι τοῦτον γενέσθαι βασιλέα, they say that this man was made king.

This applies also to the case of a predicate adjective (§ 138). See, however, § 138, Note 8.

APPOSITION.

§ 137. A noun annexed to another noun to describe it agrees with it in case. This is called apposition. E. g.

Δαρείος ὁ βασιλεὺς, Darius the king. Ἀθῆναι, μεγάλη πόλις, Athens, a great city. Ὑμᾶς τοὺς σοφοὺς, you, the wise ones. Ἡμῶν τῶν Ἀθηναίων, of us, the Athenians. Θημιστοκλῆς ἦκω (sc. ἐγὼ), I Themistocles am come. Φιλῆσιος καὶ Λύκων οἱ Ἀχαιοί, Philesius and Lycon the Achaeans.

NOTE 1. Possessive pronouns and adjectives may have a genitive in apposition with a genitive which they imply; as ὁ ἐμὸς τοῦ ταλαί-πώρου βίος, the life of me, miserable one; Ἀθηναῖος ὦν, πόλεως τῆς μεγίστης, being (a citizen) of Athens, the greatest city. So τὰ ὑμέτερα αὐτῶν (for τὰ ὑμῶν αὐτῶν), your own.

NOTE 2. A noun which would regularly stand in the partitive genitive (§ 168) sometimes takes the case of the words denoting its parts; as οἰκίαί αἱ μὲν πολλαὶ πεπτώκεσαν, ὀλίγαι δὲ περιῆσαν, most of the houses had fallen, but a few remained (where we should expect τῶν οἰκιῶν). This is called partitive apposition.

NOTE 3. A noun may be in apposition with a whole sentence, generally being in the nominative or accusative, according to the case of the principal word of the sentence; as Ἑλένην κτάνωμεν, Μενέλαω λύπην πικράν, let us kill Helen, (which will be) a bitter grief to Menelaus.

NOTE 4. A noun is often in apposition with the subject or the object of a sentence, where we use as or a like word; as ἵπποι ἤγοντο θύματα τῷ Ἡλίῳ, horses were brought as offerings to the Sun (in active, ἵππους ἄγειν θύματα, to bring horses as offerings). So τίνος διδάσκαλοι ἦκετε, as teachers of what are you come? Many cases included under § 136 are really cases of apposition. See § 166, N. 2.

ADJECTIVES.

§ 138. Adjectives agree with their nouns in gender, number, and case. This rule applies also to the article, and to adjective pronouns and participles. E. g.

Ὁ σοφὸς ἀνὴρ, the wise man; τοῦ σοφοῦ ἀνδρός, τῷ σοφῷ ἀνδρί, τὸν σοφὸν ἄνδρα, τῶν σοφῶν ἀνδρῶν, &c. Οὗτος ὁ ἀνὴρ, this man; τούτου τοῦ ἀνδρός, τούτων τῶν ἀνδρῶν. Αἱ ἄρισταί δοκοῦσαι εἶναι φύσεις, the natures seeming to be best.

REMARK. The adjective may be either attributive or predicate. An attributive adjective simply qualifies the noun without the intervention of a verb (like all the adjectives above except ἄρισταί). The predicate adjective is connected with its noun by a copula (§ 133, 1, Note 1) expressed or implied, or by one of the verbs included in § 136, as ὁ ἀνὴρ ἀγαθός ἐστιν, the man is good; καλεῖται ἀγαθός, he is called good; ποιεῖν τοὺς Μήδους ἀσθενεῖς, to make the Medes (to be) weak. See the examples under § 142, 3.

NOTE 1. (a.) An attributive adjective belonging to several nouns generally agrees with the nearest or the most prominent one, and is understood with the rest; as τὸν ἀγαθὸν ἄνδρα καὶ γυναικα, the good man and woman; παντὶ καὶ λόγῳ καὶ μηχανῇ, by every word and device.

(b.) But such an adjective is occasionally plural if it belongs to several singular nouns, or dual if it belongs to two; as σωφρόνων ἐστὶ καὶ ἀνδρὸς καὶ γυναικὸς οὕτω ποιεῖν, it is the part of prudent (persons) both men and women thus to do.

NOTE 2. (a.) A predicate adjective is regularly plural if it belongs to several singular nouns, or dual if it belongs to two. If the nouns are of different genders, the adjective is commonly masculine if one of the nouns denotes a male person, and commonly neuter if all denote things.

(b.) But it sometimes follows both the gender and number of the nearest or most prominent noun.

(c.) A predicate adjective is sometimes neuter, being used like a noun (§ 139), when its noun is masculine or feminine; as καλὸν ἡ ἀλήθεια, a beautiful thing is truth.

NOTE 3. A collective noun in the singular may take a plural participle; as Τροίαν ἐλόντες Ἀργείων στόλος, the Argives' army having taken Troy.

NOTE 4. An adjective may conform to the real rather than the grammatical gender of a noun denoting a person; as φίλε τέκνον, dear child!

NOTE 5. The masculine form of the dual is very often used for the feminine in adjective pronouns and the article. Especially rare are the feminines τά, ταῦτα.

NOTE 6. Δύο, two, is often used with a plural noun. Ὅσσε, the eyes, and δοῦρε, two spears, in Homer, may have plural adjectives.

NOTE 7. An adjective, especially a numeral, is often used where we should use an adverb; as οὗτοι ὕστεροι ἀφίκοντο, these came later; ἐκόντες ἦλθον, they came willingly.

NOTE 8. When the subject of an infinitive is not expressed (§ 134, 2), adjective words referring to the omitted subject are put in the case in which that subject last occurred (either expressed or understood); as ὁ πατὴρ βούλεται εἶναι σοφός, the father wishes to be wise; (but βούλεται τὸν υἱὸν εἶναι σοφόν, he wishes that his son may be wise, or βούλεται εἶναι τὸν υἱὸν σοφόν). Πρέπει αὐτῷ εἶναι προθύμῳ, it becomes him to be eager; οὐκ ὁμολογήσω ἄκλητος ἦκειν, I shall not admit that I am come uninvited; οὐκ ἔφη αὐτός, ἀλλ' ἐκείνου στρατηγεῖν, he said that not (he) himself, but he (Nicias) was general (αὐτός is adjective, § 145).

The same principle applies to predicate nouns; as πολλοὶ τῶν προσημαμένων εἶναι σοφιστῶν, many of those who pretended to be sophists.

The accusative, however, sometimes occurs in sentences like these.

Adjective used as a Noun.

§ 139. 1. An adjective or participle may be used as a noun ; as φίλος, a friend ; κακή, a base woman ; οἱ κακοί, the bad ; τοῖς ἀγαθοῖς, to the good ; τῶν κρατούντων, of those in power ; κακά, evils ; τὰ θνητά, mortal things ; ὁ πολλὰ εἰδώς, he who knows much (§ 276, 2).

2. The neuter singular of an adjective with the article is often used as an abstract noun ; as τὸ καλόν, beauty (= κάλλος), τὸ δίκαιον, justice (= δικαιοσύνη).

NOTE. The participle, which is a verbal adjective, may be thus used for the infinitive, which is a verbal noun ; as τὸ δεδιός, fear (= τὸ δεδιέναι) ; ἐν τῷ μὴ μελετῶντι, in the not practising (= ἐν τῷ μὴ μελετᾶν).

THE ARTICLE.

Homeric Use of the Article.

§ 140. In the oldest Greek (as in Homer) the article appears generally as a demonstrative or personal pronoun, sometimes as a relative. E. g.

Τὴν δ' ἐγὼ οὐ λύσω, but I will not free her ; τοῦ δὲ κλύε Φοῖβος Ἀπολλων, and Phoebus Apollo heard him ; ὁ γὰρ ἦλθε θοὰς ἐπὶ νῆας Ἀχαιῶν, for he came, &c. As relative, πῦρὰ πολλὰ τὰ καίετο, many fires which were burning ; δῶρα τὰ ἔδωκαν, gifts which they gave.

NOTE 1. Even in Homer, the article is used with adjectives and participles as in Attic Greek ; as οἱ γὰρ ἄριστοι ἐν νηυσὶν κέαται, for the bravest sit in the ships ; οἱ ἄλλοι, the others ; τὰ τ' ἐόντα τὰ τ' ἐσόμενα, both things that are and things that are to be.

NOTE 2. When the article is used with nouns in Homer, it is generally a pronoun, with which the noun is in apposition ; as ὁ δ' ἔβραχε χάλκεος Ἀρης, and he — brazen Ares — roared ; ἡ δ' ἀέκουσ' ἄμα τοῖσι γυνὴ κίεν, and she — the woman — went with them unwilling.

Nearer the Attic use of the article are examples like these : αὐτὰρ ὁ τοῖσι γέρων ὁδὸν ἡγεμόνευεν, but he — the old man — showed them the way ; τὸν δ' οἶον πατέρ' εἶρον, and he found him — the father — alone.

Hardly, if at all, to be distinguished from the Attic article is that found in examples like these : ὅτε δὴ τὴν νῆσον ἀφίκετο, when now he came to the island ; τό τε σθένος Ὀρίωνος, and the might of Orion ; αἱ δὲ γυναῖκες ἰστάμεναι θαύμαζον, and the women standing wondered.

It is therefore often difficult to decide the exact force of an article in early Greek. The above examples show a gradual transition, even in Homer, from the original pronoun to the true definite article.

NOTE 3. The last examples in Note 2 are exceptional, and in such cases the nouns usually stand without the article in Homer, as in Latin. Thus δεινὴ δὲ κλαγγὴ γέενε' ἀργυρέοιο βιοίο would in Attic Greek require ἡ κλαγγή and τοῦ βιοῦ.

NOTE 4. Herodotus generally uses the forms of the article beginning with τ in the place of the ordinary relative, — of which he uses only the forms ὅς, ἥ, οἷ, and αἷ, except after prepositions. Thus ὄρνις ἱρός, τῷ ὄννομα Φοῖνιξ, a sacred bird, whose name is Phoenix. In other respects he uses the article as it is used in Attic prose.

The Lyric poets follow the Homeric usage more closely with respect to the article; and the Attic poets, especially in the chorus, admit Homeric uses.

Attic Use of the Article.

§ 141. In Attic Greek the article generally corresponds to the English definite article the; as ὁ ἀνὴρ, the man; τῶν πόλεων, of the cities; τοῖς Ἑλλησιν, to the Greeks.

NOTE 1. The Greek uses the article in certain cases in which the English omits it. Such are the following: —

(a.) Proper names may take the article; as ὁ Σωκράτης, Socrates.

(b.) Abstract nouns generally take the article; as ἡ ἀρετή, virtue, ἡ δικαιοσύνη, Justice (also δικαιοσύνη).

(c.) Nouns qualified by a demonstrative or possessive pronoun regularly take the article; as οὗτος ὁ ἀνὴρ, this man; ὁ ἐμὸς πατήρ, my father; περὶ τῆς ἡμετέρας πόλεως, about our state. (See § 142, 4.)

(d.) The article may precede τοιούτος, τοσοῦτος, τοιόσδε, and τηλικούτος; as τὸν τοιούτον ἄνδρα, such a man. It always precedes δεῖνα, such a one.

NOTE 2. The article is sometimes used where we use a possessive pronoun; as ἔρχεται Μανδάνη πρὸς τὸν πατέρα, Mandane comes to her father (lit. to the father).

NOTE 3. An adverb, a preposition with its case, or any similar expression, may be used with the article to qualify a noun, like an attributive adjective; as οἱ τότε ἄνθρωποι, the men of that time; τοῦ πάλαι Κάδμου, of ancient Cadmus; οἱ ἐν ἄστει Ἀθηναῖοι, the Athenians in the city.

Here a noun denoting men or things is often omitted; as οἱ ἐν ἄστει, those in the city; τοῖς τότε, to those of that time; οἱ ἀμφὶ Πλάτωνα, those about Plato (generally Plato and his school, or simply Plato).

NOTE 4. The nouns γῆ, land, πράγματα, things or affairs, υἱός, son, and sometimes other nouns easily understood, may be omitted after the article, when a qualifying adjective or genitive is added; as εἰς τὴν ἑαυτῶν (sc. γῆν), to their own land; ἐκ τῆς περιουκίδος, from the neighboring country; τὰ τῆς πόλεως, the affairs of the state; Περικλῆς ὁ Ξανθίππου (sc. υἱός), Pericles, the son of Xanthippus. Expressions like τὰ τῆς Τύχης, τὰ τῆς ὀργῆς, sometimes do not differ from Τύχη, Fortune, and ὀργή, wrath.

NOTE 5. Instead of repeating a noun with adjuncts in the same sentence, it is sufficient to repeat its article; as οἱ τῶν πολιτῶν παῖδες καὶ οἱ τῶν ἄλλων, the children of the citizens and those of the others.

NOTE 6. The infinitive, like any other verbal noun, may take a neuter article; as τὸ εἰδέναι, the knowing; σοὶ τὸ μὴ σιγῆσαι λοιπὸν ἦν, it remained for you not to be silent.

In like manner a neuter article may precede a whole clause considered as a noun; as τὸ γινῶθαι σαυτὸν πανταχοῦ ὅστι χρησιμὸν, the saying "know thyself" is everywhere useful.

Position of the Article.

§ 142. 1. An attributive adjective or other expression qualifying a noun (except a partitive genitive) commonly stands between the article and the noun. E. g.

Ὁ σοφὸς ἀνὴρ, the wise man; οἱ ἐν ἄστει ἄνθρωποι, the men in the city; οὔδεὶς τῶν τότε Ἑλλήνων, none of the Greeks of that time; εἰς τὴν ἐκείνων πόλιν, into their city; οἱ τῶν Θηβαίων στρατηγοί, the generals of the Thebans. (See below, Note 2.)

Two or even three articles may thus come together; as τοὺς τὰ τῆς πόλεως ἔχοντας, those who have the control of the state.

2. The article together with any of these expressions may follow the noun for the sake of emphasis, in which case the noun itself may have another article before it. E. g.

Ἀνὴρ ὁ σοφός, or ὁ ἀνὴρ ὁ σοφός, the wise man (not, however, ὁ ἀνὴρ σοφός, see § 142, 3); αἱ πόλεις αἱ δημοκρατούμεναι, the states which are under a democracy; ἄνθρωποι οἱ τότε, the men of that time; πρὸς ἀδικίαν τὴν ἄκρατον, with regard to pure injustice.

NOTE 1. The article may be separated from its noun by μέν, δέ, τέ, γάρ, δή, and sometimes by other words.

NOTE 2. The partitive genitive (§ 168) rarely stands in either of the positions here mentioned, but either precedes or follows the governing noun and its article; as οἱ κακοὶ τῶν πολιτῶν, the bad among the citizens (rarely οἱ τῶν πολιτῶν κακοί). Even the other forms of the adnominal genitive occasionally have this position, as τῶν παλαιῶν ἡ φιλοσοφία, the philosophy of the ancients.

NOTE 3. Ἄλλος with the article generally means the rest; as ἡ ἄλλη πόλις, the rest of the state (but ἄλλη πόλις, another state).

Πολύς with the article generally means the greater part, especially in οἱ πολλοί, the multitude, the majority, and τὸ πολὺ, the greater part. So in the comparative, οἱ πλείονες, the majority, τὸ πλεῖον, the greater part.

NOTE 4. When a noun has two or more qualifying words, each of them may take an article and stand in either of the above positions (1 or 2), or all may stand between one article and its noun; as ἡ Ἀττικὴ ἡ παλαιὰ φωνή, the ancient Attic speech; τὰ τεῖχη τὰ ἑαυτῶν τὰ μακρά, their own long walls; ἔπεμπον εἰς τὰς ἄλλας Ἀρκαδικὰς πόλεις, they sent to the other Arcadian cities; ἡ ὑπ' Ἀρετῆς Ἡρακλέους παιδευσίς, the instruction of Hercules by Virtue.

NOTE 5. The Greeks commonly said the Euphrates river, τὸν Εὐφράτην ποταμόν, &c., rather than the river Euphrates. So sometimes with names of cities and mountains (rarely islands).

3. When an adjective either precedes the article, or follows the noun without taking an article, it forms a predicate, some part of εἰμί, to be, being understood or implied. E. g.

Ὁ ἀνὴρ σοφός or σοφός ὁ ἀνὴρ (sc. ἐστίν), the man is wise, or wise is the man. Πολλοὶ οἱ πανούργοι, many are the evil doers. Ἐφημέρους γε τὰς τύχας κεκτήμεθα, we possess our fortunes for a day (sc. οὖσας).

The predicate force of such adjectives can often be expressed by a periphrasis; as τοῖς λόγοις βραχυτέροις ἐχρήτο, the words which he used were shorter, lit. he used the words (they being) shorter; ἡγοῦντο αὐτονομῶν τῶν ξυμμάχων, they presided over their allies (they being) independent, i. e. the allies over whom they presided were independent. So πόσον ἄγει τὸ στράτευμα; how great is the army which he is bringing?

4. A demonstrative pronoun either precedes the article and its noun, or follows the noun like a predicate adjective (3). The article cannot be omitted here in Attic prose. E. g.

Οὗτος ὁ ἀνὴρ, this man, or ὁ ἀνὴρ οὗτος (never ὁ οὗτος ἀνὴρ). Περί τούτων τῶν πόλεων, about these cities. If an adjective or other qualifying word is added, the demonstrative may stand between this and its noun, contrary to the rule; as ἡ στενὴ αὕτη ὁδός, this narrow road; τῷ ἀφικομένῳ τούτῳ ξένῳ, to this stranger who has come.

This rule applies also to ἐκαστος, ἐκάτερος, ἄμφω, and ἀμφότερος. But with ἐκαστος the article may be omitted. See also § 141, N. 1.

NOTE 1. Πᾶς and σύμπας, all, and ὅλος, whole, generally have the same position as a demonstrative; as πάντες οἱ ἄνδρες or οἱ ἄνδρες πάντες, all the men; ὅλη ἡ πόλις or ἡ πόλις ὅλη, all the city. But they can also be used like attributive adjectives, preceded by the article; as ἡ πᾶσα Σικελία, the whole of Sicily, τὸ ὅλον γένος, the entire race.

The distinction here was probably not greater than that between all the city and the whole city in English. We find even οἱ πάντες πολῖται, the whole body of citizens.

NOTE 2. Αὐτός as an intensive pronoun, ipse, has the position of a demonstrative; as αὐτὸς ὁ ἀνὴρ, the man himself. But ὁ αὐτὸς ἀνὴρ, the same man. See § 145, 1, and § 79, 2.

NOTE 3. The genitive of the personal pronoun (whether partitive or not) either precedes the article or follows the noun, while the genitive of other pronouns (unless it is partitive) follows the article; as ἡ μὲν ἡ πόλις or ἡ πόλις ἡ μὲν, our city (not ἡ ἡ μὲν πόλις); μετεπέμψατο Ἀστυάγης τὴν ἐαυτοῦ θυγατέρα καὶ τὸν παῖδα αὐτῆς, Astyages sent for his own daughter and her son.

NOTE 4. The adjectives ἄκρος, μέσος, and ἔσχατος, when they are in the predicate position (3), mean the top (or extremity), the middle, the last, of the thing which their nouns denote; as μέση ἡ ἀγορά, the middle of the market (while ἡ μέση ἀγορά would mean the middle market); ἄκρα ἡ χεὶρ, the extremity of the hand.

The article here may be omitted entirely.

Pronominal Article in Attic Greek.

§ 143. 1. In Attic prose the article retains its original demonstrative force chiefly in the expression ὁ μὲν . . . ὁ δέ, the one . . . the other. E. g.

‘Ὁ μὲν οὐδὲν, ὁ δὲ πολλὰ κερδαίνει, one man gains nothing, another gains much. Δεῖ τοὺς μὲν εἶναι δυστυχεῖς, τοὺς δ’ εὐτυχεῖς, some must be unfortunate, and others fortunate. Τῶν πόλεων αἱ μὲν τυραννοῦνται, αἱ δὲ δημοκρατοῦνται, of states, some are governed by tyrants, others by democracies.

NOTE 1. The neuter τὸ μὲν . . . τὸ δέ may be used adverbially, partly . . . partly. For τοῦτο μὲν . . . τοῦτο δέ in this sense, see § 148, Note 4.

NOTE 2. 'Ο δέ, &c., sometimes means and he, but he, &c., even when no ὁ μέν precedes; as Ἰνάρως Ἀθηναίους ἐπηγάγετο· οἱ δὲ . . . ἦλθον, Inaros called in Athenians; and they came.

2. A few other relics of the demonstrative meaning of the article are found in Attic, chiefly the following:—

Τὸν καὶ τόν, this man and that; τὸ καὶ τό, this and that; τὰ καὶ τά, these and those; as ἔδει γὰρ τὸ καὶ τὸ ποιῆσαι, καὶ τὸ μὴ ποιῆσαι, for we ought to have done this thing and that, and not to have done the other.

Πρὸ τοῦ (or προτοῦ), before this, formerly.

Καὶ τόν or καὶ τήν, before an infinitive, as καὶ τὸν κελεῦσαι δοῦναι (sc. λέγεται), and (it is said) he commanded him to give it. Cyr. I. 3, 9.

So occasionally τῷ, therefore, which is common in Homer.

PRONOUNS.

PERSONAL AND INTENSIVE PRONOUNS.

§ 144. 1. The nominative of the personal pronouns is seldom used, except for emphasis. (See § 134, N. 1.)

NOTE. The forms ἐμοῦ, ἐμοί, and ἐμέ are more emphatic than the enclitics μοῦ, μοί, μέ; hence the latter seldom occur after prepositions, except in πρὸς με.

2. The pronouns of the third person, οὗ, οἱ, ἐ, &c. are generally personal pronouns in Ionic Greek, but sometimes reflexives. In Attic prose these pronouns are generally indirect reflexives,—that is, in a dependent clause, referring to the subject of the leading clause; as φοβούνται μὴ οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι σφίσιν ἐπέλθωσιν, they fear that the Athenians may attack them; ἐδέοντο ὑμῶν μὴ σφᾶς περιορᾶν φθειρομένους, they begged you not to see them destroyed.

NOTE. The forms οὗ and ἐ are chiefly Epic. The orators seldom use these pronouns; and the tragedians use chiefly σφίν and σφέ.

§ 145. 1. Αὐτός in all its cases may be an intensive adjective pronoun, himself, herself, itself, themselves, like ipse. This is always its force in the nominative of all numbers, except when it is preceded by the article (§ 79, 2). E. g.

Αὐτὸς ὁ στρατηγός, the general himself; ἐπ' αὐτοῖς τοῖς αἰγιαλοῖς, on the very coasts; ἐπιστήμη αὐτή, knowledge itself. (See § 142, 4, N. 2.)

A pronoun with which αὐτός agrees is often omitted; as ταῦτα ἐποιεῖτε αὐτοί (sc. ὑμεῖς), you did this yourselves; πλευστέον εἰς ταύτας αὐτοῖς ἐμβάσιν (sc. ὑμῖν), you must sail, embarking on these yourselves (in person). So αὐτὸς ἔφη (ipse dixit), himself (the master) said it.

2. The oblique cases of αὐτός are the ordinary personal pronouns of the third person. E. g.

Στρατηγὸν αὐτὸν ἀπέδειξε, he designated him as general. See four other examples in Xen. Anab. I. 1, 2 and 3.

For μίν, νίν, and σφέ, see § 79, 1, Note 2.

REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS.

§ 146. The reflexive pronouns refer to the subject of the clause in which they stand. Sometimes, in a dependent clause, they refer to the subject of the leading verb, — i. e. they are indirect reflexives. E. g.

Γινῶθι σαυτόν, know thyself; ἐπέσφαξεν ἐαυτόν, he slew himself; τὰ ἄριστα βουλευέσθε ὑμῖν αὐτοῖς, take the best counsel for yourselves. Ὁ τύραννος νομίζει τοὺς πολίτας ὑπηρετεῖν ἐαυτῷ, the tyrant thinks that the citizens are servants to himself.

NOTE 1. Occasionally a reflexive refers to some emphatic word which is not the subject; as ἀπὸ σαυτοῦ ἐγὼ σε δείξω, I will show you from your own case (from yourself). In fact, these pronouns correspond almost exactly in their use to the English myself, thyself, himself, &c.

NOTE 2. The third person of the reflexive is sometimes used for the first or second; as δεῖ ἡμᾶς ἀνερέσθαι ἐαυτούς, we must ask ourselves.

NOTE 3. The reflexive is sometimes used for the reciprocal (§ 81); διαλεγόμεθα ἡμῖν αὐτοῖς, we discourse with one another (i. e. among ourselves).

POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

§ 147. The possessive pronouns are generally equivalent to the possessive genitive of the personal pronouns. Thus ὁ ἡμέτερος πατήρ = ὁ πατήρ ἡμῶν, our father. The possessive is regularly preceded by the article.

See § 167, 1; § 141, N. 1 (c). For nouns and adjectives agreeing with the genitive implied in a possessive, see § 137, N. 1.

NOTE 1. The possessive is occasionally equivalent to the objective genitive of the personal pronoun; as ἡ ἐμὴ εὖνοια, which commonly means my good-will (towards others), rarely means good-will (shown) to me.

NOTE 2. In Attic prose, σφέτερος, their, is always reflexive, and ὅς, his, her, its, is not used at all. (See § 144, 2.)

DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

§ 148. Οὗτος and ὅδε, this, generally refer to what is near or present; ἐκεῖνος, that, refers to what is more remote.

NOTE 1. The distinction between οὗτος and ὅδε, both of which correspond to our this, must be learned by practice. In the historians, οὗτος (with τοιούτος, τοσοῦτος, and οὕτως) regularly refers to a speech just made, while ὅδε (with τοιόσδε, τοσόσδε, and ὥδε) refers to one about to be made; as τάδε εἶπεν, he spoke as follows, but ταῦτα εἶπεν, thus he spoke (said after the speech).

NOTE 2. Οὗτος is sometimes an exclamation; as οὗτος, τί ποιεῖς; You there! what are you doing?

NOTE 3. The Greek has no word exactly corresponding to the unemphatic demonstrative often used in English as the antecedent of a relative, as I saw those who were present. Here a participle with the article is generally used; as εἶδον τοὺς παρόντας; if a demonstrative is used (εἶδον τούτους οἱ παρήσαν, I saw these men who were present), it has special emphasis. A relative with omitted antecedent sometimes expresses the sense required; as εἶδον οὓς ἔλαβεν, I saw (those) whom he took (§ 152).

NOTE 4. Τοῦτο μέν . . . τοῦτο δέ, first . . . secondly, partly . . . partly, is used nearly in the sense of τὸ μέν . . . τὸ δέ (§ 143, 1, N. 1), especially by Herodotus.

INTERROGATIVE PRONOUN.

§ 149. 1. The interrogative τίς; who? what? may be either substantive or adjective; as τίνας εἶδον; whom did I see? or τίνας ἄνδρας εἶδον; what men did I see?

2. Τίς may be used both in direct and in indirect questions; as τί βούλεται; what does he want? — ἐρωτᾷ τί βούλεσθε, he asks what you want.

In indirect questions, however, the relative ὅστις is more common; as ἐρωτᾷ ὃ τι βούλεσθε.

INDEFINITE PRONOUN.

§ 150. The indefinite τις generally means some, any, and may be either substantive or adjective; as τοῦτο λέγει τις, some one says this; ἄνθρωπός τις, some man. It is sometimes nearly equivalent to the English a or an; as εἶδον ἄνθρωπόν τινα, I saw a certain man, or I saw a man.

NOTE. Occasionally τις means every one, like πᾶς τις; as εὖ μὲν τις δόρυ θηξάσθω, let every one sharpen well his spear. Hom.

RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

§ 151. A relative agrees with its antecedent in gender and number; but its case depends on the construction of the clause in which it stands. E. g.

Εἶδον τοὺς ἄνδρας οἱ ὕστερον ἦλθον, I saw the men who came afterwards; οἱ ἄνδρες οὓς εἶδες ἀπῆλθον, the men whom you saw went away.

NOTE 1. The relative follows the person of the antecedent; as ὕμεις οἱ τοῦτο ποιεῖτε, you who do this; ἐγὼ ὃς τοῦτο ἐποίησα, I who did this.

NOTE 2. A relative referring to several antecedents follows the rule given for predicate adjectives (§ 138, N. 2). It may be plural if it refers to a collective noun (§ 138, N. 3); as τὸ πλῆθος οἵπερ δικάσουσιν, the multitude who will judge.

NOTE 3. In Homer the forms of the relative are sometimes used as demonstrative pronouns, like the article (§ 140); as καὶ ὃς δεύτερος ἦλθε, and he came second; ὃ γὰρ γέρας ἐστὶ θανόντων, for this is the right of the dead.

A few similar expressions occur in Attic prose, especially the Platonic ἢ δ' ὅς, said he (where ἢ is imperfect of ἡμί, to say). So καὶ ὅς, and he, καὶ οἷ, and they, and (in Herod.) ὃς καὶ ὅς, this man and that. (Compare τὸν καὶ τόν, § 143, 2.) So also ὃς μὲν . . . ὃς δέ, in the oblique cases, may be used for ὃ μὲν . . . ὃ δέ.

NOTE 4. In the Epic and Lyric poets, the enclitic τέ is often appended to relative words without affecting their meaning; as οὐκ αἶεις ᾧ τέ φησι, dost thou not perceive what he says?

But οἷός τε in Attic Greek means able, capable, like δυνατός, being really elliptical for τοιοῦτος οἷος, such as, and τέ having no apparent force.

Omission of the Antecedent.

§ 152. The antecedent of a relative may be omitted when it can easily be supplied from the context. E. g.

Ἔλαβεν ἃ ἐβούλετο, he took what he wished; ἔπειθεν ὅπόσους ἐδύνατο, he persuaded as many as he could (for τοσοῦτους ὁπόσους). Ἐγὼ καὶ ὧν ἐγὼ κρατῶ μενούμεν παρὰ σοί, I and those whom I command will remain with you.

NOTE 1. Most relative adverbs regularly omit the antecedent; as ἦλθεν ὅτε τοῦτο εἶδεν, he came when he saw this (for then, when).

NOTE 2. The following expressions belong here:—ἐστὶν οἷ (sometimes εἰσὶν οἷ), sunt qui, there are (those) who, i. e. some;—ἐνιοι (from ἐνι, = ἐνεστι or ἐνεισι, and οἷ) some;—ἐνίῳτε (ἐνι and ὅτε), sometimes;—ἐστὶν οὐ, somewhere;—ἐστὶν ἤ, in some way;—ἐστὶν ὅπως, somehow.

Assimilation and Attraction.

§ 153. When a relative would naturally be in the accusative as the object of a verb, it is generally assimilated to the case of its antecedent if this is a genitive or dative. E. g.

Ἐκ τῶν πόλεων ὧν ἔχει, from the cities which he holds (for ἅς ἔχει); τοῖς ἀγαθοῖς οἷς ἔχομεν, with the good things which we have (for ἃ ἔχομεν). This is often called attraction.

NOTE 1. When the antecedent would be a demonstrative pronoun, it is generally omitted; as ἐδήλωσε τοῦτο οἷς ἔπραττε, he showed this by what he did (i. e. ἐκείνους ἃ); σὺν οἷς ἔχω τὰ ἄκρα καταλήψομαι, I will seize the heights with these whom I have (i. e. σὺν τοῦτοις οὓς ἔχω); οὐδὲν ὧν βούλεσθε πράξετε, you will do none of the things which you wish (for ἐκείνων ἃ). See § 148, N. 3.

NOTE 2. A relative is very seldom assimilated from any other construction than that of the object accusative, or into any other case than the genitive or dative. Yet exceptions occur; as ὧν ἠπίσται πολλούς, many of those whom he distrusted (for ἐκείνων οἷς). Even the nominative may be assimilated; as βλάπτεσθαι ἀφ' ὧν ἡμῖν παρεσκευάσται, to be injured by what has been prepared by us (for ἀπ' ἐκείνων ἃ). Thuc.

NOTE 3. A like assimilation takes place in relative adverbs; as διεκομίζοντο εὐθὺς ὅθεν ὑπέξίθεντο παῖδας καὶ γυναῖκας, they immediately brought over their children and women from the place in which they had placed them for safety (where ὅθεν, from which, stands for ἐκεῖθεν οἷ, from the place whither). Thuc.

NOTE 4. The antecedent occasionally is assimilated to the case of the relative, when this immediately follows; as ἔλεγον ὅτι πάντων ὧν δέονται πεπραγότες εἶεν, they said that they had done all things which they needed (where πάντων ὧν is very irregularly used for πάντα ὧν).

This inverted assimilation takes place in οὐδεὶς ὅστις οὐ, everybody, in which οὐδεὶς follows the case of the relative; as οὐδένι ὄτῳ οὐκ ἀποκρίνεται (for οὐδεὶς ἐστί ὄτῳ), he replies to everybody.

NOTE 5. A peculiar assimilation occurs in certain expressions with οἷος; as χαρίζεσθαι οἷῳ σοι ἀνδρί, to please a man like you (for τοιούτῳ οἷος σύ).

§ 154. The antecedent is often attracted into the relative clause, and agrees with the relative. E. g.

Μὴ ἀφέλησθε ὑμῶν αὐτῶν ἣν κέκτησθε δόξαν καλὴν, do not take from yourselves the good reputation which you have gained (for τὴν δόξαν καλὴν ἣν κέκτησθε). Ἐξ ἧς τὸ πρῶτον ἔσχε γυναικός, from the wife which he had at first.

NOTE. This attraction may be joined with assimilation (§ 153); as ἀμαθέστατοί ἐστε ὧν ἐγὼ οἶδα Ἑλλήνων, you are the most ignorant of the Greeks whom I know; σὺν ᾧ εἶχε δυνάμει, with the force which he had (for σὺν τῇ δυνάμει ἣν εἶχεν). So οἶχεται φεύγων ὃν ἦγες μάρτυρα, the witness whom you brought (for ὁ μάρτυς ὃν ἦγες), &c.

Relative in Exclamations, &c.

§ 155. Οἷος, ὅσος, and ὥς are used in exclamations; as ὅσα πράγματα ἔχεις, how much trouble you have!

For the relative in indirect questions, see § 149, 2.

Relative not repeated.

§ 156. A relative is seldom repeated in a new case in the same sentence, but a personal or demonstrative pronoun commonly takes its place. E. g.

Ἐκεῖνοι τοίνυν, οἷς οὐκ ἐχαρίζονθ' οἱ λέγοντες οὐδ' ἐφίλουν αὐτοὺς ὥσπερ ὑμᾶς οὗτοι νῦν, those men, then, whom the orators did not try to gratify, and whom they did not love as these now love you (lit. nor did they love them as, &c.). Dem. Here αὐτούς is used to avoid repeating the relative in a new case, οὗς.

NOTE. Sometimes, however, a new case of the relative is understood in the latter part of a sentence; as Ἀριαῖος δὲ, ὃν ἡμεῖς ἠθέλομεν βασιλέα καθιστάναι, καὶ ἐδώκαμεν καὶ ἐλάβομεν πιστά, and Aræus, whom we wished to make king, and (to whom) we gave and (from whom) we received pledges, &c. Xen.

THE CASES.

REMARK. The Greek is descended from a language which had eight cases, — an ablative, a locative, and an instrumental, besides the five found in Greek.

I. NOMINATIVE AND VOCATIVE.

§ 157. 1. The nominative is chiefly used as the subject of a finite verb (§ 134, 1), or in the predicate after verbs signifying to be, &c. (§ 136).

2. The vocative, with or without ὦ, is used in addressing a person or thing; as ὦ ἄνδρες Ἀθηναῖοι, O men of Athens! — ἀκούεις, Αἰσχίνη; dost thou hear, Aeschines?

NOTE. The nominative is sometimes used in exclamations, and even in other expressions, where the vocative is more common; as ὦμοι ἐγὼ δειλός, O wretched me! So ἡ Πρόκη ἔκβαινε, Procne, come out!

Object Accusative.

§ 158. The direct object of a transitive verb is put in the accusative; as τοῦτο σώζει ἡμᾶς, this preserves us; ταῦτα ποιούμεν, we do these things.

NOTE 1. Many verbs which are simply transitive in English, and govern the objective case, take either a genitive or a dative in Greek. (See § 171, § 184, 2, and § 188, 1, N. 2.)

NOTE 2. Many verbs which are transitive in Greek are intransitive in English; as ὀμοῦμαι τοὺς θεούς, I will swear by the Gods; πάντας ἔλαβεν, he escaped the notice of all.

NOTE 3. Verbal adjectives and even verbal nouns occasionally take an object accusative instead of the regular objective genitive (§ 167, 3, § 180); as ἐπιστήμονες ἦσαν τὰ προσήκοντα, they were acquainted with what was proper. Xen. So τὰ μετέωρα φροντιστής, one who ponders on the things above (like φροντίζων). Plat.

Cognate Accusative.

§ 159. Any verb whose meaning permits it may take an accusative of kindred signification. This accusative repeats the idea already contained in the verb, and may follow intransitive as well as transitive verbs. E. g.

Ἡδομαι τὰς μεγίστας ἡδονάς, I enjoy the greatest pleasures. Εὐτυχοῦσι τοῦτο τὸ εὐτύχημα, they enjoy this good fortune. So πίπτειν πέσημα, to fall a fall, νόσον νοσεῖν or νόσον ἀσθενεῖν or νόσον κάμνειν, to suffer under a disease; ἀμάρτημα ἀμαρτάνειν, to commit an error (to sin a sin); δουλείαν δουλεύειν, to be subject to slavery; ἀγῶνα ἀγωνίζεσθαι, to undergo a contest; γραφὴν γράφεσθαι, to bring an indictment; γραφὴν δώκειν, to prosecute an indictment; νίκην νικᾶν, to gain a victory; μάχην νικᾶν, to gain a victory; πομπὴν πέμπειν, to form or conduct a procession; πλὴγὴν τύπτειν, to strike a blow.

It will be seen that this construction is much more extensive in Greek than in English. The cognate accusative generally has an adjective or other qualifying word, as in the first two examples.

NOTE 1. The cognate accusative may follow adjectives or even nouns; as κακὸς πᾶσαν κακίαν, bad with all badness; ἀγαθὸς πᾶσαν ἀρετήν, good with all goodness.

NOTE 2. A neuter adjective sometimes represents a cognate accusative, its noun being implied in the verb; as μεγάλα ἀμαρτάνειν (sc. ἀμαρτήματα), to commit great faults, ταῦτὰ λυποῦμαι καὶ ταῦτὰ χαίρω, I have the same griefs and the same joys.

NOTE 3. Here belongs the accusative of effect, which may follow even intransitive verbs; as πρεσβεύουσι τὴν εἰρήνην, they negotiate the peace (as ambassadors, πρέσβεις). Compare the English breaking a hole, as opposed to breaking a stick.

So after verbs of looking (in poetry); as Ἄρῃ δεδορκέναι, to look war; ἡ βουλὴ ἔβλεψε νᾶπυ, the Senate looked mustard.

NOTE 4. A transitive verb may have a direct and a cognate accusative at the same time; as γράφεσθαι τινα τὴν γραφὴν ταύτην, to bring this indictment against any one; ἡδικήσαμεν τοῦτον οὐδέν, we did this man no wrong; ταῦτα δίδασκέ με, teach me this.

For the cognate accusative after passive verbs, see § 198.

Accusative of Specification. — Adverbial Accusative.

§ 160. 1. The accusative of specification may be joined with a verb, adjective, or even a whole sentence, to denote that in respect to which the expression is used; as τυφλὸς τὰ ὄμματα, blind in his eyes; κάμνω τὴν κεφαλὴν, I have a pain in my head; καλὸς τὸ εἶδος, beautiful in form.

This is sometimes called the accusative by synecdoche, or the limiting accusative.

2. An accusative of this nature often has the force of an adverb. E. g.

Τοῦτον τὸν τρόπον, in this way, thus; τὴν ταχίστην (sc. ὁδόν), in the quickest way; τὴν ἀρχήν, at first (with negative, not at all); τέλος, finally; προίκα, as a gift, gratis; χάριν, for the sake of; δίκην, in the manner of; τὸ πρῶτον, at first; τὸ λοιπόν, for the rest; τἄλλα, in other respects; οὐδέν, in nothing, not at all; τί; in what, why? τί, in any respect, at all; ταῦτα, in respect to this, therefore. So τοῦτο μέν . . . τοῦτο δέ (§ 148, N. 4).

Accusative of Extent.

§ 161. The accusative may denote extent of time or space. E. g.

Αἱ σπονδαὶ ἐνιαυτὸν ἔσονται, the truce is to be for a year; ἔμεινε τρεῖς ἡμέρας, he remained three days; ἀπέχει δ' ἡ Πλάταια τῶν Θηβῶν σταδίους ἐβδομήκοντα, and Plataea is seventy stades distant from Thebes.

NOTE. This accusative with an ordinal number denotes how long since; τρίτην ἤδη ἡμέραν ἐπιδεδήμηκεν, this is the third day that he has been in town.

A peculiar idiom is found in expressions like ἔτος τουτὶ τρίτον (this the third year), i. e. two years ago.

Terminal Accusative (Poetic).

§ 162. In poetry, the accusative may denote the place whither. E. g.

Μνηστῆρας ἀφίκετο, she came to the suitors. Odyss. Ἀνέβη μέγαν οὐρανὸν Οὐλύμπόν τε. Π. Τὸ κοῖλον Ἄργος βάς φυγάς, going as an exile to the hollow Argos. Soph.

Accusative after Νή and Μά.

§ 163. The accusative follows the adverbs of swearing, νή and μά, by.

An oath introduced by νή is affirmative; one introduced by μά is negative; as νή τὸν Δία, yes, by Zeus; μά τὸν Δία, no, by Zeus.

NOTE. When μά is preceded by ναί, yes, the oath is affirmative; as ναὶ, μὰ Δία, yes, by Zeus.

Two Accusatives with one Verb.

§ 164. Verbs signifying to ask, to demand, to teach, to clothe or unclothe, to conceal, to deprive, and some others, take two accusatives, one of a person and the other of a thing. E. g.

Μέλλετε τοὺς θεοὺς αἰτεῖν ἀγαθά, you are about to ask blessings of the Gods; τοὺς παῖδας τὴν μουσικὴν διδάσκει, he teaches the boys music; ἐκδύει ἐμέ τὴν ἐσθῆτα, he strips me of my dress; μή με κρύψῃς τοῦτο, do not conceal this from me; τὴν θεὸν τοὺς στεφάνους σεσπλήκασιν, they have robbed the Goddess of her crowns.

NOTE 1. Τιμωρέομαι, to punish, sometimes takes two accusatives, τινά τι, instead of an accusative and a genitive. See the Lexicon.

NOTE 2. Verbs of depriving take also an accusative and a genitive. Thus ἀφαιρεῖσθαι τινά τι, τινός τι (sometimes τινά τινος). See the Lexicon.

§ 165. Verbs signifying to do anything to a person, or to say anything of a person, take two accusatives. E. g.

Ταυτί με ποιοῦσιν, they do these things to me; τί μ' εἰργάσω; what didst thou do to me? Ταυτί σὺ τολμᾷς ἡμᾶς λέγειν; dost thou dare to say these things of us? Οὐ φροντιστέον ὃ τι ἐροῦσιν οἱ πολλοὶ ἡμᾶς, we must not consider what the multitude will say of us.

NOTE 1. These verbs often take εὖ or καλῶς, well, or κακῶς, ill, instead of the accusative of a thing; τούτους εὖ ποιεῖ, he does them good; ὑμᾶς κακῶς ποιεῖ, he does you harm; κακῶς ἡμᾶς λέγει, he speaks ill of us.

The passive form of these expressions is not εὖ (or κακῶς) ποιεῖσθαι, εὖ (or κακῶς) λέγεσθαι, to be done well by, to be spoken well of, &c., but εὖ (or κακῶς) πάσχειν, to experience good (or evil), and εὖ (or κακῶς) ἀκούειν, bene (male) audire, to hear one's self called.

NOTE 2. Πράσσω, to do, very seldom takes two accusatives in this construction, ποιέω being generally used. Εὖ and κακῶς πράσσω are intransitive, meaning to be well off, to be badly off.

NOTE 3. Verbs signifying to do may take the dative of a person; as ἀγαθόν τι ποιῶσι τῇ πόλει, they do some good to the state.

§ 166. Verbs signifying to name, to make, to appoint, to consider, and the like, take two accusatives, both denoting the same person or thing. E. g.

Τί τὴν πόλιν προσαγορεύεις; what do you call the state? — so καλοῦσί με τοῦτο τὸ ὄνομα, they call me by this name. Στρατηγὸν αὐτὸν ἀπέδειξε, he appointed him general.

NOTE 1. Verbs signifying to divide may take two accusatives on the same principle; as τὸ στράτευμα κατένειμε δώδεκα μέρη, he divided the army into twelve parts (i. e. he made twelve parts of the army).

NOTE 2. Many other transitive verbs may take a predicate accusative to explain the object accusative; as ἔλαβε τοῦτο δῶρον, he took this as a gift; ἵππους ἄγειν θύματα τῷ ἡλίῳ, to bring horses as offerings to the Sun. Especially an interrogative pronoun may be so used; as τίνας τούτους ὀρώ; who are these whom I see? (§ 142, 3.)

In the passive, when the object accusative becomes the subject nominative, the predicate accusative (of every kind) becomes a predicate nominative. See § 136 and § 137, N. 4.

III. GENITIVE.

Genitive after Nouns (Adnominal Genitive).

§ 167. A noun in the genitive may depend on another noun, to express the relations denoted by the English of.

The most important of these relations are the following:—

1. POSSESSION: as ἡ τοῦ πατρὸς οἰκία, the father's house; ἡμῶν ἡ πατρίς, our country. So ἡ τοῦ Διὸς, the daughter of Zeus; τὰ τῶν θεῶν, the things of the Gods (§ 141, Note 4). The Possessive Genitive.

2. The SUBJECT of an action or feeling: as ἡ τοῦ δήμου εὐνοία, the good-will of the people (i. e. which the people feel). The Subjective Genitive.

3. The OBJECT of an action or feeling: as διὰ τὸ Πανσανίου μῖσος, owing to the hatred of (i. e. felt against) Pausanias; αἱ τοῦ χειμῶνος καρτερήσεις, the endurance of the winter. So τῶν θεῶν ὅρκοι, oaths (sworn) in the name of the Gods (as we say θεοῦς ὁμνῖναι, § 158, N. 2). The Objective Genitive.

4. MATERIAL, including that of which anything consists : as βοῶν ἀγέλη, a herd of cattle ; ἄλσος ἡμέρων δένδρων, a grove of cultivated trees ; κρήνη ἡδέος ὕδατος, a spring of fresh water ; δύο χοῖνικες ἀλφίτων, two quarts of meal. Genitive of Material.

5. MEASURE, of space, time, or value : as τριῶν ἡμερῶν ὁδός, a journey of three days ; ὀκτὼ σταδίων τεῖχος, a wall of eight stades (in length) ; τριάκοντα ταλάντων οὐσία, an estate of thirty talents, δίκαι πολλῶν ταλάντων, lawsuits of (i. e. involving) many talents. Genitive of Measure.

6. THE WHOLE, after nouns denoting a part : as πολλοὶ τῶν ῥητόρων, many of the orators ; ἀνὴρ τῶν ἐλευθέρων, a man (i. e. one) of the freemen. The Partitive Genitive. (See also § 168.)

The genitive depending on a noun is called adnominal.

NOTE. Examples like Ἀθηνῶν πόλις, the city of Athens, Τροίης πολιέθρον, the city of Troy, in which the genitive is used instead of apposition, are poetic.

§ 168. The partitive genitive (§ 167, 6) may follow all nouns, adjectives (especially superlatives), participles with the article, pronouns, and adverbs, which denote a part. E. g.

Οἱ ἀγαθοὶ τῶν ἀνθρώπων, the good among the men ; ὁ ἥμισυ τοῦ ἀριθμοῦ, the half of the number ; ἄνδρα οἶδα τοῦ δήμου, I know a man of the people ; τοῖς θρανίοις τῶν ναυτῶν, to the upper benches of the sailors ; οὐδεὶς τῶν παίδων, no one of the children ; πάντων τῶν ῥητόρων δεινότατος, the most eloquent of all the orators ; ὁ βουλόμενος τῶν Ἀθηναίων, any one who pleases of the Athenians ; διὰ γυναικῶν, divine among women (Hom.) ; ποῦ τῆς γῆς ; ubi terrarum ? where on the earth ? τίς τῶν πολιτῶν ; who of the citizens ? δις τῆς ἡμέρας, twice a day ; εἰς τοῦτο ἀνοίας, to this pitch of folly ; ἐν τούτῳ παρασκευῆς, in this state of preparation ; ἃ μὲν διώκει τοῦ ψηφίσματος ταῦτ' ἐστίν, these are the parts of the decree which he prosecutes (lit. what parts of the decree he prosecutes, &c.). So ὀρθότατα ἀνθρώπων λέγεις, thou speakest as the most correct of men (most correctly of men) ; ὅτε δεινότατος σαυτοῦ ταῦτα ἦσθα, when you werest at the height of your power in these matters.

NOTE 1. An adjective or participle generally agrees in gender with a following partitive genitive. But sometimes, especially when it is singular, it is neuter, agreeing with μέρος, part, understood; as τῶν πολεμίων τὸ πολὺ (for οἱ πολλοί), the greater part of the enemy; ἐπὶ πολὺ τῆς χώρας, over much of the country.

NOTE 2. A partitive genitive sometimes depends on τις or μέρος understood; as ἔφασαν ἐπιμιγνύναι σφῶν τε πρὸς ἐκείνους καὶ ἐκείνων πρὸς ἑαυτούς, they said that some of their own men had mixed with them, and some of them with their own men (τινάς being understood with σφῶν and ἐκείνων). See also § 169, 2; § 170, 2.

NOTE 3. Similar to such phrases as ποῦ γῆς; εἰς τοῦτο ἀνοίας, &c. is the use of ἔχω and an adverb with the genitive; as πῶς ἔχεις δόξης; in what state of opinion are you? οὕτω τρόπου ἔχεις, this is your character (lit. in this state of character); ὥς εἶχε τάχους, as fast as he could (lit. in the condition of speed in which he was); so ὥς εἶχε ποδῶν.

Genitive after Verbs.

§ 169. 1. Verbs signifying to be, to become, to belong, and the like, take a genitive which is equivalent to the possessive or the partitive genitive. E. g.

Ὁ νόμος οὗτος Δράκοντός ἐστιν, this law is Draco's. Πενίαν φέρειν οὐ παντός, ἀλλ' ἀνδρὸς σοφοῦ, to bear poverty is not the part of every one, but that of a wise man. Δαρείου γίνονται δύο παῖδες, two sons are born (belonging) to Darius. Τοῦτων γενοῦ μοι, become (one) of these for me.

2. Verbs signifying to name, to make, to appoint, to consider, and the like, which generally take two accusatives (§ 166), may take a partitive genitive in place of the second accusative. The genitive really depends on an accusative like τινά, ἕνα, or μέρος, understood. E. g.

Ἐμὲ θὲς τῶν πεπεισμένων, put me down as (one) of those who are persuaded. Τοῦτο τῆς ἡμετέρας ἀμελείας ἂν τις θεῖη δικαίως, any one might justly consider this to belong to our neglect.

NOTE. When these verbs become passive, they still retain the genitive; as Σόλων τῶν ἐπτά σοφιστῶν ἐκλήθη, Solon was called (one) of the Seven Sages.

3. The genitive after verbs sometimes expresses other relations of the adnominal genitive. E. g.

Τὸ τεῖχος σταδίων ἦν ὀκτώ, the wall was (one) of eight stades (in length); ἐπειδὴν ἐτῶν ἦ τις τριάκοντα, when one is thirty years old; — Genitive of Measure. Οἱ στέφανοι ῥόδων ἦσαν, the crowns were (made) of roses; τὸ τεῖχος πεποιήται λίθου, the wall is built of stone; — Genitive of Material. Οὐ τῶν κακούργων οἶκτος (sc. ἐστίν), there is no pity for the evil doers; — Objective Genitive.

§ 170. 1. Any verb may take a genitive if its action affects the object only in part. E. g.

Πέμπει τῶν Λυδῶν, he sends some of the Lydians (but πέμπει τοὺς Λυδοὺς, he sends the Lydians). Πίνει τοῦ οἴνου, he drinks of the wine. Τῆς γῆς ἔτεμον, they ravaged (some) of the land.

2. This principle applies especially to verbs signifying to share (i. e. to give or take a part), to claim, to enjoy. E. g.

Μετείχον τῆς λείας, they shared in the booty; τῆς συνέσεως μεταποιῶνται, they lay claim to (a share of) sagacity; ἀπολαύομεν τῶν ἀγαθῶν, we enjoy the blessings (i. e. our share of them); οὕτως ὄναιο τούτων, thus mayst thou enjoy these. So οὐ προσήκει μοι τῆς ἀρχῆς, I have no concern in the government (§ 184, 2, N. 1).

NOTE. Many of these verbs also take an accusative. Μετέχω and similar verbs regularly take an accusative like μέρος, part; as ἑσὺ οὐ μετέχει ἕκαστος τοῦ πλούτου μέρος, each has an equal share of the wealth (where μέρους would mean that each has only a part of a share). This use of μέρος shows the nature of the genitive after these verbs.

§ 171. 1. The genitive follows verbs signifying to take hold of, to touch, to claim, to aim at, to hit, to attain, to miss, to make trial of, to begin. E. g.

Ἐλάβετο τῆς χειρὸς αὐτοῦ, he took his hand; οὔτε πυρὸς οὔτε ἔρωτος ἐκὼν ἄπτομαι, I willingly touch neither fire nor love; τῆς συνέσεως μεταποιῶνται, they lay claim to sagacity; στοχάζεσθαι τῶν ἀνθρώπων, to aim at the men; τῆς ἀρετῆς ἐφικέσθαι, to attain to virtue; ἔτυχε τῆς δίκης, he met with justice; πειρᾶσθαι τοῦ τείχους, to make an attempt on the wall; οὐ πολέμου ἀρχομεν, we do not begin war.

NOTE. Verbs of taking hold may have an object accusative, with a genitive of the part taken hold of.

2. The genitive follows verbs signifying to taste, to smell, to hear, to perceive, to understand, to remember, to forget, to desire, to care for, to spare, to neglect, to admire, to despise.

E. g.

Ἐλευθερίας γευσάμενοι, having tasted of freedom (Hdt.); φωνῆς ἀκούειν, to hear a voice; αἰσθάνεσθαι, μεμνήσθαι, or ἐπιλανθάνεσθαι τούτων, to perceive, remember, or forget these things; συνιέναι ἀλλήλων, to understand one another; τῶν μαθημάτων ἐπιθυμῶ, I long for learning; χρημάτων φείδεσθαι, to be sparing of money; δόξης ἀμελεῖν, to neglect opinion; ἄγαμαι τῆς ἀρετῆς, I admire virtue; καταφρονεῖν τοῦ κινδύνου, to despise danger (§ 173, 2, Note).

NOTE 1. Verbs of hearing and the like may take an accusative of the thing heard, and a genitive of the person heard from; as τούτων τοιούτους ἀκούω λόγους, I hear such sayings from these men; πνέσθαι τοῦτο ὑμῶν, to learn this from you. The genitive here belongs under § 176, 1. A sentence may take the place of the accusative; as τούτων ἄκουε τί λέγουσιν, hear from these what they say. See also ἀποδέχομαι, to accept (a statement) from, in the Lexicon.

NOTE 2. The impersonals μέλει and μεταμέλει take the genitive of a thing with the dative of a person (§ 184, 2, N. 1); as μέλει μοι τούτου, I care for this; μεταμέλει σοι τούτου, thou repentest of this. Προσέχει, it concerns, has the same construction, but the genitive belongs under § 170, 2.

NOTE 3. Causative verbs of this class take the accusative of a person and the genitive of a thing; as μή μ' ἀναμνήσῃς κακῶν, do not remind me of evils (i. e. cause me to remember them); τοὺς παῖδας γευστέον αἵματος, we must make the children taste blood.

REMARK. Most of the verbs of § 171 take also the accusative. See the Lexicon. Ὄζω, to emit smell, may take two genitives; as τῆς κεφαλῆς ὄζω μύρου, I emit a smell of perfume (170, 1) from my head.

3. The genitive follows verbs signifying to rule or to command. E. g.

Ἔρως τῶν θεῶν βασιλεύει, Love is king of the Gods. Πολυκράτης Σάμου ἐτυράννει, Polycrates was tyrant of Samos. Ὀπλιτῶν καὶ ἰππέων ἐστρατήγει, he was general of infantry and cavalry; ἡγείται παντὸς καὶ ἔργου καὶ λόγου, he directs everything, both deed and word.

This construction is sometimes connected with that of § 175, 2. But the genitive seems rather to depend on the idea of king or ruler implied in the verb.

NOTE. For other cases after many of these verbs, as the dative after ἡγέομαι and ἀνάσσω, see the Lexicon.

§ 172. 1. Verbs signifying fulness and want take the genitive. E. g.

Χρημάτων εὐπορεῖ, he has abundance of money; οἱ τύραννοι ἐπαίνου οὐποτε σπανίζετε, you tyrants never have a scarcity of praise.

2. Verbs signifying to fill take the accusative and the genitive. E. g.

Ὑδατος τὴν κύλικα πληροῦν, to fill the cup with water.

NOTE 1. Δέομαι, I want, besides the ordinary construction (as τούτων ἐδέοντο, they were in want of these), may take a genitive of the person with a cognate accusative of the thing; as δεήσομαι ὑμῶν μετρίαν δέσιν, I will make of you a moderate request.

NOTE 2. Δεῖ may take a dative (sometimes in poetry an accusative) of the person besides the genitive; as δεῖ μοι τούτου, I need this; οὐ πολλοῦ πόνου με δεῖ, I have no need of much labor.

Besides the common phrases πολλοῦ δεῖ, it is far from it, ὀλίγου δεῖ, it wants little of it, we have in Demosthenes οὐδὲ πολλοῦ δεῖ (like παντὸς δεῖ), it wants everything of it (lit. it does not even want much). For ὀλίγου and μικροῦ almost, see the Lexicon.

Causal Genitive.

§ 173. 1. The genitive often denotes a cause, especially after verbs expressing praise or dispraise, pity, anger, envy, or revenge. E. g.

Τούτους τῆς τόλμης θαυμάζειν, to admire these for their courage; εὐδαιμονίζω σε τοῦ τρόπου, I congratulate you on your character; τούτους οἰκτεῖρω τῆς νόσου, I pity these on account of their sickness; τῶν ἀδικημάτων ὀργίζεσθαι αὐτοῖς, to be angry with them for their offences; ζηλοῦντες τὴν πόλιν τῆς Μαραθῶν μάχης, envying the city for the battle at Marathon; τοῦτου σοι οὐ φθονήσω, I shall not grudge you this; τούτους τῆς ἀρπαγῆς τιμωρήσασθαι, to take vengeance on these for the robbery. Most of these verbs take also an object accusative.

The genitive sometimes denotes a purpose or motive (where ἐνεκα is generally expressed); as τῆς τῶν Ἑλλήνων ἐλευθερίας, for the liberty of the Greeks. Dem. Cor. § 100. (See § 262, 2.)

NOTE. Verbs of disputing take a causal genitive; as ἀντιποιεῖσθαι τῷ βασιλεῖ τῆς ἀρχῆς, to dispute with the king about his dominion; Εὐμολπος ἡμφισβήτησεν Ἐρεχθεῖ τῆς πόλεως, Eumolpus disputed with Erechtheus about the city (i. e. disputed its possession with him).

2. Verbs signifying to accuse, to prosecute, to convict, to acquit, and to condemn take a causal genitive denoting the crime. E. g.

Αἰτιῶμαι αὐτὸν τοῦ φόνου, I accuse him of the murder; ἐγράψατο αὐτὸν παρανόμων, he indicted him for an illegal proposition; διώκει με δώρων, he prosecutes me for bribery (for gifts); Κλέωνα δώρων ἐλόντες καὶ κλοπῆς, having convicted Cleon of bribery and theft; ἔφευγε προδοσίας, he was brought to trial for treachery, but ἀπέφυγε προδοσίας, he was acquitted of treachery; πολλῶν οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν μηδισμοῦ θάνατον κατέγνωσαν, our fathers condemned many to death for favoring the Persians (for πολλῶν and θάνατον see Note).

NOTE. Compounds of κατά of this class commonly take a genitive of the person, which depends on the κατά. They may also take an object accusative denoting the crime or punishment. E. g.

Οὐδεὶς αὐτὸς αὐτοῦ κατηγορήσεώποτε, no man ever himself accused himself; καταψεύδονται μου μεγάλα, they tell great falsehoods against me; Φοίβου ἀδικίαν κατηγορεῖν, to charge injustice upon Phoebus; ἐνίων ἔπεισαν ὑμᾶς ἀκρίτων θάνατον καταψηφίσασθαι, they persuaded you to pass (sentence of) death upon some without a trial.

Verbs of condemning may take three cases, as in the last example under § 173, 2.

3. The causal genitive is sometimes used in exclamations. E. g.

ὦ Πόσειδον, τῆς τέχνης! O Poseidon, what a trade! ὦ Ζεῦ βασιλεῦ, τῆς λεπτότητος τῶν φρενῶν! O King Zeus! what subtlety of mind!

Genitive as Ablative.

§ 174. The genitive may denote that from which anything is separated or distinguished.

On this principle the genitive follows verbs denoting to remove, to restrain, to release, to abandon, to deprive, and the like. E. g.

Ἡ νῆσος οὐ πολὺν διέχει τῆς ἡπείρου, the island is not far distant from the mainland; ἐπιστήμη χωριζομένη ἀρετῆς, knowledge separated from virtue; λύσόν με δεσμῶν, release me from chains; ἐπέσχον τῆς τειχίσεως, they ceased from building the wall; πόσων ἀπεστέρησθε; of how much have you been deprived? ἔπασαν αὐτὸν τῆς στρατηγίας, they deposed him from his command; οὐ παύεσθε τῆς μοχθηρίας, you do not cease from your rascality. So εἶπον (αὐτῷ) τοῦ κήρυκος μὴ λείπεσθαι, they told him not to be left behind the herald (i. e. to follow close upon him); ἡ ἐπιστολή, ἣν οὗτος ἔγραψεν ἀπολειφθεὶς ἡμῶν, the letter which this man wrote without our knowledge (lit. separated from us).

For the accusative after verbs of depriving, see § 164.

§ 175. 1. The comparative degree takes the genitive when ἢ, than, is omitted. E. g.

Κρείττων ἐστὶ τούτων, he is better than those. Νέοις τὸ σιγᾶν κρείττον ἐστὶ τοῦ λαλεῖν, for youth silence is better than prating. Πονηρία θάπτον θανάτου τρέχει, wickedness runs faster than death.

NOTE 1. All adjectives and adverbs which imply a comparison may take a genitive; as ἕτεροι τούτων, others than these; ὕστεροι τῆς μάχης, too late for (later than) the battle; τῇ ὑστεραίᾳ τῆς μάχης, on the day after the battle. So τριπλάσιον ἡμῶν, thrice as much as we.

NOTE 2. After πλεόν (πλεῖν), more, or ἔλασσον, less, ἢ is occasionally omitted without affecting the case; as πέμψω ὄρνις ἐπ' αὐτόν, πλεῖν ἑξακοσίους τὸν ἀριθμόν, I will send birds against him, more than six hundred in number. Arist.

2. The genitive follows verbs signifying to surpass, to be inferior, and all others which imply comparison. E. g.

Ἄνθρωπος ξυνέσει ὑπερέχει τῶν ἄλλων, man surpasses the others in sagacity; τοῦ πλήθους περιγίγνεσθαι, to be superior to the multitude; ὑστερίζειν τῶν καιρῶν, to be too late for the opportunities. So τῶν ἐχθρῶν νικᾶσθαι (or ἡσσᾶσθαι), to be overcome by one's enemies; but these two verbs take also the genitive with ὑπό, and the dative. So κρατεῖν τῶν ἐχθρῶν, to prevail over one's enemies, and τῆς θαλάσσης κρατεῖν, to be master of the sea; which belong equally well under § 171, 3.

§ 176. 1. The genitive sometimes denotes the source. E. g.

Τοῦτο ἔτυχόν σου, I obtained this from you; τοῦτο ἔμαθεν ὑμῶν, he learned this from you. Add the examples under § 171, 2, N. 1.

2. In poetry, the genitive occasionally denotes the agent after passive verbs, or is used like the instrumental dative (§ 188). E. g.

Ἐν Ἅιδᾳ δὴ κεῖσθαι, σᾶς ἀλόχου σφαγεῖς Αἰγίσθου τε, thou liest now in Hades, slain by thy wife and Aegisthus. Eur.

Πρῆσαι πυρὸς δηϊόιο θύρετρα, to burn the gates with destructive fire. Il.

Genitive after Compound Verbs.

§ 177. The genitive often depends on a preposition included in a compound verb. E. g.

Πρόκειται τῆς Ἀττικῆς ὄρη μεγάλα, high mountains lie before Attica; τῶν ὑμετέρων δικαίων προίστασθαι, to stand in defence of your rights; ὑπερεφάνησαν τοῦ λόφου, they appeared above the hill; οὕτως ὑμῶν ὑπεραλγῶ, I grieve so for you; ἐπιβάντες τοῦ τείχους, having mounted the wall; ἀποτρέπει με τοῦτου, it turns me from this.

For the genitive after certain compounds of κατά, see § 173, 2, N. See also § 193.

Genitive of Price or Value.

§ 178. The genitive denotes the price or value of a thing. E. g.

Δόξα χρημάτων οὐκ ὠνητή (sc. ἐστίν), glory is not to be bought with money; πόσου διδάσκει; for what price does he teach? μισθοῦ νόμους εἰσφέρει, he proposes laws for a bribe; ὁ δοῦλος πέντε μινῶν τιμᾶται, the slave is valued at five minas. So τιμᾶται δ' οὖν μοι ὁ ἀνὴρ θανάτου, so the man estimates my punishment at death (i. e. proposes death as my punishment). Plat. So also Σφοδρίαν ὑπήγον θανάτου, they impeached Sphodrias on a capital charge.

NOTE. The genitive may depend on ἄξιος, worth, worthy, and its compounds, or on ἀξιώω, to think worthy; as ἄξιος ἐστι θανάτου, he is worthy of death; Θεμιστοκλέα τῶν μεγίστων ἡξίωσαν, they thought Themistocles worthy of the highest honors. So sometimes ἄτιμος and ἀτιμάζω.

Genitive of Time and Place.

§ 179. 1. The genitive may denote the time within which anything takes place. E. g.

Πέρσαι οἷχ ἤξουσι δέκα ἐτῶν, the Persians will not come within ten years. Τῆς νυκτὸς ἐγένετο, it happened within the night (but τὴν νύκτα means during the whole night). So δραχμὴν ἐλάμβανε τῆς ἡμέρας, he received a drachma a day.

2. A similar genitive of the place within which is found in poetry. E. g.

Ἦ οὐκ Ἀργεὸς ἦεν Ἀχαιοκοῦ; was he not in Achaean Argos? Odyss. So in the Homeric πεδίῳ τοῖο θέειν, to run on the plain (i. e. within its limits), and similar expressions. So ἀριστερῆς χειρός, on the left hand, even in Hdt.

Genitive with Adjectives.

§ 180. The objective genitive follows many verbal adjectives.

1. These adjectives are chiefly kindred (in meaning or derivation) to verbs which take the genitive. E. g.

Μέτοχος σοφίας, partaking of wisdom (§ 170, 2). Ἐπήβολος ἐπιστήμης, having attained to knowledge; ἔμπειρος κακῶν, experienced in evils; τοῦ ἀρίστου στοχαστικός, aiming at the best (§ 171, 1). Κατήκοος τῶν γονέων, obedient (lit. hearkening) to his parents; ἐπιστήμων τῶν δικαίων, understanding his rights; ἐπιμελής ἀγαθῶν, ἀμελής κακῶν, caring for the good, neglectful of the bad; φειδωλοὶ χρημάτων, sparing of money (§ 171, 2). Ἐγκρατὴς ἑαυτοῦ, being master of himself; ἀρχικὸς ἀνδρῶν, fit to rule men (§ 171, 3). Μεστὸς κακῶν, full of evils; ἔρημοι συμμάχων, destitute of allies; ἡ ψυχὴ γυμνὴ τοῦ σώματος, the soul stript of the body; καθαρὸς φόνου, free from the stain of murder (§ 172, 1). Ἐνοχος δειλίας, chargeable with cowardice (§ 173, 2). Διάφορος τῶν ἄλλων, distinguished from the others (§ 174).

2. Some are kindred to verbs which take the accusative. E. g.

Πόλεως ἀνατρεπτικός, subversive of the state; πρακτικὸς τῶν καλῶν, capable of doing noble deeds; φιλομαθὴς πάσης ἀληθείας, fond of learning all truth.

NOTE 1. Especially, adjectives compounded with alpha privative (§ 132, 1) take the genitive; as ἀγευστος κακῶν, without a taste of evils; ἀμνήμων τῶν κινδύνων, forgetful of the dangers; ἀπαθὴς κακῶν, without suffering ills; ἀκρατὴς γλώσσης, without power over his tongue.

Sometimes these adjectives take a genitive of kindred meaning, which depends on the idea of separation implied in them; as ἄπαις ἀρρένων παίδων, childless (in respect) of male children; ἄτιμος πάσης τιμῆς, destitute of all honor; ἀδωρότατος χρημάτων, most free from taking bribes.

For the genitive of price after ἄξιος, see § 178, Note.

§ 181. The possessive genitive sometimes follows adjectives denoting possession or the opposite. E. g.

Οἰκεία τῶν βασιλευνόντων, belonging to the kings; ἱερὸς ὁ χώρος τῆς Ἀρτέμιδος, the place is sacred to Artemis; κοινὸν ἀπάντων, common to all; δημοκρατίας ἀλλότρια, things foreign to democracy.

For the dative after such adjectives, which is more common than the genitive, see § 185.

NOTE. Some adjectives of place, like ἐναντίος, opposite, may take the genitive instead of the regular dative (§ 185), but chiefly in poetry; as ἐναντίοι ἔσταν Ἀχαιῶν, they stood opposite the Achaeans.

Genitive with Adverbs.

§ 182. 1. The genitive follows adverbs derived from adjectives which take the genitive. E. g.

Οἱ ἐμπείρως αὐτοῦ ἔχοντες, those who are acquainted with him; ἀναξίως τῆς πόλεως, in a manner unworthy of the state; ἐμάχοντο ἀξίως λόγου, they fought in a manner worthy of mention.

2. The genitive follows many adverbs of place. E. g.

Εἷσω τοῦ ἐρύματος, within the fortress; ἔξω τοῦ τείχους, outside of the wall; ἐκτὸς τῶν ὁρίων, without the boundaries; χωρὶς τοῦ σώματος, apart from the body; μετὰ ξὺ σοφίας καὶ ἀμαθίας, between wisdom and ignorance; πέραν τοῦ ποταμοῦ, beyond the river, πρόσθεν τοῦ στρατοπέδου, in front of the camp; ἀμφοτέρωθεν τῆς ὁδοῦ, on both sides of the road; εὐθὺ τῆς Φασήλιδος, straight to Phaselis.

Such adverbs, besides those given above, are chiefly ἐντός, within; δίχα, apart from; ἐγγύς, ἄγχι, πέλας, and πλησίον, near; πόρρω (πρόσω), far from; ὀπισθεν and κατόπιν, behind; and a few others of similar meaning. The genitive after most of them can be explained as a partitive genitive or as a genitive of separation; that after εὐθύ resembles that after verbs of aiming at (§ 171, 1).

Λάθρα and κρύφα, without the knowledge of, sometimes take the genitive.

NOTE. Πλήν, except, ἄχρι and μέχρι, until, ἄνευ and ἄτερ, without, ἔνεκα (οὖνεκα), on account of, take the genitive like prepositions. For these and ordinary prepositions with the genitive, see § 191, 1.

Genitive Absolute.

§ 183. A noun and a participle not connected with the main construction of the sentence may stand by themselves in the genitive. This is called the genitive absolute. E. g.

Ταῦτ' ἐπράχθη Κόνωνος στρατηγούντος, this was done when Conon was general. Οὐδὲν τῶν δεόντων ποιούντων ὑμῶν κακῶς τὰ πράγματα ἔχει, affairs are in a bad state while you do nothing which you ought to do. Θεῶν διδόντων οὐκ ἂν ἐκφύγοι κακά, if the Gods should grant (it to be so), he could not escape evils. Ὅντος ψεύδους ἔστιν ἀπάτη, when there is falsehood, there is deceit.

For the relations denoted by the genitive absolute, see §§ 277, 278.

IV. DATIVE.

REMARK. The primary use of the dative case is to denote that to or for which anything is or is done. It also denotes that by which or with which, and the time (sometimes the place) in which, anything takes place, — i. e. it is not merely a dative, but also an instrumental and a locative case. (See Remark before § 157.) The object of motion after to is not regularly expressed by the Greek dative, but by the accusative with a preposition. (See § 162.)

Dative expressing To or For.

§ 184. The dative is used to denote that to or for which anything is or is done. This includes

1. The dative of the indirect object after transitive verbs, which is generally introduced in English by to. E. g.

Δίδωσι μισθὸν τῷ στρατεύματι, he gives pay to the army; ὑπσχέται σοι δέκα τάλαντα, he promises ten talents to you (or he promises you ten talents); βοήθειαν πέμψομεν τοῖς συμμάχοις, we will send aid to our allies; ἔλεγον τῷ βασιλεῖ τὰ γεγενημένα, they told the king what had happened.

2. The dative after certain intransitive verbs, many of which in English take a direct object without to. E. g.

Εὔχομαι τοῖς θεοῖς, I pray (to) the Gods; δικαιοσύνη λυσιτελεῖ τῷ ἔχοντι, justice is advantageous to (or profits) the one having it; τοῖς νόμοις πείθεται, he is obedient to the laws (he obeys the laws); βοηθεῖ τοῖς φίλοις, he assists his friends; ἀρέσκει τοῖς πολίταις, it is pleasing to (or it pleases) the citizens; εἶκε ἀνάγκῃ, yield to necessity; οὐ πιστεύει τοῖς φίλοις, he does not trust his friends; τοῖς Θηβαίοις ὀνειδίζουν, they reproach the Thebans; τί ἐγκαλεῖς ἡμῖν; what have you to blame us for? ἐπηρεάζουσιν ἀλλήλοισιν, they revile one another; ὀργίζεσθε τοῖς ἀδικοῦσιν, you are angry with the offenders. So πρέπει μοι λέγειν, it is becoming me to speak; προσήκει μοι, it belongs to me; δοκεῖ μοι, it seems to me; δοκῶ μοι, methinks.

The verbs of this class which are not translated with to in English are chiefly those signifying to benefit, serve, obey, defend, assist, please, trust, satisfy, advise, exhort, or any of their opposites; also those expressing friendliness, hostility, abuse, reproach, envy, anger, or threats.

NOTE 1. The impersonals δεῖ, μέτεστι, μέλει, and προσήκει take the dative of a person with the genitive of a thing; as δεῖ μοι τούτου, I have need of this; μέτεστί μοι τούτου, I have a share in this; μέλει μοι τούτου, I am interested in this; προσήκει μοι τούτου, I am concerned in this. (For the gen., see § 170, 2, § 172, N. 2.) So μεταμέλει.

Δεῖ and χρή take the accusative (very rarely the dative) when an infinitive follows. For δεῖ (in poetry) with the accusative and the genitive, see § 172, Note 2.

NOTE 2. Some verbs of this class may take an object accusative. Others (as μισέω, to hate) take only the accusative. Κελεύω, to command, has only the accusative with the infinitive. Δοιδορέω, to revile, in the active takes the accusative, and in the middle (λοιδορόομαι) the dative.

3. The dative of advantage or disadvantage, which is generally introduced in English by for. E. g.

Πᾶς ἀνὴρ αὐτῷ πονεῖ, every man labors for himself; Σόλων Ἀθηναίοις νόμους ἔθηκε, Solon made laws for the Athenians; οἱ καιροὶ προεῖνται τῇ πόλει, the opportunities have been sacrificed for the state (for its disadvantage); ἐλπίδα ἔχει σωτηρίας τῇ πόλει, he has hope of safety for the state.

NOTE 1. A peculiar use of this dative is found in statements of time: as τῷ ἤδη δύο γενεαὶ ἐφθίατο, two generations had already passed away for him (i. e. he had seen them pass away). Hom. Ἡμέραι ἦσαν τῇ Μυτιλήνῃ ἑαλωκυῖα ἑπτὰ, for Mitylene captured (i. e. since its capture) there had been seven days. Ἡμέρα ἦν πέμπτη ἐπιπλέουσι τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις, it was the fifth day for the Athenians sailing on (i. e. it was the fifth day of their voyage).

NOTE 2. Here belong such Homeric expressions as τοῖσιν ἀνέστη, he rose up for them (i. e. to address them); τοῖσι μύθων ἤρχεν, he began to speak before them.

NOTE 3. In Homer, verbs signifying to ward off take an accusative of the thing and a dative of the person; as Δαναοῖσι λοιγὸν ἄμυνον, ward off destruction from the Danaï (lit. for the Danaï). Here the accusative may be omitted, so that Δαναοῖσι ἀμύνειν means to defend the Danaï. For other constructions of ἀμύνω, see the Lexicon.

Δέχομαι, to receive, takes a dative by a similar idiom; as δέξατό οἱ σκήπτρον, he took his sceptre from him (lit. for him).

NOTE 4. Sometimes this dative has nearly the same force as a possessive genitive; as οἱ ἵπποι αὐτοῖς δέδενται, their horses are tied (lit. the horses are tied for them); διὰ τὸ ἐσπάρθαι αὐτῷ τὸ στράτευμα, because his army has been scattered; ἤρχον τοῦ ναυτικοῦ τοῖς Συρακοσίοις, they commanded the navy for the Syracusans (i. e. the Syracusans' navy).

NOTE 5. Here belongs the so-called ethical dative, in which the personal pronouns have the force of for my sake, &c., and sometimes cannot easily be translated; as τί σοι μαθήσομαι; what am I to learn for you? πῶς ἡμῖν ἔχεις; how are you (we wish to know)?

NOTE 6. The participles βουλόμενος, ἡδόμενος, προσδεχόμενος, ἀχθόμενος, and a few others, may agree with a dative, the phrase being equivalent to the verb of the participle; as αὐτῷ βουλομένῳ ἐστίν, it is to him wishing it (i. e. he wishes it).

4. The dative of possession, after εἰμί, γίγνομαι, and similar verbs. E. g.

Πολλοί μοι φίλοι εἰσίν, I have many friends; πάντα σοι γενήσεται, all things will belong to you; ἔστιν ἀνθρώπῳ λογισμός, man has reason; Ἰππία μόνῳ τῶν ἀδελφῶν παῖδες ἐγένοντο, to Hippias alone of the brothers there were children born.

5. The dative denoting that with respect to which a statement is made,—often belonging to the whole sentence rather than to any special word. E. g.

Ἄπαντα τῷ φοβουμένῳ ψοφεῖ, everything sounds to one who is afraid; σφῶν μὲν ἐντολὴ Διὸς ἔχει τέλος, as regards you two, the order of Zeus is fully obeyed.

So in such expressions as these: ἐν δεξιᾷ ἐσπλέοντι, on the right as you sail in (with respect to one sailing in); συνελόντι, or ὡς συνελόντι εἰπεῖν, concisely, or to speak concisely (lit. for one having made the matter concise). So ὡς ἐμοί, in my opinion.

§ 185. The dative follows many adjectives and adverbs of kindred meaning with the verbs included in § 184, and some verbal nouns. E. g.

Δυσμενῆς τοῖς φίλοις, hostile to his friends; ὑποχὸς τοῖς νόμοις, subject to the laws; ἐπικίνδυνον τῇ πόλει, dangerous to the state; βλαβερόν τῷ σώματι, hurtful to the body; σοφὸς ἑαυτῷ, wise for himself; ἐναντίος αὐτῷ, opposed to him. (For the genitive after ἐναντίος, see § 181, Note.) So καταδούλωσις τῶν Ἑλλήνων τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις, subjugation of the Greeks to the Athenians. Συμφερόντως αὐτῷ, profitably to himself; ἐμποδὼν ἐμοί, in my way.

Dative of Resemblance and Union.

§ 186. The dative is used with all words implying resemblance, union, or approach. This includes verbs, adjectives, adverbs, and nouns. E. g.

Σκιαῖς ἐοικότες, like shadows : ὁμιλοῦσι τοῖς κακοῖς, they associate with the bad ; τοὺς φεύγοντας αὐτοῖς ξυνήλλαξεν, he reconciled the exiles with them ; ὁμολογοῦσιν ἀλλήλοις, they agree with one another ; διαλέγονται τούτοις, they converse with these ; τοὺς ἵππους ψόφοις πλησιάζειν, to bring the horses near to noises. "Ομοιοι τοῖς τυφλοῖς, like the blind ; κύματα ἴσα ὄρεσσιν, waves like mountains (Hom.) ; τοῖς αὐτοῖς Κύρῳ ὅπλοις ὥπλισμένοι, armed with the same arms as Cyrus. Ἐγγὺς ὁδῷ, near a road (also the genitive, § 182, 2) ; ἅμα τῇ ἡμέρᾳ, as soon as (it was) day ; ὁμοῦ τῷ πῇλῳ, together with the mud ; τὰ τούτοις ἐφεξῆς, what comes next to these.

NOTE 1. To this class belong not merely such verbs as διαλέγομαι, to discourse with, but also μάχομαι, πολεμέω, and others signifying to contend with, to quarrel with ; as μάχεσθαι τοῖς Θεβαίοις, to fight with the Thebans ; πολεμοῦσιν ἡμῖν, they are at war with us ; ἐρίζουσιν ἀλλήλοις, they contend with each other ; διαφέρεσθαι τοῖς πονηροῖς, to be at variance with the base. So ἐς χεῖρας ἐλθεῖν τινι, or ἐς λόγους ἐλθεῖν τινι, to come to a conflict (or words) with any one.

NOTE 2. After adjectives of likeness, an abridged form of expression may be used ; as κόμαι Χαρίτεσσιν ὁμοῖαι, hair like (that of) the Graces (Hom.) ; τὰς ἴσας πληγὰς ἐμοί, the same number of blows with me.

Dative after Compound Verbs.

§ 187. The dative follows many verbs compounded with ἐν, σύν, or ἐπί ; and some compounded with πρός, παρά, περί, and ὑπό. E. g.

Τοῖς νόμοις ἐμμένων, abiding by the laws ; αἱ ἡδοναὶ ἐπιστήμην οὐδεμίαν ψυχῇ ἐμποιοῦσιν, pleasures produce no knowledge in the soul ; ἐνέκειντο τῷ Περικλεῖ, they pressed hard on Pericles ; ἐμαυτῷ συνῆδειν οὐδὲν ἐπισταμένῳ, I was conscious to myself that I knew nothing (lit. with myself) ; ἤδη ποτέ σοι ἐπῆλθεν ; did it ever occur to you? Προσβάλλειν τῷ τειχίσματι, to attack the fortification ; ἀδελφὸς ἀνδρὶ παρείη, let a brother stand by a man (i. e. let a man's brother stand by him) ; τοῖς κακοῖς περιπίπτουσιν, they are involved in evils ; ὑπόκειται τὸ πεδίον τῷ ἱερῷ, the plain lies below the temple.

The dative here sometimes depends on the preposition (§ 193), and sometimes may be explained by the meaning of the compound verb.

Causal and Instrumental Dative.

§ 188. 1. The dative is used to denote the cause, manner, means, or instrument. E. g.

CAUSE: Ἀποθνήσκει νόσῳ, he dies of disease; πολλάκις ἀγνοίᾳ ἁμαρτάνομεν, we often err through ignorance. MANNER: Δρόμῳ ἤπειγοντο, they pressed forward on a run; πολλῇ κραυγῇ ἐπίασι, they advance with a loud shout; τῇ ἀληθείᾳ, in truth; τῷ ὄντι, in reality; βίᾳ, forcibly; ταύτῃ, in this manner, thus. MEANS OR INSTRUMENT: Ὀρώμεν τοῖς ὀφθαλμοῖς, we see with our eyes; ἐγνώσθησαν τῇ σκευῇ τῶν ὅπλων, they were recognized by the fashion of their arms; κακοῖς ἰᾶσθαι κακά, to cure evils by evils; οὐδεὶς ἔπαινον ἡδοναῖς ἐκτήσατο, no one gains praise by pleasures.

NOTE 1. The dative of respect is a form of the dative of manner; as δυνατὸς τῷ σώματι, strong in his body; πόλις, Θάψακος ὀνόματι, a city, Thapsacus by name.

NOTE 2. Χράομαι, to use (to serve one's self by), takes the instrumental dative; as χρῶνται ἀργυρίῳ, they use money. A neuter pronoun (e. g. τί, τὶ, ὅ τι, or τοῦτο) may be added as a cognate accusative (§ 159, N. 2); as τί τούτοις χρήσομαι; what shall I do with these? (lit. what use shall I make of these?). Νομίζω has sometimes the same meaning and construction as χράομαι.

2. The dative of manner is used with comparatives to denote the degree of difference. E. g.

Πολλῷ κρείττον ἔστιν, it is much better (better by much); τῇ κεφαλῇ μείζων (or ἐλάττων), a head taller (or shorter); τοσοῦτῳ ἡδίων ζῶ, I live so much the more happily; τέχνη ἀνάγκης ἀσθενεστέρα μακρῷ, art is weaker than necessity by far.

So sometimes with superlatives, and even with other expressions which imply comparison; as μακρῷ κάλλιστά τε καὶ ἄριστα, by far the most beautiful and the best; δέκα ἔτεσι πρὸ τῆς ἐν Σαλαμῖνι ναυμαχίας, ten years before the battle at Salamis.

3. The dative sometimes denotes the agent with passive verbs, especially with the perfect and pluperfect. E. g.

Τοῦτο ἤδη σοι πέπρακται, this has now been done by you; ἐπειδὴ παρεσκεύαστο τοῖς Κορινθίοις, when preparation had been made by the Corinthians.

With other tenses, the agent is regularly expressed by ὑπό, &c. and the genitive (§ 197, 1); rarely by the dative, except in poetry.

4. With the verbal adjective in -τέος the agent is expressed by the dative, but sometimes by the accusative. See § 281.

5. The dative is used to denote that by which any person or thing is accompanied. E. g.

ἦλθον οἱ Πέρσαι παμπληθεὶ στόλῳ, the Persians came with an army in full force; ἡμεῖς καὶ ἵπποις τοῖς δυνατωτάτοις καὶ ἀνδράσι πορευόμεθα, let us march with the strongest horses and with men; οἱ Λακεδαιμόνιοι τῷ τε κατὰ γῆν στρατῷ προσέβαλλον τῷ τειχίσματι καὶ ταῖς ναυσίν, the Lacedaemonians attacked the wall both with their land army and with their ships.

This dative is used chiefly in reference to military forces, and is originally connected with the dative of means or instrument. The last example might be placed equally well under § 188, 1.

NOTE. This dative sometimes takes the dative of αὐτός for emphasis; as μίαν (ναῦν) αὐτοῖς ἀνδράσιν εἶλον, they took one (ship)-even and all.

Dative of Time.

§ 189. The dative often denotes time when. This is confined chiefly to nouns denoting day, night, month, or year, and to names of festivals. E. g.

Τῇ αὐτῇ ἡμέρᾳ ἀπέθανεν, he died on the same day; Ἑρμαῖ μιᾷ νυκτὶ οἱ πλείστοι περιεκόπησαν, the most of the Hermae were mutilated in one night; οἱ Σάμιοι ἐξεπολιορκήθησαν ἐν ἅτῳ μηνί, the Samians were taken by siege in the ninth month; τετάρτῳ ἔτει ξυνέβησα, they came to terms in the fourth year; ὥσπερὶ Θεσμοφορίοις ἡστεύομεν, we fast as if it were on the Thesmophoria. So τῇ ὑστεραίᾳ (sc. ἡμέρᾳ), on the following day, and δευτέρᾳ, τρίτῃ, on the second, third, &c., in giving the day of the month.

NOTE. Even the words mentioned, except names of festivals, generally take ἐν when no adjective word is joined with them. Thus ἐν νυκτί, at night (rarely in poetry νυκτί), but μιᾷ νυκτί, in one night.

A few expressions occur like ὑστέρῳ χρόνῳ, in after time; χειμῶνος ὥρᾳ, in the winter season; νουμηνία (new-moon day), on the first of the month; and others in poetry.

Dative of Place (Poetic).

§ 190. In poetry, the dative often denotes the place where. E. g.

Ἑλλάδι ναίων, dwelling in Hellas; αἰθέρι ναίων, dwelling in heaven; οὐρεσι, on the mountains; τόξ' ὤμοισιν ἔχων, having the bow on his shoulders; μέμνει ἀγρῷ, he remains in the country. Hom Ἦσθαι δόμοις, to sit at home. Aesch. Νῦν ἀγροῖσι τυγχάνει, now he happens to be in the country. Soph.

NOTE. In prose, the dative of place is chiefly confined to the names of Attic demes; as ἡ Μαραθῶνι μάχη, the battle at Marathon; but only ἐν Ἀθήναις. Still some exceptions occur.

Some adverbs of place are really local datives; as ταύτῃ, τῇδε, here; οἴκοι, at home; κύκλῳ, in a circle, all around. See § 61, N. 2.

PREPOSITIONS.

§ 191. 1. The following prepositions take the genitive:—

Ἀμφί, ἀντί, ἀπό, διά, ἐκ (ἐξ), ἐπί, κατά, μετά, παρά, περί, πρό, πρόσ, ὑπέρ, ὑπό, — i. e. all the prepositions except εἰς (ὄς), ἐν, σύν, ἀνά. Also ἄνευ, ἄτερ, ἄχρι, μέχρι, ἔνεκα, and πλήν, which are sometimes called improper prepositions.

NOTE. Even ἀνά takes the genitive in the Homeric ἀνά νηὸς βαίκα, to go on board of a ship.

2. The following prepositions take the dative:—

Ἀμφί, ἀνά, ἐν, ἐπί, μετά, παρά, περί, πρόσ, σύν (ξύν), ὑπό.

3. The following take the accusative:—

Ἀμφί, ἀνά, διά, εἰς (or ἐς), ἐπί, κατά, μετά, παρά, περί, πρόσ, ὑπέρ, ὑπό, — i. e. all except ἀντί, ἀπό, ἐκ, ἐν, πρό, σύν. Ὡς, to, is sometimes used for πρόσ with words denoting persons.

NOTE 1. The meaning and use of the prepositions must be learned by practice and from the Lexicon. It will be noticed how the peculiar meaning of each case often modifies the original force of a preposition. Thus παρά means near, alongside of; and we have παρὰ τοῦ βασιλέως, from the neighborhood of the king, — παρὰ τῷ βασιλεῖ, in the neighborhood of the king, — παρὰ τὸν βασιλέα, into the neighborhood of the king.

NOTE 2. The prepositions were originally adverbs; and as such they are sometimes used without a noun, especially in the older Greek, — seldom in Attic prose. Thus περί, roundabout or exceedingly, in Homer; πρόσ δέ or καὶ πρόσ, and besides, in Herodotus.

NOTE 3. The preposition of a compound verb may also stand separately, in which case its adverbial force plainly appears; as ἐπί κνέφας ἦλθε (for κνέφας ἐπῆλθε), darkness came on; ἡμῖν ἀπὸ λοιγὸν ἀμύναι (for ἀπαμύναι), to ward off destruction from us.

This is called tnesis, and is found chiefly in Homer.

NOTE 4. A preposition sometimes follows its case, or a verb to which it belongs; as νεῶν ἀπο, παιδὸς περί; ὀλέσας ἀπο (for ἀπολέσας). For the accent, see § 23, 2.

NOTE 5. A few prepositions are used adverbially with a verb understood; as πάρα for πάρεστι, ἔπι and μέτα (in Homer) for ἔπεστι and μέτεστι. So ἔνι for ἔνεστι, and ἀνα, ὑπ! for ἀνάστα (ἀνάστηθι). For the accent, see § 23, 2.

NOTE 6. Sometimes εἰς with the accusative stands, by a peculiar mixture of constructions, for ἐν with the dative; as αἱ ξύνοδοι εἰς τὸ ἱερόν ἐγίγοντο, the synods were held in the temple (lit. into the temple, involving the idea of going into the temple to hold the synods). So ἀπό with the genitive for ἐν with the dative; as διήρπαστο καὶ αὐτὰ τὰ ἀπὸ τῶν οἰκιῶν ξύλα, even the very timbers in the houses (lit. from the houses) had been stolen.

§ 192. 1. Four prepositions take the genitive only: ἀντί, ἀπό, ἐκ (ἐξ), and πρό, — with ἄνευ, ἄτερ, ἄχρι, μέχρι, ἔνεκα, and πλὴν.

2. Two take the dative only: ἐν and σύν (ξύν).

3. Two take the accusative only: εἰς (ἐς) and ὡς.

4. Three take the genitive and accusative: διά, κατά, and ὑπέρ.

5. One, ἀνά, takes the dative and accusative, very rarely the genitive (§ 191, 1, Note). The dative is only Epic and Lyric.

6. Seven take the genitive, dative, and accusative: ἀμφί, ἐπί, μετά, παρά, περί, πρόσ, and ὑπό.

§ 193. A preposition is often followed by its own case when it is part of a compound verb. E. g.

Παρακομίζοντο τὴν Ἰταλίαν, they sailed along the coast of Italy; ἐσῆλθέ με, it occurred to me; ἡ μήτηρ συνέπραττεν αὐτῷ ταῦτα, his mother assisted him in this (i. e. ἔπραττε σὺν αὐτῷ). For the genitive, see § 177; for the dative, see § 187.

ADVERBS.

§ 194. Adverbs qualify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs. E. g.

Οὕτως εἶπεν, thus he spoke; ὡς δύναμαι, as I am able; πρῶτον ἀπῆλθε, he first went away; τὸ ἀληθὺς κακόν, that which is truly evil; μᾶλλον πρεπόντως ἡμφιεσμένη, more becomingly dressed.

For adjectives used in the sense of adverbs, see § 138, N. 7. For adverbs preceded by the article and qualifying a noun, see § 141, N. 3. For negative adverbs, see § 283.

THE VERB.

Active.

§ 195. In the active voice the subject is represented as acting or being; as τρέπω τοὺς ὀφθαλμούς, I turn my eyes; ὁ πατὴρ φιλεῖ τὸν παῖδα, the father loves the child; οὗτός ἐστι σοφός, this man is wise.

NOTE. The active voice includes most intransitive verbs; as τρέχω, to run; εἰμί, to be. Some transitive verbs have certain intransitive tenses; as ἕστηκα, I stand, ἕστην, I stood, from ἵστημι, to place. Such tenses are said to have a middle or a passive meaning.

The same verb may be both transitive and intransitive; as ἐλαύνω, to drive or to march. In the second case we may supply ἐμαυτόν, myself. Compare the English verbs drive, turn, move, &c.

Passive.

§ 196. In the passive voice the subject is represented as acted upon; as ὁ παῖς ὑπὸ τοῦ πατρὸς φιλεῖται, the child is loved by the father.

§ 197. 1. The object of the active becomes the subject of the passive. The subject of the active, the agent, is generally expressed by ὑπό and the genitive in the passive construction.

NOTE 1. Other prepositions than ὑπό with the genitive of the agent, though used in poetry, are not common in Attic prose. Such are παρά, πρός, ἐξ, and ἀπό.

NOTE 2. When the active is followed by two accusatives, or by an accusative and a dative, the case denoting a person is generally made the subject of the passive, and the other case remains unchanged. E. g.

Ὁὐδὲν ἄλλο διδάσκεται ἄνθρωπος, the man is taught nothing else (in the active οὐδὲν ἄλλο διδάσκουσι τὸν ἄνθρωπον). Ἄλλο τι μείζον ἐπιταχθήσεσθε, you will have some other greater command imposed on you (act. ἄλλο τι μείζον ὑμῖν ἐπιτάξουσιν, they will impose some other greater command on you). Οἱ ἐπιτετραμμένοι τὴν φυλακὴν, those to whom the guard has been entrusted (act. ἐπιτρέπειν τὴν φυλακὴν τοῖς). Διφθέραν ἐννημμένος, clad in a leathern jerkin (act. ἐνάπτειν τί τι, to fit a thing on one). So ἐκκόπτεσθαι τὸν ὀφθαλμόν, to have his eye cut out, and ἀποτέμεσθαι τὴν κεφαλὴν, to have his head cut off, &c., from possible active constructions ἐκκόπτειν τί τι, and ἀποτέμνειν τί τι (§ 184, 3, N. 4). This construction has nothing to do with that of § 160.

See also § 169, 2, Note, for a genitive retained with the passive.

2. The perfect and pluperfect passive generally take the dative of the agent (§ 188, 3).

The verbal in -τέος or -τέον takes the dative (sometimes the accusative) of the agent (§ 188, 4).

§ 198. Even the cognate accusative (§ 159) can be made the subject of the passive. Thus even intransitive verbs can have a passive voice. E. g.

Ἄσεβεῖται οὐδέν, no act of impiety is committed (act. ἀσεβεῖν οὐδέν). This occurs chiefly in such participial expressions as τὰ ἡσεβημένα, the impious acts which have been committed; τὰ κινδυνευθέντα, the risks which were run; τὰ ἡμαρτημένα, the errors which have been made, &c.

Middle.

§ 199. In the middle voice the subject is represented

1. As acting on himself; as ἐτράποντο πρὸς ληστείαν, they turned themselves to piracy.

2. As acting for himself; as ὁ δῆμος τίθεται νόμους, the people make laws for themselves, whereas τίθησι νόμους would properly be said of a lawgiver.

3. As acting on an object which belongs to himself; as ἦλθε λυσόμενος θύγατρα, he came to ransom his (own) daughter. Hom.

NOTE 1. The last two uses may be united in one verb, as in the last example. Often the middle expresses no more than is implied in the active; thus τρόπαιον ἵστασθαι, to raise a trophy for themselves, generally adds nothing to what is implied in τρόπαιον ἱστάναι, to raise a trophy; and either form can be used. The middle sometimes does not differ at all from the active; as the poetic ιδέσθαι, to see, and ιδεῖν.

NOTE 2. The middle sometimes has a causative meaning; as ἐδίδαξάμην σε, I had you taught.

This gives rise to some special uses of the middle; as in δανείζω, to lend, δανείζομαι, to borrow (cause somebody to lend to one's self). So μισθόω, to let, μισθόομαι, to hire (cause to be let to one's self).

NOTE 3. The middle of certain verbs is peculiar in its meaning. Thus, ἀποδίδωμι, to give back, ἀποδίδομαι, to sell; γράφω, to write or to propose a vote, γράφομαι, to indict; τιμωρῶ τινα, I avenge a person, τιμωροῦμαι τινα, I avenge myself on a person or I punish a person; ἄπτω, to fasten, ἄπτομαι, to cling to (so ἔχω and ἔχομαι).

The passive of some of these verbs is used as a passive to both active and middle; thus γραφῆναι can mean either to be written or to be indicted.

NOTE 4. The future middle of some verbs has a passive sense; as ἀδικέω, to wrong, ἀδικήσομαι, I shall be wronged.

TENSES.

I. TENSES OF THE INDICATIVE.

§ 200. The tenses of the indicative express action as follows:—

PRESENT, continued present action; γράφω, I am writing.

IMPERFECT, continued past action; ἔγραφον, I was writing.

PERFECT, action finished in present time; γέγραφα, I have written.

PLUPERFECT, action finished in past time; ἔγεγράφευ, I had written.

AORIST, simple past action; ἔγραψα, I wrote.

FUTURE, simple future action; γράψω, I shall write.

FUTURE PERFECT, action to be finished in future time; γεγραψεται, it will have been written.

NOTE 1. In narration, the present is sometimes used vividly for the aorist; as πορεύεται πρὸς βασιλέα ἢ ἐδύνατο τάχιστα, he goes (went) to the king as fast as he could.

For the present expressing a general truth, see § 205, 1.

NOTE 2. The present and especially the imperfect often express an attempted action; as πείθουσιν ὑμᾶς, they are trying to persuade you; Ἀλόννησον ἐδίδου, he offered (tried to give) Halonnesus; ἂ ἐπράσσετο οὐκ ἐγένετο, what was attempted did not happen.

NOTE 3. The presents ἦκω, I am come, and οἶχομαι, I am gone, have the force of perfects; the imperfects having the force of pluperfects.

The present εἶμι, I am going, has a future sense.

NOTE 4. The present with πάλαι or other expression of past time has the force of a present and perfect combined; as πάλαι σοι τοῦτο λέγω, I have long been telling you this (which I now tell).

NOTE 5. The *ao*rist takes its name (ἀόριστος, unlimited, unqualified) from its denoting a simple past occurrence, with none of the limitations (ὅροι) as to completion, continuance, &c., which belong to the other past tenses. It corresponds exactly to the so-called imperfect in English, whereas the Greek imperfect corresponds to the forms I was doing, &c. Thus, ἐποίει τοῦτο is he was doing this or he did this habitually; πεποίηκε τοῦτο is he has already done this; ἐπεποίηκε τοῦτο is he had already (at some past time) done this; but ἐποίησε τοῦτο is simply he did this, without qualification of any kind.

The *ao*rist of verbs which denote a state or condition generally expresses the entrance into that state or condition; as πλουτέω, to be rich; ἐπλούτουν, I was rich; ἐπλούτησα, I became rich. So ἐβασίλευσε, he became king; ἥρξε, he obtained office.

The distinction between the imperfect and *ao*rist was sometimes neglected, especially in the earlier Greek. See βαῖνον and βῆ in II. I. 437 and 439; βάλλετο and βάλετο in II. II. 43 and 45; ἔλιπεν and λείπε, II. II. 106 and 107.

NOTE 6. Some perfects have a present meaning; as θνήσκειν, to die, τεθνηκέναι, to be dead; γίγνεσθαι, to become, γεγονέναι, to be; μιμνήσκειν, to remind, μεμνήσθαι, to remember; καλεῖν, to call, κεκληθῆσθαι, to be called. So οἶδα, I know, novi. This is usually explained by the meaning of the verb.

In such verbs the pluperfect has the force of an imperfect; as ᾔδειν, I knew (§ 130, 2).

NOTE 7. The perfect sometimes refers vividly to the future; as εἴ με αἰσθήσεται, ὄλωλα, if he shall perceive me, I am ruined (perii). So sometimes the present; as ἀπόλλυμαι, I perish! (for I shall perish).

NOTE 8. The second person of the future may express a permission, or even a command; as πράξεις οἷον ἂν θέλῃς, you may act as you please; πάντως δὲ τοῦτο δράσεις, and by all means do this (you shall do this). So in imprecations; as ἀπολείσθε, to destruction with you! (lit. you shall perish). See § 257.

NOTE 9. The future perfect is sometimes merely an emphatic future, denoting that a future act will be immediate or decisive; as φράξε καὶ πεπραξέται, speak, and it shall be (no sooner said than) done.

§ 201. The division of the tenses of the indicative into primary and secondary (or historical) is explained in § 90, 2.

In dependent clauses, when the construction allows both subjunctive and optative, or both indicative and optative, the subjunctive or indicative regularly follows primary tenses, and the optative follows secondary tenses. E. g.

Πράττουσιν ἂν βούλωνται, they do whatever they please; ἔπραττον ἂν βούλοιντο, they did whatever they pleased. Λέγουσιν ὅτι τοῦτο βούλωνται, they say that they wish for this; ἔλεξαν ὅτι τοῦτο βούλοιντο, they said that they wished for this.

These constructions will be explained hereafter (§ 233 and § 243).

The gnomic aorist is a primary tense, as it refers to present time (§ 205, 2); and the historic present is secondary, as it refers to past time (§ 200, N. 1).

NOTE 1. The only exception to this principle occurs in indirect discourse, where the form of the direct discourse can always be retained, even after secondary tenses. See § 242, § 248, N., § 216, 2.

NOTE 2. The distinction into primary and secondary tenses extends to the dependent moods only where the tenses keep the same distinction of time which they have in the indicative. It is important chiefly in the infinitive in indirect discourse (§ 203).

II. TENSES OF THE DEPENDENT MOODS.

A. Not in Indirect Discourse.

§ 202. In the subjunctive and imperative, and also in the optative and infinitive when they are not in indirect discourse (§ 203), the tenses chiefly used are the present and aorist.

1. These tenses here differ only in this, that the present denotes a continued or repeated action, while the aorist denotes a simple occurrence of the action, the time of both being precisely the same. E. g.

Ἐὰν ποιῇ τοῦτο, if he shall do this (habitually), εἰ ποιήσῃ τοῦτο, (simply) if he shall do this; εἰ ποιοίῃ τοῦτο, if he should do this (habitually), εἰ ποιήσειε τοῦτο, (simply) if he should do this; ποίει τοῦτο, do this (habitually), ποιήσουν τοῦτο, (simply) do this. Οὕτω νικήσαιμί τ' ἐγὼ καὶ νομιζοίμην σοφός, on this condition may I gain the victory (aor.) and be considered (pres.) wise. Βούλεται τοῦτο ποιεῖν, he wishes to do this (habitually), βούλεται τοῦτο ποιῆσαι, (simply) he wishes to do this.

This is a distinction entirely unknown to the Latin, which has (for example) only one form, si faciat, corresponding to εἰ ποιοίῃ and εἰ ποιήσειεν. Even the Greek does not always regard it; and in many cases it is indifferent which tense is used.

2. The perfect, when it occurs in these constructions, represents an action as finished at the time at which the present would represent it as going on. E. g.

Δέδοικα μὴ λήθην πεποιήκη, I fear lest it may prove to have caused forgetfulness (μὴ ποιῇ would mean lest it may cause). Μηδενὶ βοηθεῖν ὅς ἂν μὴ πρότερος βεβοηθηκῶς ὑμῖν ᾖ, to help no one who shall not previously have helped you (ὅς ἂν μὴ . . . βοηθῇ would mean who shall not previously help you). Οὐκ ἂν διὰ τοῦτό γ' εἶεν οὐκ εὐθὺς δέδωκότες, they would not (on inquiry) prove to have failed to pay on this account (with διδοίεν this would mean they would not fail to pay). Οὐ βουλευέσθαι ἔτι ὥρα, ἀλλὰ βεβουλευέσθαι, it is no longer time to be deliberating, but (it is time) to have finished deliberating.

NOTE 1. The perfect imperative generally expresses a command that something shall be decisive and permanent; as ταῦτα εἰρήσθω, let this have been said (i. e. let what has been said be final), or let this (which follows) be said once for all; μέχρι τοῦδε ὠρίσθω ὑμῶν ἡ βραδυτής, at this point let the limit of your sluggishness be fixed. This is confined to the third person singular passive; the rare second person singular middle being merely emphatic. The active is used only when the perfect has a present meaning (§ 200, N. 6).

NOTE 2. The perfect infinitive is sometimes used like the imperative (Note 1), and sometimes it is merely emphatic; as εἶπον τὴν θύραν κεκλεισθαι, they ordered the gate to be shut (and kept so); ἤλαυνεν ἐπὶ τοὺς Μένωνος, ὥστ' ἐκείνους ἐκπεπλήχθαι καὶ τρέχειν ἐπὶ τὰ ὄπλα, so that they were (once for all) thoroughly frightened and ran to arms (the perfect here is merely more emphatic than the present). The regular meaning of this tense, when it is not in indirect discourse, is that given in § 202, 2.

3. The future infinitive is regularly used only in indirect discourse (§ 203).

It occurs occasionally in other constructions, in place of the regular present or aorist, to make more emphatic the future idea which the infinitive receives from the context. E. g.

Ἐδεήθησαν τῶν Μεγαρέων ναυσὶ σφᾶς ξυμπροπέμψειν, they asked the Megarians to escort them with ships; οὐκ ἀποκωλύσειν δυνατοὶ ὄντες, not being able to prevent. So rarely after ὥστε, and to express a purpose. In all these constructions the future is strictly exceptional, the only regular forms of the infinitive out of indirect discourse being the present and aorist, except in the few cases in which the perfect is used (§ 202, 2) and in the case mentioned in the following Note. See also § 203, N. 2.

NOTE. One regular exception to the principle just stated is found in the periphrastic future (§ 98, 3), where the present and future infinitives with μέλλω are equally common, but the aorist is very rare.

4. The future optative is used only in indirect discourse (§ 203, N. 3). Even here the future indicative generally takes its place. See also § 217, and § 248, Note.

B. In Indirect Discourse.

REMARK. The term indirect discourse includes all clauses depending on a verb of saying or thinking which contain the thoughts or words of any person stated indirectly, i. e. incorporated into the general structure of the sentence. It includes of course all indirect quotations and questions.

§ 203. When the optative and infinitive stand in indirect discourse, each tense represents the corresponding tense of a verb in the direct discourse. E. g.

Ἔλεγεν ὅτι γράφοι, he said that he was writing (he said γράφω, I am writing); ἔλεγεν ὅτι γράψοι, he said that he would write (he said γράφω, I will write); ἔλεγεν ὅτι γράψειεν, he said that he had written (he said ἔγραψα); ἔλεγεν ὅτι γεγραφώς εἶη, he said that he had already written (he said γέγραφα). Ἦρετο εἴ τις ἐμοῦ εἶη σοφώτερος, he asked whether any one was wiser than I (he asked ἔστι τις);

Φησὶ γράφειν, he says that he is writing (he says γράφω); φησὶ γράψειν, he says that he will write (γράφω); φησὶ γράψαι, he says that he wrote (ἔγραψα); φησὶ γεγραφέναι, he says that he has written (γέγραφα).

Εἶπεν ὅτι ἄνδρα ἄγοι ὃν εἶρξαι δέοι, he said that he was bringing a man whom it was necessary to confine (he said ἄνδρα ἄγω ὃν εἶρξαι δεῖ). Ἐλογίζοντο ὥς, εἰ μὴ μάχοιντο, ἀποστήσονται αἱ πό-λεις, they considered that, if they should not fight, the cities would revolt (they thought ἐὰν μὴ μάχόμεθα, ἀποστήσονται, if we do not fight, they will revolt).

These constructions will be explained in § 243; § 246; and § 247, 1. They are given here merely to show the different force of the tenses in indirect discourse and in other constructions. Compare especially the difference between φησὶ γράφειν and φησὶ γράψαι under § 203 with that between βούλεται ποιεῖν and βούλεται ποιῆσαι under § 202. Notice also the same distinction in respect to the present and aorist optative.

NOTE 1. The present infinitive represents the imperfect as well as the present indicative; as τίνας εὐχὰς ὑπολαμβάνετ' εὔχεσθαι τὸν Φίλιππον ὅτ' ἔσπενδεν; what prayers do you suppose Philip made when he was pouring libations? (i. e. τίνας ἡὔχετο;). The perfect infinitive likewise represents both perfect and pluperfect.

So rarely the present optative represents the imperfect indicative. See § 243, Note 1.

NOTE 2. Verbs of hoping, expecting, promising, &c., form an intermediate class between verbs which take the infinitive in indirect discourse and those which do not (see Rem. before § 203); and they allow either the future infinitive (as in § 203) or the present and aorist (as in § 202). E. g.

Ἦλπιζον μάχην ἔσσεσθαι, they expected that there would be a battle (Thuc.); but ἀὐποτε ἤλπισεν παθεῖν, what he never expected to suffer (Eur.). Ὑπέσχετό μοι βουλεύεσθαι, and ἰπέσχετο μηχανὴν παρῆξειν (both in Xen.)

The construction of indirect discourse (the future) is the more common here. In English we can say I hope (expect or promise) to do this (like ποιεῖν or ποιῆσαι), or I hope I shall do this (like ποιήσειν).

NOTE 3. The future optative is never used except as the representative of the future indicative, either in indirect discourse (as in the examples under § 203), or in the construction of § 217 (which is governed by the principles of indirect discourse).

III. TENSES OF THE PARTICIPLE.

§ 204. The tenses of the participle express generally the same time as those of the indicative; but they are present, past, or future relatively to the time of the verb with which they are connected. E. g.

Ἄμαρτάνει τοῦτο ποιῶν, he errs in doing this; ἡμάρτανε τοῦτο ποιῶν, he erred in doing this; ἀμαρτήσεται τοῦτο ποιῶν, he will err in doing this. (Here ποιῶν is first present, then past, then future, absolutely; but always present to the verb of the sentence.) Ταῦτα εἰπόντες ἀπῆλθον, having said this, they departed. Οὐ πολλοὶ φαίνονται ξυνελθόντες, not many appear to have joined the expedition. Ἐπῆνεσαν τοὺς εἰρηκότας, they praised those who had (already) spoken. Τοῦτο ποιήσων ἔρχεται, he is coming to do this; τοῦτο ποιήσων ἦλθεν, he came to do this.

NOTE 1. The present here represents also the imperfect; as οἶδα καέκινω σωφρονοῦντε, ἔστε Σωκράτει συνήστην, I know that they both were continent as long as they associated with Socrates (i. e. ἐσωφρονεῖτην).

NOTE 2. The aorist participle in certain constructions does not denote time past with reference to the leading verb, but expresses a simple occurrence without regard to time (like the aorist infinitive in § 202). This is so in the following examples:—

Ἔτυχεν ἐλθών, he happened to come; ἔλαθεν ἐλθών, he came secretly; ἔφθη ἐλθών, he came first. (See § 279, 2.) Περιδεῖν τὴν γῆν τμηθεῖσαν, to allow the land to be ravaged (to see it ravaged). (See § 279, 3.) Εὖ γ' ἐποίησας ἀναμνήσας με, you did well in reminding me, and elsewhere when the participle denotes that in which the action of the verb consists. (See § 277.)

IV. GNOMIC AND ITERATIVE TENSES.

§ 205. 1. The present is the tense commonly used in Greek, as in English, to denote a general truth or an habitual action; as πλοῖον εἰς Δῆλον Ἀθηναῖοι πέμπουσιν, the Athenians send a ship to Delos (annually).

2. In animated language, the aorist is used in this sense. This is called the gnomic aorist, and is generally translated by the English present. E. g.

Ἦν τις τούτων τι παραβαίνη, ζημίαν αὐτοῖς ἐπέθεσαν, i. e. they impose a penalty on all who transgress. Μί' ἡμέρα τὸν μὲν καθεῖλεν ὑψόθεν, τὸν δ' ἦρ' ἄνω, one day (often) brings down one man from a height and raises another high.

NOTE 1. Here one distinct case in past time is vividly used to represent all possible cases. Examples containing such adverbs as πολλάκις, often, ἤδη, already, οὐπω, never yet, illustrate the construction; as ἀθυμοῦντες ἄνδρες οὐπω τρόπαιον ἔστησαν, disheartened men never yet raised a trophy.

NOTE 2. An aorist resembling the gnomic is found in Homeric similes; as ἦριπε δ' ὥς ὅτε τις δρυὺς ἦριπεν, and he fell, as when some oak falls (lit. as when an oak once fell).

NOTE 3. The gnomic aorist occurs in the infinitive and participle.

3. The perfect sometimes has a gnomic sense, like the aorist. E. g.

Ἐπειδάν τις παρ' ἐμοῦ μάθῃ, ἐὰν μὲν βούληται, ἀποδέδωκεν ὁ ἐγὼ πρᾶττομαι ἀργύριον, when any one has been my pupil, if he pleases, he pays the sum of money which I ask.

The gnomic perfect may be used in the infinitive.

§ 206. The imperfect and aorist are sometimes used with the adverb ἄν to denote a customary action. E. g.

Διηρώτων ἄν αὐτοὺς τί λέγοιεν, I used to ask them (I would often ask them) what they said. Πολλάκις ἤκούσαμεν ἄν ὑμᾶς, we used often to hear you.

This construction must be carefully distinguished from the ordinary apodosis with ἄν (§ 222). It is equivalent to our phrase he would often do this for he used to do this.

NOTE. The Ionic has iterative forms in -σκον and -σκομην in both imperfect and aorist. (See § 122, 2.) Herodotus uses these also with ἄν, as above.

THE PARTICLE "AN.

§ 207. The adverb ἄν (Epic κέ) has two distinct uses.

1. It is joined to all the secondary tenses of the indicative (in Homer also to the future indicative), and to the optative, infinitive, or participle, to denote that the action of the verb is dependent on some condition, expressed or implied. Here it belongs to the verb.

2. It is joined regularly to εἰ, if, and to all relative and temporal words (and occasionally to the final particles ὥς, ὅπως, and ὅφρα), when these are followed by the subjunctive. Here it belongs entirely to the particle or relative, with which it often forms one word, as in εἰάν, όταν, ἐπειδάν.

There is no English word which can translate ἄν. In its first use it is expressed in the would or should of the verb (βούλοιτο ἄν, he would wish; εἰλοίμην ἄν, I should choose). In its second use it has no force which can be made apparent in English.

The above statement (§ 207) includes all regular uses of ἄν except the Epic construction explained in § 255, and the iterative construction of § 206. The following sections (§§ 208–211) enumerate the various uses of ἄν, with reference to the sections in which they are explained in full.

§ 208. 1. The present and perfect indicative never take ἄν.

2. The future indicative often takes ἄν (or κέ) in the early poets, especially in Homer; very rarely in Attic Greek. E. g.

Καὶ κέ τις ᾧδ' ἐρέει, and perhaps some one will thus speak; ἄλλοι, οἳ κέ με τιμήσουσι, others who will honor me (if occasion offers). The future with ἄν seems to have been an intermediate form between the simple future, will honor, and the optative with ἄν, would honor. One of the few examples found in Attic prose is in Plat. Apol. p. 29 C.

3. The most common use of ἄν with the indicative is when it forms an apodosis with the secondary tenses. It here denotes that the condition upon which the action of the verb depends is not or was not fulfilled. See § 222.

For the iterative construction of ἄν, see § 206.

§ 209. 1. In Attic Greek the subjunctive is used with ἄν only in the construction mentioned in § 207, 2, where ἄν belongs to the introductory word. See § 223, § 225, § 232, 3, § 233; also § 216, 1, N. 2.

2. In Epic poetry, where the subjunctive is often used nearly or quite in the sense of the future indicative (§ 255), it may, like the future (§ 208, 2), take ἄν or κέ. E. g.

Εἰ δέ κε μὴ δώωσιν, ἐγὼ δέ κεν αὐτὸς ἔλωμαι, and if they do not give her up, I will take her myself.

§ 210. The optative with ἄν forms an apodosis, with which a condition must be either expressed or implied. It denotes what would happen if the condition should be fulfilled (§ 224).

The future optative is never used with ἄν. See § 203, N. 3.

§ 211. The present and aorist (rarely the perfect) infinitive and participle are used with ἄν to form an apodosis. Each tense is here equivalent to the corresponding tense of the indicative or optative with ἄν, — the present representing also the imperfect, and the perfect also the pluperfect.

Thus the present infinitive or participle with ἄν may represent either an imperfect indicative or a present optative with ἄν; the aeorist, either an aeorist indicative or an aeorist optative with ἄν; the perfect, either a pluperfect indicative or a perfect optative with ἄν. E. g.

Φησὶν αὐτοὺς ἐλευθέρους ἂν εἶναι, εἰ τοῦτο ἔπραξαν, he says that they would (now) be free (ἦσαν ἄν), if they had done this; φησὶν αὐτοὺς ἐλευθέρους ἂν εἶναι, εἰ τοῦτο πράξειαν, he says that they would (hereafter) be free (εἴεν ἄν), if they should do this. Οἶδα αὐτοὺς ἐλευθέρους ἂν ὄντας, εἰ τοῦτο ἔπραξαν, I know that they would (now) be free (ἦσαν ἄν), if they had done this; οἶδα αὐτοὺς ἐλευθέρους ἂν ὄντας, εἰ ταῦτα πράξειαν, I know that they would (hereafter) be free (εἴεν ἄν), if they should do this.

Φασὶν αὐτὸν ἐλθεῖν ἂν (or οἶδα αὐτὸν ἐλθόντα ἂν), εἰ τοῦτο ἐγένετο, they say (or I know) that he would have come (ἦλθεν ἄν), if this had happened; φασὶν αὐτὸν ἐλθεῖν ἂν (or οἶδα αὐτὸν ἐλθόντα ἂν), εἰ τοῦτο γένοιτο, they say (or I know) that he would come (ἔλθοι ἄν), if this should happen.

The context must decide in each case whether we have the equivalent of the indicative or the optative with ἄν. In the examples given, the form of the protasis settles the question.

NOTE. As the early poets who use the future indicative with ἄν (§ 208, 2) do not use this construction, the future infinitive and participle with ἄν are very rarely found.

§ 212. 1. When ἄν is used with the subjunctive (as in § 207, 2), it can be separated from the introductory word only by such particles as μέν, δέ, τέ, γάρ, &c.

2. In a long apodosis ἄν may be used twice or even three times with the same verb; as οὐκ ἂν ἡγήσθ' αὐτὸν καὶ ἐπιδραμεῖν, do you not think that he would even have rushed thither? In Thucydides, II. 41, ἄν is used three times with παρέχεσθαι.

3. "Αν may be used elliptically with a verb understood; as οἱ οἰκέται ῥέγκουσιν· ἀλλ' οὐκ ἂν πρὸ τοῦ (sc. ἔπρεσκον), the slaves are starving; but they would n't have done so once.

4. When an apodosis consists of several co-ordinate verbs, ἄν is generally used only with the first.

NOTE. The adverb τάχα, in the sense of perhaps, is often prefixed to ἄν, in which case τάχ' ἄν is nearly equivalent to ἴσως, perhaps. The ἄν here always forms an apodosis, as usual, with the verb of the sentence.

THE MOODS.

§ 213. 1. The indicative is used in simple, absolute assertions; as γράφει, he writes; ἔγραψεν, he wrote; γράψει, he will write; γέγραφεν, he has written.

It also expresses certain other relations which the following examples will illustrate:—

Εἰ τοῦτο ἀληθές ἐστι, χαίρω, if this is true, I rejoice; εἰ ἔγραψεν, ἦλθον ἄν, if he had written, I should have come; εἰ γράψει, γνώσομαι, if he shall write (or if he writes), I shall know (§ 220). Ἐπιμελείται ὅπως τοῦτο γενήσεται, he takes care that this shall happen. (§ 217.) Εἴθε με ἔκτεινας, ὥς μήποτε τοῦτο ἐποίησα, O that thou hadst killed me, that I might never have done this! (§ 251, 2, § 216, 3.) Εἴθε τοῦτο ἀληθές ἦν, O that this were true! (§ 251, 2.)

These constructions are explained in the sections referred to. Their variety shows the impossibility of giving any precise definition, which will be of practical value, including all the uses even of the indicative. With the subjunctive and optative it is equally impossible.

2. The various uses of the subjunctive are shown by the following examples:—

*Ἐρχεται ἵνα τοῦτο ἴδῃ, he is coming that he may see this; φοβεῖται μὴ τοῦτο γένηται, he fears lest this may happen. (§ 216; § 218.) Ἐὰν ἔλθῃ, τοῦτο ποιήσω, if he shall come (or if he comes), I shall do this; ἐάν τις ἔλθῃ, τοῦτο ποιῶ, if any one (ever) comes, I (always) do this. (§ 220.) Ὅταν ἔλθῃ, τοῦτο ποιήσω, when he shall come (or when he comes), I shall do this; ὅταν τις ἔλθῃ, τοῦτο ποιῶ, when any one comes, I (always) do this. (§ 232, 3; § 233.)

*Ἴωμεν, let us go. (§ 253.) Μὴ θαυμάσητε, do not wonder. (§ 254.) Τί εἶπω; what shall I say? (§ 256.) Οὐ μὴ τοῦτο γένηται, this (surely) will not happen. (§ 257.)

3. The various uses of the optative are shown by the following examples:—

*Ἦλθεν ἵνα τοῦτο ἴδοι, he came that he might see this; ἐφοβέτο μὴ τοῦτο γένοιτο, he feared lest this should happen. (§ 216; § 218.) Εἰ ἔλθοι, τοῦτ' ἂν ποιήσαιμι, if he should come, I should do this; εἴ τις ἔλθοι, τοῦτ' ἐποίουν, if any one (ever) came, I always did this. (§ 220.) Ὅτε ἔλθοι, τοῦτ' ἂν ποιήσαιμι, whenever he should come (at any time when he should come), I should do this; ὅτε τις ἔλθοι, τοῦτ' ἐποίουν, whenever any one came, I (always) did this.

(§ 232, 4; § 233.) Εἶπεν ὅτι τοῦτο ποιοίῃ (ποιήσοι or ποιή-σειε), he said that he was doing (would do or had done) this. (§ 243.)

"Ελθοι ἄν, he might go (if he should wish to). Εἴθε μὴ ἀπόλιντο,
O that they may not perish! (§ 251, 1.)

4. The imperative is used to express commands and prohibitions; as τοῦτο ποίει, do this; μὴ φεύγετε, do not fly.

5. The infinitive is a verbal noun, which expresses the simple idea of a verb without restriction of person or number.

§ 214. The following sections (§§ 215–257) treat of all constructions which require any other form of the finite verb than the indicative in simple assertions (§ 213, 1). The infinitive and participle are included here only so far as they are used in indirect discourse or in protasis and apodosis. These constructions are divided as follows:—

I. Final and Object clauses after ἵνα, ὥς, ὅπως, and μὴ. II. Conditional sentences. III. Relative and Temporal sentences. IV. Indirect Discourse. V. Causal sentences. VI. Wishes. VII. Commands, Exhortations, and Prohibitions. VIII. Homeric Subjunctive (like Future Indicative). — Interrogative Subjunctive. — Οὐ μὴ with Subjunctive or Future Indicative.

I. FINAL AND OBJECT CLAUSES AFTER ἵνα, ὥς, ὅπως, μὴ.

§ 215. The clauses which depend on the final particles ἵνα, ὥς, ὅπως, that, in order that, and μὴ, lest, that not, may be divided into three classes:—

A. Final clauses, expressing the purpose or motive; as ἔρχεται ἵνα τοῦτο ἴδῃ, he is coming that he may see this. Here all the final particles may be used.

B. Object clauses with ὅπως after verbs signifying to strive for, to care for, &c.; as σκόπει ὅπως τοῦτο γένησεται, see to it that this is done.

C. Object clauses with μὴ after verbs of fear or caution; as φοβεῖται μὴ τοῦτο γένηται, he fears lest this may happen.

REMARK. The first two classes are to be distinguished with special care. The object clauses in B are the direct object of the leading verb, and can even stand in apposition to an object accusative like τοῦτο; as σκόπει τοῦτο, ὅπως μὴ σε ὄψεται, see to this, namely, that he does not see you. But a final clause could stand in apposition only to τούτου ἕνεκα, for the sake of this, or διὰ τοῦτο, to this end; as ἔρχεται τούτου ἕνεκα, ἵνα ἡμᾶς ἴδῃ, he is coming for this purpose, namely, that he may see us.

NOTE 1. The negative adverb in all these clauses is μὴ; except after μὴ, lest, where οὐ is used.

NOTE 2. Ὅφρα, that, is used as a final particle in Epic and Lyric poetry.

A. Final Clauses.

§ 216. 1. Final clauses take the subjunctive after primary tenses, and the optative after secondary tenses. E. g.

Διανοεῖται τὴν γέφυραν λῦσαι, ὥς μὴ διαβῇ τε, he thinks of breaking up the bridge, that you may not pass over. Λυσitteλεῖ ἔασαι ἐν τῷ παρόντι, μὴ καὶ τοῦτον πολέμιον προσθώμεθα, it is expedient to allow it for a time, lest we may add him to the number of our enemies. Παρακαλεῖς ἰατροὺς, ὅπως μὴ ἀποθάνῃ, you call in physicians, that he may not die. Φίλος ἐβούλετο εἶναι τοῖς μέγιστα δυναμένοις, ἵνα ἀδικῶν μὴ διδοίῃ δίκην, he wished to be a friend to the most powerful, that he might do wrong and not be punished. Τούτου ἕνεκα φίλων ᾔετο δεῖσθαι, ὥς συνέρχους ἔχοι, he thought he needed friends for this purpose, namely, that he might have helpers.

NOTE 1. The future indicative occasionally takes the place of the subjunctive in final clauses after ὅπως and ὅφρα, rarely after μὴ. This is almost entirely confined to poetry. See Odyss. I. 56, IV. 163; Il. XVI. 242, XX. 301.

NOTE 2. The adverb ἄν (κέ) is sometimes joined with ὥς, ὅπως, and ὅφρα before the subjunctive in final clauses; as ὥς ἄν μάθῃς, αντάκουσον, hear the other side, that you may learn. It adds nothing to the sense that can be made perceptible in English. In Homer and Herodotus it is occasionally used in the same way even before an optative.

2. As final clauses express the purpose or motive of some person, they admit the double construction of indirect discourse (§ 242). Hence, instead of the optative after secondary tenses, we can have the mood and tense which would be used when a person conceived the purpose in his own mind; that is, we can say either ἦλθεν ἵνα ἴδοι, he came that he might see (§ 216, 1), or ἦλθεν ἵνα ἴδῃ, because the person himself would have said ἔρχομαι ἵνα ἴδω, I come that I may see. (See § 248, Note.)

On this principle the subjunctive in final clauses after secondary tenses is nearly as common as the more regular optative. E. g.

Πλοῖα κατέκασεν ἵνα μὴ Κῦρος διαβῇ, he burned the vessels, that Cyrus might not pass over.

3. The secondary tenses of the indicative are used in final clauses with ἵνα, sometimes with ὥς or ὅπως, to denote that the end or object is dependent on some unfulfilled condition, and therefore is not or was not attained. E. g.

Τί μ' οὐ λαβὼν ἔκτεινας εὐθὺς, ὥς ἔδειξα μήποτε; &c., why did you not take me and kill me at once, that I might never have shown? &c. Φεῦ, φεῦ, τὸ μὴ τὰ πράγματ' ἀνθρώποις ἔχειν φωνήν, ἵν' ἦσαν μηδὲν οἱ δεινοὶ λόγοι, Alas! alas! that the facts have no voice for men, so that words of eloquence might be as nothing.

B. Object Clauses with ὅπως after Verbs of Striving, &c.

§ 217. Object clauses depending on verbs signifying to strive for, to care for, to effect, regularly take the future indicative after both primary and secondary tenses.

The future optative may be used after secondary tenses, as the correlative of the future indicative, but commonly the indicative is retained on the principle explained in § 216, 2. (See § 202, 4.) E. g.

Φρόντιζ' ὅπως μηδὲν ἀνάξιον τῆς τιμῆς ταύτης πράξεις, take heed that you do nothing unworthy of this honor. Ἐμχανώμεθα ὅπως μηδεὶς . . . γνώσοιτο, we were planning that nobody should know it (here γνώσεται would be more common). Ἐπρασσον ὅπως τις βοήθεια ᾗξει, they were trying to effect (this), that some assistance should come.

NOTE 1. Sometimes the present or aorist subjunctive or optative is used after these verbs, as in final clauses. Here also ὥς may be used. Ὅπως ἂν or ὥς ἂν may be used before the subjunctive, never before the regular future indicative. Μῆ is sometimes used for ὅπως μῆ, generally with the subjunctive.

NOTE 2. The future indicative with ὅπως sometimes follows verbs of exhorting, entreating, commanding, and forbidding, which commonly take an infinitive of the object; as διακελεύονται ὅπως τιμωρήσεται πάντας τοὺς τοιούτους, they exhort him to take vengeance on all such.

NOTE 3. The construction of § 217 is not found in Homer; but such verbs as are mentioned in Note 2, and verbs signifying to consider, to try, and the like, take ὅπως or ὥς with the subjunctive and optative, as in final clauses. E. g.

Λίσσεσθαι δέ μιν αὐτὸς ὅπως νημερτέα εἴπη, and implore him thyself to speak the truth; λίσσετο δ' αἰεὶ Ἥφαιστον κλυτοεργὸν ὅπως λύσειεν Ἄρηα, he implored him to liberate Ares. So φράσσεται ὥς κε νήνται; βούλεον ὅπως ὅχ' ἄριστα γένοιτο.

NOTE 4. Both ὅπως and ὅπως μή are often used with the future indicative in exhortations or prohibitions, some imperative like σκόπει or σκοπεῖτε, take care, being understood. E. g.

Ὅπως οὖν ἔσεσθε ἄξιοι τῆς ἐλευθερίας, (see that you) prove yourselves worthy of freedom. Ὅπως μοι μὴ ἔρεῖς ὅτι ἔστι τὰ δώδεκα δις ἑξ, see that you do not tell me that twelve is twice six. For a similar ellipsis of a verb of fearing, see § 218, N. 2.

C. Object Clauses with μή after Verbs of Fearing, &c.

§ 218. After verbs denoting fear, caution, or danger, μή, lest or that, takes the subjunctive after primary tenses, and the optative after secondary tenses.

The subjunctive may also follow secondary tenses, to retain the mood in which the fear originally occurred to the mind. E. g.

Φοβοῦμαι μὴ τοῦτο γένηται (vereor ne accidat), I fear that this may happen; φοβοῦμαι μὴ οὐ τοῦτο γένηται (verecor ut accidat), I fear that this may not happen (§ 215, N. 1). Φροντίζω μὴ κράτιστον ἦ μοι σιγᾶν, I am anxious lest it may be best for me to be silent. Οὐκέτι ἐπιτίθεντο, δεδιότες μὴ ἀποτμηθεῖσαν, they no longer made attacks, fearing lest they should be cut off. Ἐφοβοῦντο μὴ τι πάθῃ, they feared lest he should suffer anything (§ 216, 2).

NOTE 1. The future indicative is very rarely used after μή in this construction. But ὅπως μή is sometimes used here, as in the object clauses of § 217, with both future indicative and subjunctive.

NOTE 2. Μή with the subjunctive, or ὅπως μή with the future indicative, may be used elliptically, a verb of fear or caution being understood. E. g.

Μὴ ἀγροικότερον ἢ τὸ ἀληθὲς εἰπεῖν, (I fear that) the truth may be too rude a thing to say. Ἀλλὰ μὴ οὐ τοῦτ' ἢ χαλεπὸν, but (I fear that) this may not be the difficult thing. See § 217, N. 4.

NOTE 3. Verbs of fearing may refer to objects of fear which are present or past. Here μὴ takes the present and past tenses of the indicative. E. g.

Δέδοικα μὴ πληγῶν δέεσι, I fear that you need blows. Φοβούμεθα μὴ ἀμφοτέρων ἅμα ἡμαρτήκαμεν, we fear that we have missed both at once. Δεῖδω μὴ δὴ πάντα θεὰ νημερτέα εἶπεν, I fear that all which the Goddess said was true. (HOM.) Ὅρα μὴ παίζων ἔλεγεν, beware lest he was speaking in jest.

II. CONDITIONAL SENTENCES.

§ 219. 1. In conditional sentences the clause containing the condition is called the protasis, and that containing the conclusion is called the apodosis. The protasis is introduced by εἰ, if.

The Doric ai for εἰ is sometimes used in Homer.

2. The adverb ἄν (Epic κέ) is regularly joined to εἰ in the protasis when the verb is in the subjunctive; εἰ with ἄν forming ἐάν, ἄν (ā), or ἥν. (See § 207, 2.) The simple εἰ is used with the indicative and optative.

The same adverb ἄν is used in the apodosis with the optative, and with the secondary tenses of the indicative in the construction of § 222.

3. The negative adverb of the protasis is regularly μὴ, that of the apodosis is οὐ.

When οὐ stands in a protasis, it always belongs to some particular word (as in οὐ πολλοί, few, οὐ φημι, to deny), and not to the protasis as a whole; as ἐάν τε σὺ καὶ Ἄνυτος οὐ φῆτε ἐάν τε φῆτε, both if you and Anytus deny it and if you admit it.

CLASSIFICATION OF CONDITIONAL SENTENCES.

§ 220. The supposition contained in a protasis may be either particular or general. A particular supposition refers to a definite act or a definite series of acts; as if he (now) has this, he will give it; if he had it, he gave it; if he shall receive it (or if he receives it), he will give it ; if he should receive it, he would give it. A general supposition refers to any one of a series or class of acts, which may occur (or may have occurred) on any one of a series of possible occasions ; as if ever he receives anything, he (always) gives it ; if ever he received anything, he (always) gave it ; if ever any one shall (or should) wish to go, he will (or would) always be permitted.

In present and past conditions, except those implying non-fulfilment (§ 222), the Greek makes an important distinction in construction between these two classes ; in future conditions it makes no distinction.

I. Four forms of Ordinary Conditions.

Excluding the past and present general suppositions which have a peculiar construction, we have four forms of ordinary conditional sentences. The protasis may refer (a) to the present or past, or (b) to the future.

(a.) 1. We may simply state a present or past condition, implying nothing as to its fulfilment ; as if he is (now) doing this, εἰ τοῦτο πράσσει ; — if he was doing it, εἰ ἔπρασσε ; — if he did it, εἰ ἔπραξε ; — if he has (already) done it, εἰ πέπραχε. The apodosis here expresses simply what is (was or will be) the result of the fulfilment of the condition. Thus we may say :—

Εἰ πράσσει τοῦτο, καλῶς ἔχει, if he is doing this, it is well ; εἰ πράσσει τοῦτο, ἡμάρτηκεν, if he is doing this, he has erred ; εἰ πράσσει τοῦτο, καλῶς ἔξει, if he is doing this, it will be well. Εἰ ἔπραξε τοῦτο, καλῶς ἔχει (εἶχεν, ἔσχεν, or ἔξει), if he did this, it is (was or will be) well. So with the other tenses of the indicative. (See § 221.)

So in Latin : Si hoc facit, bene est ; Si hoc fecit, bene erit.

(a.) 2. We may state a present or past condition so as to imply that it is not or was not fulfilled ; as if he were (now) doing this, εἰ τοῦτο ἔπρασσε ; — if he had done this, εἰ τοῦτο ἔπραξε (both implying the opposite). The apodosis here expresses what would be (or would have been) the result, if the condition were (or had been) fulfilled. The adverb ἂν in the apodosis distinguishes these forms from otherwise similar forms under (a) 1. Thus we may say :—

Εἰ ἔπρασσε τοῦτο, καλῶς ἂν εἶχεν, if he were (now) doing this, it would be well ; εἰ ἔπραξε τοῦτο, καλῶς ἂν ἔσχεν, if he had done this, it would have been well. (See § 222.)

In Latin : Si hoc faceret, bene esset ; Si hoc fecisset, bene fuisset.

(b.) We may state a future condition in Greek (as in English) in either of two ways.

1. We may say if he shall do this, ἐὰν πράσῃ (or πράξῃ) τοῦτο (or, still more vividly, εἰ πράξει τοῦτο), making a distinct supposition of a future case. The apodosis expresses what will be the result if the condition shall be fulfilled. Thus we may say : —

Ἐὰν πράσῃ (or πράξῃ) τοῦτο καλῶς ἔξει, if he shall do this, it will be well (sometimes εἰ πράξει τοῦτο). (See § 223.) In Latin: Si hoc faciet (or si hoc fecerit), bene erit; sometimes Si hoc faciat.

(b.) 2. We may also say if he should do this, εἰ πράσσοι (or πράξειε) τοῦτο, still supposing a case in the future, but less distinctly and vividly than before. The apodosis corresponds in form, and expresses what would be the result if the condition should be fulfilled. Thus we can say : —

Εἰ πράσσοι (or πράξειε) τοῦτο, καλῶς ἂν ἔχοι, if he should do this, it would be well. (See § 224.) In Latin: Si hoc faciat, bene sit.

II. Present and Past General Suppositions.

In general suppositions two classes are distinguished in construction, — one (a) referring to indefinite time represented in English as present, the other (b) to the past : —

(a.) We may refer indefinitely to any one of a class of acts liable to occur at the present time; as if (ever) any one steals, ἐάν τις κλέπτῃ; — if (ever) any one does such a thing, ἐάν τις πράσῃ τοιοῦτόν τι (not if any one is now stealing or now doing). The apodosis here must contain a verb of present time, expressing a customary or repeated action. Thus we may say : —

Ἐάν τις κλέπτῃ, κολάζεται, if any one steals, he is (always) punished; ἐάν τις πράσῃ (or πράξῃ) τοιοῦτόν τι, χαλεπαίνομεν αὐτῷ, if ever any one does such a thing, we are (always) angry with him. (See § 225.)

(b.) We may refer in the same way to any one of a class of acts in the past; as if (ever) any one stole, εἴ τις κλέπτοι; — if (ever) any one did such a thing, εἴ τις πράσσοι (or πράξειε τοιοῦτόν τι. The apodosis expresses a customary or repeated action in past time. Thus we may say : —

Εἴ τις κλέπτοι, ἐκολάζετο, if (ever) any one stole, he was (always) punished; εἴ τις πράσσοι (or πράξειε) τοιοῦτόν τι, ἐχαλεπαίνομεν αὐτῷ, if (ever) any one did such a thing, we were (always) angry with him. (See § 225.)

Although the Latin sometimes agrees with the Greek in distinguishing general conditions from ordinary present and past conditions, using si faciat and si faceret like ἐὰν πράσῃ and εἰ πράσσοι above, it yet commonly agrees with the English in not recognizing the distinction, and uses the indicative alike in both classes.

FOUR FORMS OF ORDINARY CONDITIONAL SENTENCES.

(a.) Present and Past Conditions.

§ 221. When the protasis simply states a present or past condition, implying nothing as to its fulfilment, it takes the indicative with εἰ. Any form of the verb may stand in the apodosis. E. g.

Εἰ θεοί τι δρῶσιν αἰσχρὸν, οὐκ εἰσὶν θεοί, if the Gods do anything disgraceful, there are no Gods. Eur. Εἰ ἐγὼ Φαῖδρον ἀγνοῶ, καὶ ἔμαντοῦ ἐπιλέλησμαι· ἀλλὰ γὰρ οὐδέτερά ἐστι τούτων, if I do not know Phaedrus, I have forgotten myself; but neither of these is so. Εἰ θεοῦ ἦν, οὐκ ἦν αἰσχροκερδής, if he was the son of a God, he was not avaricious. Ἄλλ' εἰ δοκεῖ σοι, πλέωμεν, but if it pleases you, let us sail. Κάκιστ' ἀπολοίμην, Ξανθίαν εἰ μὴ φιλῶ, may I die most wretchedly, if I do not love Xanthias.

NOTE. Even the future indicative can stand in a protasis of this class if it expresses merely a present intention or necessity that something shall be done; as αἶρε πλῆκτρον, εἰ μαχεῖ, raise your spur, if you are going to fight. Arist. Here εἰ μέλλεις μάχεσθαι would be the more common expression in prose. It is important to notice that a future of this kind could not be changed to the subjunctive, like the ordinary future in protasis (§ 223, N. 1).

§ 222. When the protasis states a present or past condition, implying that it is not or was not fulfilled, the secondary tenses of the indicative are used in both protasis and apodosis. The apodosis takes the adverb ἄν.

The imperfect here refers to present time or to a continued or repeated action in past time, the aorist to an action simply occurring in past time, and the (rare) pluperfect to an action finished in past or present time. E. g.

Ταῦτα οὐκ ἂν ἐδύναντο ποιεῖν, εἰ μὴ διαίτη μετρία ἐχρῶντο, they would not be able (as they are) to do this, if they did not lead an abstemious life. Εἰ ἦσαν ἄνδρες ἀγαθοὶ, ὥς σὺ φῆς, οὐκ ἂν ποτε ταῦτα ἔπασχον, if they had been good men, as you say, they would never have suffered these things (referring to several cases). Καὶ ἴσως ἂν ἀπέθανον, εἰ μὴ ἡ ἀρχὴ κατελύθη, and perhaps I should have perished, if the government had not been put down. Τοῦτο εἰ ἀπεκρίνω, ἰκανῶς ἂν ἤδη ἐμεμαθήκη (§ 122, 2), if you had answered this, I should already have learned enough (which now I have not done). Εἰ μὴ ὑμεῖς ἦλθετε, ἐπορευόμεθα ἂν ἐπὶ τὸν βασιλέα, if you had not come (Aor.), we should now be on our way (Imp.) to the King.

NOTE 1. Sometimes ἂν is omitted in the apodosis, as in English we may say it had been for it would have been, or in Latin aequius fuerat for aequius fuisset; as καλὸν ἦν αὐτῷ, εἰ οὐκ ἐγεννήθη ὁ ἄνθρωπος ἐκείνος, it had been good for that man, if he had not been born. N. T.

NOTE 2. The imperfects ἔδει, χρῆν or ἐχρῆν, ἐξῆν, and others denoting necessity, propriety, obligation, possibility, and the like, are often used with the infinitive to form an apodosis implying the non-fulfilment of a condition. Ἄν is not used here, as these phrases simply express in other words what is usually expressed by the indicative with ἂν. Thus ἔδει σε τοῦτον φιλεῖν, you ought to love him (but do not), or you ought to have loved him (but did not), is equivalent to you would love him, or would have loved him (ἐφίλεις ἂν τοῦτον), if you did your duty (τὰ δέοντα). So ἐξῆν σοι τοῦτο ποιῆσαι, you might have done this; εἰκὸς ἦν σε τοῦτο ποιῆσαι, you would properly have done this. The real apodosis is here always in the infinitive.

When the present infinitive is used, the construction refers to the present or to continued or repeated action in the past; when the aorist is used, it refers to the past.

NOTE 3. In Homer the imperfect indicative in this class of sentences (§ 222) always refers to the past. We occasionally find a present optative in Homer in the sense in which Attic writers use the imperfect; and in a few passages even the aorist optative with κέ in the place of the aorist indicative (see Il. V. 311 and 388).

(b.) Future Conditions.

§ 223. When a supposed future case is stated distinctly and vividly (as in English, if I shall go, or if I go), the protasis takes the subjunctive with εἰ (Epic εἴ κε). The apodosis takes the future indicative or some other future form. E. g.

Εἰ μὲν κεν Μενέλαον Ἀλέξανδρος καταπέφνη, αὐτὸς ἔπειθ' Ἑλένην ἔχέτω καὶ κτήματα πάντα, if Alexander shall slay Menelaus, then let him have Helen and all the goods himself. II. Ἄν τις ἀνθιστῇται, πειρασόμεθα χειροῦσθαι, if any one shall stand opposed to us, we shall try to overcome him. Ἐὰν οὖν ἦς νῦν, πότε ἔσει οἶκοι; if therefore you go now, when will you be at home?

The older English forms if he shall go and if he go express the force of the Greek subjunctive exactly; but the ordinary modern English uses if he goes even when the time is clearly future.

NOTE 1. The future indicative with εἰ is very often used for the subjunctive in conditions of this class, as a still more vivid form of expression; as εἰ μὴ καθέξεις γλῶσσαν, ἔσται σοι κακά, if you do not (shall not) restrain your tongue, you will have trouble. This common use of the future, in which it is merely a more vivid form than the subjunctive, must not be confounded with that of § 221, Note.

NOTE 2. In Homer εἰ (without ἄν or κε) is often used with the subjunctive, apparently in the same sense as εἴ κε or ἤν. The same use of εἰ for εἰάν is occasionally found even in Attic poetry.

For the Homeric subjunctive with κέ in apodosis, see § 255, Note.

§ 224. When a supposed future case is stated in a less distinct and vivid form (as in English, if I should go), the protasis takes the optative with εἶ, and the apodosis takes the optative with ἄν. E. g.

Εἴης φορητὸς οὐκ ἄν, εἰ πράσσοις καλῶς, you would not be enduring, if you should be in prosperity. Οὐ πολλὴ ἄν ἀλογία εἴη, εἰ φοβοίτο τὸν θάνατον ὁ τοιοῦτος; would it not be great senselessness, if such a man should fear death? Οἶκος δ' αὐτὸς, εἰ φθογῆν λάβοι, σαφέστατ' ἄν λέξειεν, but the house itself, if it should find a voice, would speak most plainly.

The future optative cannot be used in protasis or apodosis (§ 202, 4).

NOTE. Ἄν is very rarely omitted in an apodosis of this kind, and most examples occur in Homer. But ἄν is sometimes omitted in the Attic poets after such expressions as οὐκ ἔσθ' ὅπως and οὐκ ἔστιν ὅστις (see Aesch. Prom. 292, Eur. Alc. 52).

PRESENT AND PAST GENERAL SUPPOSITIONS.

§ 225. In general suppositions, the protasis refers indefinitely to any one of a series or class of acts, and the apodosis expresses a customary or repeated action or a general truth.

Here the protasis has the subjunctive with ἐάν after tenses of present time, and the optative with εἰ after tenses of past time. The apodosis has the present or imperfect indicative or some other form which implies repetition. E. g.

Ἦν ἐγγὺς ἔλθῃ θάνατος, οὐδεὶς βούλεται θνήσκειν*, if death comes near, no one is (ever) willing to die. Ἄπας λόγος, ἂν ἀπῇ τὰ πράγματα, μάταιόν τι φαίνεται καὶ κενόν*, all speech, if deeds are wanting, appears a vain and empty thing. Εἴ τις θορυβουμένους αἴσθοιτο, κατασβενύναι τὴν παραχὴν ἐπειρᾶτο, if he saw any making a disturbance (or whenever he saw, &c.), he (always) tried to quell the disorder. Εἴ τις ἀντείποι, εὐθὺς τεθνήκει, if any one refused, he was immediately put to death.

The gnomic aorist (§ 205, 2), which is a primary tense (§ 201), can always be used in the apodosis with the subjunctive depending on it; as ἦν τις παραβαίνῃ, ζημίαν αὐτοῖς ἐπέθεσαν, if any one transgresses, they impose a penalty on him.

Here, as in ordinary protasis (§ 223, N. 2), εἰ is sometimes used with the subjunctive for ἐάν or εἴ κε.

NOTE 1. The indicative is occasionally used in the place of the subjunctive or optative in general suppositions, that is, these sentences follow the construction of ordinary present and past suppositions (§ 221), as in Latin and English; as εἴ τις δύο ἢ καὶ πλείους τις ἡμέρας λογίζεται, μάταιός ἐστιν, if any one counts on two or even more days, he is a fool. See § 233, N. 1.

NOTE 2. General suppositions referring to the future are not distinguished from particular, and are included under § 223 and § 224.

PECULIAR FORMS OF CONDITIONAL SENTENCES.

Ellipsis and Substitution.

§ 226. 1. The protasis sometimes is not expressed in its regular form with εἰ or ἐάν, but is contained in a participle or in some other part of the sentence. When a participle represents the protasis, its tense is always that in which the verb itself would have stood in the indicative, subjunctive, or optative. The present (as usual) includes the imperfect. E. g.

Σὺ δὲ κλύων εἴσει τάχα, but you will soon know, if you listen (= ἐάν κλύῃς). Τοιαῦτά τᾶν γυναιξὶ συνναίων ἔχουσ, such things would you have to endure if you should dwell among women (i. e. εἰ συνναίους). Ἠπίστησεν ἂν τις ἀκούσας*, any one would have disbelieved such a thing if he had heard it (i. e. εἰ ἤκουσεν). Ἀπολοῦμαι μὴ μαθών, I shall be ruined unless I learn (ἐὰν μὴ μάθω). So with all the other forms of protasis.

Διὰ γε ὑμᾶς αὐτοὺς πάλαι ἂν ἀπολώλειτε, if it had depended on yourselves, you would long ago have been ruined. Οὔτω γὰρ οὐκέτι τοῦ λοιποῦ πάσχοιμεν ἂν κακῶς, for in that case we should no longer suffer evil.

2. The protasis is often altogether omitted, leaving the optative or indicative with ἂν alone as an apodosis. Here some indefinite protasis is implied, like if he pleased, if he should try, if he could, &c. E. g.

Ἴσως ἂν τις ἐπιτιμήσειε τοῖς εἰρηνέμοις, perhaps some one might (if he wished) find fault with what has been said. Ἡδέως δ' ἂν ἔγωγ' ἐροίμην Λεπτίνην, and I would gladly ask Leptines (if I could). Οὐ γὰρ ἦν ὅ τι ἂν ἐποιεῖτε, for there was nothing which you could have done (if you had tried). So βουλόμην ἂν (velim), I should wish (in some future case); ἐβουλόμην ἂν (vellem), I should now wish (on some condition not fulfilled).

The optative with ἂν, used in this way, may express a mild command, and is sometimes a mere future; as χωροῖς ἂν εἴσω, you may go in; κλύοις ἂν ἤδη, hear now; οὐκ ἂν μεθείμην τοῦ θρόνου, I will not give up the throne (lit. I would not give it up on any condition).

3. The apodosis may be expressed by an infinitive or participle whenever the construction of the sentence requires it, each tense representing its own tenses of the indicative or optative. (See § 203, with Note 1.) If the finite verb in the apodosis would have taken ἂν, this particle is used with the infinitive or participle. E. g.

Ἡγοῦμαι, εἰ τοῦτο ποιεῖτε, πάντα καλῶς ἔχειν, I believe that, if you are doing this, all is well; ἡγοῦμαι, ἐὰν τοῦτο ποιῇτε, πάντα καλῶς ἔξειν, I believe that, if you shall do this, all will be well. For examples of the infinitive and participle with ἂν, see § 211.

NOTE. Sometimes the apodosis is merely implied in the context, and in such cases εἰ or ἐὰν is often to be translated supposing that or in case that; as ἀκουσον καὶ ἐμοῦ, ἐάν σοι ταυτὰ δοκῇ, hear me also, in case the same shall please you (i. e. that then you may assent to it); οἱ δ' ὄκτειρον, εἰ ἀλώσοιντο, and others pitied them, in case they should be captured (i. e. thinking what they would suffer if they should be captured). See § 248. So πρὸς τὴν πόλιν, εἰ ἐπιβοηθοῖεν, ἔχωρουν, they marched towards the city, in case they (the citizens) should rush out (i. e. to meet them if they should rush out). On this principle we must explain αἴ κέν πως βούλεται, Il. I. 66; αἴ κ' ἐθέλησθα, Od. III. 92; and similar passages.

Mixed Constructions. — Δέ in Apodosis.

§ 227. 1. The protasis and apodosis sometimes belong to different forms. This happens especially when an indicative with εἰ in the protasis is followed by an optative with ἄν (§ 226) in the apodosis, the latter having another protasis implied. E. g.

Εἰ οὗτοι ὀρθῶς ἀπέστησαν, ὑμεῖς ἄν οὐ χρεὼν ἄρχοιτε, if these had a right to secede, you could not possibly hold your power rightfully. Εἰ νῦν γε δυστυχούμεν, πῶς τάναντί' ἄν πράττοντες οὐ σωζοίμεθ' ἄν; if we are now unfortunate, how could we help being saved by doing the opposite?

NOTE. Sometimes a protasis contains the adverb ἄν, belonging not to εἰ, but to the verb. Here the verb is also an apodosis at the same time; as εἰ μὴ ποιήσαιτ' ἄν τοῦτο, if (it is true that) you would not do this (i. e. if it should be necessary), which differs entirely from εἰ μὴ ποιήσαιτε τοῦτο, if you should not do this.

2. The apodosis is sometimes introduced by the conjunction δέ, which cannot be translated in English. E. g.

Εἰ δέ κε μὴ δώσωσιν, ἐγὼ δέ κεν αὐτὸς ἔλωμαι, but if they do not give her up, then I will take her myself.

Εἰ after Verbs of Wondering, &c.

§ 228. Some verbs expressing wonder, contentment, disappointment, indignation, &c. take a protasis with εἰ where a causal sentence would seem more natural. E. g.

Θαυμάζω δ' ἔγωγε εἰ μηδεὶς ὑμῶν μήτ' ἐνθυμείται μήτ' ὀργίζεται, and I wonder that no one of you is either concerned or angry (lit. if no one of you is, &c., I wonder). See also § 248.

Such verbs are especially θαυμάζω, αἰσχύνομαι, ἀγαπάω, and ἀγαπακτέω. They sometimes take ὅτι, because, and a causal sentence (§ 250).

III. RELATIVE AND TEMPORAL SENTENCES.

§ 229. Relative sentences include all temporal clauses, except those introduced by πρίν and other words meaning until. (See §§ 239, 240.)

The antecedent of a relative is either definite or indefinite. It is definite when the relative refers to a definite person or thing, or to some definite time, place, or manner; it is indefinite when no such definite person, thing, time, place, or manner is referred to. Both definite and indefinite antecedents may be either expressed or understood. E. g.

(Definite.) Ταῦτα ἃ ἔχω ὁράς, you see these things which I have; or ἃ ἔχω ὁράς. "Ὅτε ἐβούλετο ἦλθεν, (once) when he wished, he came.

(Indefinite.) Πάντα ἃ ἂν βούλωνται ἔξουσιν, they will have everything which they may want; or ἃ ἂν βούλωνται ἔξουσιν, they will have whatever they may want. "Ὅταν ἔλθῃ, τοῦτο πράξω, when he shall come (or when he comes), I will do this. "Ὅτε βούλοιτο, τοῦτο ἔπρασσε, whenever he wished, he (always) did this.

Definite Antecedent.

§ 230. A relative with a definite antecedent has no effect on the mood of the following verb; it therefore takes the indicative (with οὐ for its negative), unless the general sense requires some other construction. E. g.

Τίς ἐστ' ὁ χῶρος δῆτ' ἐν ᾧ βεβήκαμεν; i. e. the place in which, &c. "Ἐως ἐστὶ καιρὸς, ἀντιλάβεσθε τῶν πραγμάτων, (now) while there is an opportunity, &c.

Indefinite Antecedent. — Conditional Relative.

§ 231. A relative clause with an indefinite antecedent has a conditional force, and is often called a protasis, the antecedent clause being called the apodosis. Such a relative is called a conditional relative. The negative particle is μή.

NOTE. Relative words (like εἰ, if) take ἄν before the subjunctive. (See § 207, 2.) With ὅτε, ὅποτε, ἐπεὶ, and ἐπειδὴ, ἂν forms ὅταν, ὅπότε, ἐπὶ ἂν or ἐπὶ ἂν (Ionic ἐπεὶ ἂν), and ἐπειδὴ ἂν. In Homer we generally find ὅτε κε, &c.

§ 232. The conditional relative sentence has four forms (two of present and past, and two of future conditions) which correspond to the four forms of ordinary protasis (§§ 221 – 224).

1. Present or past condition simply stated (§ 221). E. g.

Ὅτι βούλεται δώσω, I will give him whatever he (now) wishes (like εἴ τι βούλεται, δώσω, if he (now) wishes anything, I will give it). Ἄ μὴ οἶδα, οὐδὲ οἶμαι εἰδέναι, what I do not know, I do not even think I know (like εἴ τινα μὴ οἶδα, if there are any things which I do not know).

2. Present or past condition stated so as to imply that the condition is not or was not fulfilled (supposition contrary to fact, § 222). E. g.

Ἄ μὴ ἐβούλετο δοῦναι, οὐκ ἂν ἔδωκεν, he would not have given what he had not wished to give (like εἴ τινα μὴ ἐβούλετο δοῦναι, οὐκ ἂν ἔδωκεν, if he had not wished to give certain things, he would not have given them). Οὐκ ἂν ἐπεχειροῦμεν πράττειν ἃ μὴ ἠπιστάμεθα, we should not (then) be undertaking to do (as we now are) things which we did not understand (like εἴ τινα μὴ ἠπιστάμεθα, if there were any things which we did not know, the whole belonging to a supposition not realized). So ὃν γῆρας ἔτετμεν, Odyss. I. 217.

This case occurs less frequently than the others.

3. Future condition in the more vivid form (§ 223). E. g.

Ὅτι ἂν βούληται, δώσω, I will give him whatever he may wish (like εἰάν τι βούληται, δώσω, if he shall wish anything, I will give it). Ὅταν μὴ σθένω, πεπαύσομαι, when I (shall) have no more strength, I shall cease. Ἀλόχους καὶ νήπια τέκνα ἄξομεν ἐν νήεσσιν, ἐπὶ ἡ πόλιόν ἐλθόμεν, we will carry them as soon as we shall take the city. Hom.

The future indicative cannot generally be substituted for the subjunctive here, as it can in common protasis (§ 223, N. 1).

4. Future condition in the less vivid form (§ 224). E. g.

Ὅτι βούλοιτο, δοίην ἄν, I should give him whatever he might wish (like εἴ τι βούλοιτο, δοίην ἄν, if he should wish anything, I should give it). Πεινῶν φάγοι ἂν ὁπότε βούλοιτο, if he were hungry, he would eat whenever he might wish (like εἴ ποτε βούλοιτο, if he should ever wish).

§ 233. The conditional relative sentence has the same forms as other conditional sentences (§ 225) in present and past general suppositions, taking the subjunctive after present tenses, and the optative after past tenses. E. g.

Ὅτι ἂν βούληται δίδωμι, I (always) give him whatever he wants (like εἰάν τι βούληται, if he ever wants anything). Ὅτι βούλοιτο ἐδίδουν, I (always) gave him whatever he wanted (like εἴ τι βούλοιτο). Συμμαχεῖν τούτοις ἐθέλουσιν ἅπαντες, οὓς ἂν ὁρῶσι παρεσκευασμένους, all wish to be allies of those whom they see prepared. 'Ηνίκ' ἂν οἵκοι γένωνται, δρῶσιν οὐκ ἀνάσχετα, when they get home, they do things unbearable. Οὓς μὲν ἴδοι εὐτάκτως ἰόντας, τίνες τε εἶεν ἡρώτα, καὶ ἐπεὶ πύθοιτο ἐπῆναι, he (always) asked those whom he saw (at any time) marching in good order, who they were; and when he learned, he praised them. Ἐπειδὴ δὲ ἀνοιχθείη, εἰσήμεν παρὰ τὸν Σωκράτη, and (each morning) when the prison was opened, we went in to Socrates.

NOTE 1. The indicative sometimes takes the place of the subjunctive or optative here, as in the general suppositions of common protasis (see § 225, N. 1). This occurs especially in poetry after the indefinite relative ὅστις, which itself expresses the same idea of indefiniteness which ὅς with the subjunctive or optative usually expresses; as ὅστις μὴ τῶν ἀρίστων ἄπτεται βουλευμάτων, κάκιστος εἶναι δοκεῖ, whoever does not cling to the best counsels, seems to be most base. Soph. Antig. 178. (Here ὅς ἂν μὴ ἄπτηται would be the common expression.) Such examples belong under § 232, 1.

NOTE 2. Homeric similes sometimes have ὥς, ὥς τε, ὥς ὅτε, ὥς ὅς (seldom ὥς κε, &c.), with the subjunctive, where we should expect the present indicative, which is sometimes used; as ὥς γυνὴ κλαίῃσι, . . . ὥς Ὀδυσσεύς, &c., as a wife weeps, so did Ulysses, &c. Odys. VIII. 523. See Odys. V. 328; Il. X. 5; XI. 67.

§ 234. Conditional relative sentences have most of the peculiarities and irregularities of common protasis. Thus, the protasis and apodosis may have different forms (§ 227, 1); the simple relative is sometimes found in poetry with the subjunctive (like εἰ for ἐάν or εἴ κε, § 223, N. 2); the relative clause may depend on an infinitive, participle, or other construction (§ 226, 3); and the conjunction δέ may connect the relative clause to a following antecedent clause (§ 227, 2).

Assimilation in Conditional Relative Clauses.

§ 235. When a conditional relative clause referring to the future depends on a subjunctive or optative referring to the future, it regularly takes by assimilation the same mood with its leading verb. E. g.

Ἐάν τις οἱ ἂν δύνωνται τοῦτο ποιῶσι, καλῶς ἔξει, if any who shall be able do this, it will be well; εἴ τις οἱ δύναιντο τοῦτο ποιοῖεν, καλῶς ἂν ἔχοι, if any who should be able should do this, it would be well. Εἴθε πάντες οἱ δύναιντο τοῦτο ποιοῖεν, O that all who may be able would do this. (Here the optative ποιοῖεν, § 251, 1, makes οἱ δύναιντο preferable to οἱ ἂν δύνωνται, which would express the same idea).

NOTE. A secondary tense of the indicative may assimilate a dependent conditional relative clause in the same way.

Relative Clauses expressing Purpose, Result, or Cause.

§ 236. The relative is used with the future indicative to express a purpose or object. E. g.

Πρεσβεῖαν πέμπειν ἣτις ταῦτ' ἐρεῖ καὶ παρῆσται τοῖς πράγμασιν, to send an embassy to say this, and to be present at the transactions. Οὐ γὰρ ἔστι μοι χρήματα, ὅπόθεν ἐκτίσω, for I have no money to pay the fine with.

The antecedent here may be definite or indefinite; but the negative particle is always μή, as in final clauses.

NOTE 1. In Homer, the subjunctive (with κέ joined to the relative) is commonly found in this construction after primary tenses, and the optative (without κέ) after secondary tenses. The optative is sometimes found even in Attic prose, usually depending on another optative.

NOTE 2. Ἐφ' ᾧ or ἐφ' ᾧ τε, on condition that, which commonly takes the infinitive (§ 267), sometimes takes the future indicative; as ἐπὶ τούτῳ ὑπεξίσταμαι, ἐφ' ᾧ τε ὑπ' οὐδενὸς ὑμέων ἄρξομαι, I withdraw on this condition, that I shall be ruled by none of you. Hdt.

NOTE 3. In this construction the future indicative generally remains unchanged, even after past tenses.

§ 237. Ὡστε (sometimes ὥς), so that, which generally takes the infinitive (§ 266), is sometimes followed by the indicative. E. g.

Οὕτως ἀγνομόνως ἔχετε, ὥστε ἐλπίζετε αὐτὰ χρηστὰ γενήσεσθαι; are you so senseless that you expect them to become good?

NOTE. A simple relative sentence with ὅς or ὅστις sometimes denotes a result, where ὥστε would be expected; as τίς οὕτως εὐήθης ἐστίν, ὅστις ἀγνοεῖ; &c., who is so simple as not to know? &c.

† Temporal Particles signifying Until and Before that.

§ 239. 1. When ἕως, ἔστε, ἄχρι, μέχρι, and ὅφρα, until, refer to a definite point of past time, they take the indicative. E. g.

Νῆχον πάλιν, ἕως ἐπὶ ἡλθον εἰς ποταμόν, I swam on again, until I came into a river. Hom. Ταῦτα ἐποίουν, μέχρι σκότος ἐγένετο, this they did until darkness came on.

2. These particles follow the construction of conditional relatives in the last three forms corresponding to ordinary protasis and in general suppositions. E. g.

Ἐπίσχες, ἔστ' ἂν καὶ τὰ λοιπὰ προσμάθῃς, wait until you (shall) learn the rest besides (§ 232, 3). Εἴποιμ' ἂν . . . ἕως παρατείνειμι τοῦτον, I would tell him, &c., until I put him to the torture (§ 232, 4). Ἥδέως ἂν τούτῳ ἔτι διελεγόμην, ἕως αὐτῷ . . . ἀπέδωκα, I should (in that case) gladly have continued to talk with him until I had given him back, &c. (§ 232, 2). Ὅα δ' ἂν ἀσύντακτα ᾖ, ἀνάγκη ταῦτα αἰεὶ πράγματα παρέχειν, ἕως ἂν χώραν λάβῃ, whatever things are in disorder, these must always make trouble until they are put in order (§ 233). Περιεμένομεν ἐκάστοτε, ἕως ἀνοιχθεῖη τὸ δεσμωτήριον, we waited each day until the prison was opened (§ 233).

NOTE. The omission of ἂν after these particles and πρίν, when the verb is in the subjunctive, is more common than it is after εἰ or ordinary relatives (§ 223, N. 2), occurring sometimes in Attic prose; as μέχρι πλοῦς γένηται, Thuc. I. 137.

§ 240. 1. When πρίν, before, before that, until, is not followed by the infinitive, it takes the indicative, subjunctive, or optative, like ἕως (§ 239). E. g.

Οὐκ ἦν ἀλέξῃμ' οὐδὲν, πρίν γ' ἐγὼ σφισιν ἐδειξα, &c., there was no relief, until I showed them, &c. Οὐ χρή με ἐνθένδε ἀπελθεῖν, πρίν ἂν δῶ δίκην, I must not leave this place until he is punished. Οὐκ ἂν εἰδείης πρίν πειρηθείης, you would not know until you had (should have) tasted it. Ἐχρῆν μὴ πρότερον συμβουλεύειν, πρίν ἡμᾶς ἐδίδαξαν, &c., they ought not to have given advice until they had instructed us, &c. Ὅρῳσι τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους οὐ πρόσθεν ἀπionτας, πρὶν ἀν ἀφ᾽ ὧσιν οἱ ἄρχοντες, they see that the elders never go away until the authorities dismiss them. Οὐδαμῶθεν ἀφίεσαν, πρὶν παραθεῖναι αὐτοῖς ἄριστον, they dismissed them from no place before they had set a meal before them.

2. Πρὶν regularly takes the subjunctive and optative (when they are allowed) only if the leading verb is negative or interrogative with a negative implied; very seldom if that is affirmative. It takes the indicative after both negative and affirmative sentences, but chiefly after negatives.

Otherwise πρὶν takes the infinitive (§ 274). In Homer, the infinitive is the form regularly used after πρὶν, without regard to the leading sentences.

NOTE. Πρὶν ἢ, πρότερον ἢ (priusquam), and πρόσθεν ἢ may be used in the same constructions as πρὶν itself.

IV. INDIRECT DISCOURSE.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES.

§ 241. 1. A direct quotation gives the exact words of the original speaker or writer. In an indirect quotation the original words conform to the construction of the sentence in which they are quoted.

Thus the words ταῦτα βούλομαι may be quoted either directly, λέγει τις “ταῦτα βούλομαι”; or indirectly, λέγει τις ὅτι ταῦτα βούλεται or λέγει τις ταῦτα βούλεσθαι, some one says that he wishes for this.

Ὅτι, that, occasionally precedes even direct quotations; as in Anab I. 6, 8.

2. Indirect quotations may be introduced by ὅτι or ὡς, that, or by the infinitive (as in the example given above); sometimes also by the participle.

3. Indirect questions follow the same rule as indirect quotations, in regard to their moods and tenses.

NOTE. The term indirect discourse applies to all clauses (even single clauses in a sentence of different construction) which indirectly express the words or thought of any person, even past thoughts of the speaker himself.

After primary tenses, each verb retains both the mood and the tense of the direct discourse. After secondary tenses, each indicative or subjunctive of the direct discourse may be either changed to the same tense of the optative or retained in its original mood and tense. But all secondary tenses of the indicative implying non-fulfilment of a condition (§ 222) and all optatives are retained unchanged.

The imperfect and pluperfect, having no tenses in the optative, remain unchanged in all kinds of sentences. The aorist indicative likewise remains unchanged when it belongs to a dependent clause of the direct discourse (§ 247), but otherwise it is changed like the primary tenses (§ 243).

2. When the quotation depends on a verb which takes the infinitive or participle, its leading verb is changed to the corresponding tense of the infinitive or participle (ἄν being retained when there is one), and the dependent verbs follow the preceding rule.

3. Ἄν is never omitted with the indicative or optative in indirect discourse, if it was used in the direct form; but ἄν belonging to a relative word or particle in the direct form is regularly dropped when the subjunctive is changed to the optative in indirect discourse.

Ἄν is never added in the indirect discourse when it was not used in the direct form.

4. The negative particle of the direct discourse is regularly retained in the indirect form. But the infinitive and participle occasionally have μή where οὐ would be used in direct discourse.

SIMPLE SENTENCES IN INDIRECT DISCOURSE.

Indicative and Optative after ὅτι and ὥς, and in Indirect Questions.

§ 243. When the direct form is an indicative (without ἄν), the principle of § 242 gives the following rule for indirect quotations after ὅτι or ὥς and for indirect questions: —

After primary tenses the verb retains both its mood and tense. After secondary tenses it is either changed to the same tense of the optative or retained in the original mood and tense. E. g.

Λέγει ὅτι γράφει, he says that he is writing; λέγει ὅτι ἔγραφεν, he says that he was writing; λέγει ὅτι ἔγραψεν, he says that he wrote; λέξει ὅτι γέγραφεν, he will say that he has written. Ἐρωτᾷ τί βούλονται, he asks what they want; ἄγνοω τί ποιήσουσιν, I do not know what they will do.

Εἶπεν ὅτι γράφοι or ὅτι γράφει, he said that he was writing (he said γράφω). Εἶπεν ὅτι γράψοι or ὅτι γράψει, he said that he would write (he said γράψω). Εἶπεν ὅτι γράψειεν or ὅτι ἔγραψεν, he said that he had written (he said ἔγραφα, I wrote). Εἶπεν ὅτι γεγραφὼς εἶη or ὅτι γέγραφεν, he said that he had written (he said γέγραφα, I have written).

(OPT.) Ἐπειρώμην αὐτῷ δεικνύναι, ὅτι οἷοιτο μὲν εἶναι σοφός, εἶη δ' οὐ, I tried to show him that he believed himself to be wise, but was not so (i. e. οἶεται μὲν . . . ἔστι δ' οὐ). Ὑπειπὼν ὅτι αὐτὸς τάκει πράξεις, ὄχλητο, hinting that he would himself attend to things there, he departed (he said αὐτὸς τάκει πράξω). Ἐλεξαν ὅτι πέμψειεν σφᾶς ὁ Ἰνδῶν βασιλεὺς, κελεύων ἐρωτᾶν ἐξ ὅτου ὁ πόλεμος εἶη, they said that the king of the Indians had sent them, commanding them to ask on what account there was the war (they said ἔπεμψεν ἡμᾶς, and the question was ἐκ τίνος ἐστὶν ὁ πόλεμος;). Ἦρετο εἴ τις ἐμοῦ εἶη σοφώτερος, he asked whether there was any one wiser than I (i. e. ἔστι τις σοφώτερος;).

(INDIC.) Ἐλεγον ὅτι λπίξουσὶ σέ καὶ τὴν πόλιν ἔξω μοι χάριν, they said that they hoped you and the state would be grateful to me. Ἦκε δ' ἀγγέλλων τις ὥς Ἐλάτεια κατείληπται, some one was come with a report that Elatea had been taken (here the perf. opt. might have been used). Ἀποκρινάμενοι ὅτι πέμψουσὶ πρέσβεις, εὐθὺς ἀπῆλλαξαν, having replied that they would send ambassadors, they dismissed them at once. Ἠπόρουν τί ποτε λέγει, I was uncertain what he meant (τί ποτε λέγει;). Ἐβουλευόντο τίν' αὐτοῦ καταλείψουσιν, they were considering the question, whom they should leave here.

NOTE 1. The imperfect and pluperfect regularly remain unchanged in this construction after secondary tenses (§ 242, 1). But occasionally the present optative represents the imperfect here; as ἀπεκρίναντο ὅτι οὐδεὶς μάρτυς παρείη, they replied that there had been no witness present (οὐδεὶς παρῆν), where the context makes it clear that παρεῖν does not stand for παρέσσι. See § 203, N. 1.

NOTE 2. In a few cases the Greek changes a present indicative to the imperfect in this construction, instead of retaining it or changing it to the optative; as ἐν ἀπορίᾳ ἦσαν, ἐννοοῦμενοι ὅτι ἐπὶ ταῖς βασιλέως θύραις ἦσαν, they were in despair, considering that they were at the King's gates. This is also the English usage.

Subjunctive or Optative representing the Interrogative Subjunctive.

§ 244. In indirect questions, after a primary tense, an interrogative subjunctive (§ 256) retains its mood and tense; after a secondary tense, it may either be changed to the same tense of the optative or retained in the subjunctive. E. g.

Βουλεύομαι ὅπως σε ἀποδρῶ, I am trying to think how I shall escape you (πῶς σε ἀποδρῶ);. Οὐκ οἶδ' εἰ Χρυσάντα τοῦτ' ὧ, I do not know whether I shall give them to this Chrysantas. Οὐκ ἔχω τί εἶπω, I do not know what I shall say (τί εἶπω);, Non habeo quid dicam. Ἐπῆροντο εἰ παραδοῖεν τὴν πόλιν, they asked whether they should give up the city (παραδῶμεν τὴν πόλιν; shall we give up the city?). Ἠπόρει ὅ τι χρήσαιτο τῷ πράγματι, he was at a loss how to deal with the matter (τί χρήσωμαι);. Ἐβουλεύοντο εἴτε κατακαύσωσιν εἴτε τι ἄλλο χρήσονται, they were deliberating whether they should burn them or dispose of them in some other way.

In these cases εἰ (never ἐάν) is used for whether, before the subjunctive as well as the optative.

Indicative or Optative with ἄν.

§ 245. An indicative or optative with ἄν retains its mood and tense unchanged in indirect discourse after ὅτι or ὥς. E. g.

Λέγει (or ἔλεγεν) ὅτι τοῦτο ἄν ἐγένετο, he says (or said) that this would have happened; ἔλεγεν ὅτι οὗτος δικαίως ἄν θάνοι, he said that this man would justly die.

Infinitive and Participle in Indirect Quotations.

§ 246. When the infinitive or participle is used in indirect discourse, its tense represents the tense of the finite verb in the direct form to which it corresponds, the present and perfect including the imperfect and pluperfect. Each tense with ἄν can represent the corresponding tenses of either indicative or optative with ἄν. E. g.

Ἄρρωστεῖν προφασίζεται, he pretends that he is ill; ἐξώμοσεν ἄρρωστεῖν τούτον, he took an oath that this man was ill. Κατασχεῖν φησι τούτους, he says that he detained them. Ἐφη χρήμαθ' εἰναι τοὺς Θηβαίους ἐπικεκηρυχέναι, he said that the Thebans had offered a reward for him. Ἐπαγγέλλεται τὰ δίκαια ποιήσκειν, he promises to do what is right. See examples under § 203, and N. 1.

*Ἦγγειλε τούτους ἐρχομένους, he announced that these were coming (οὗτοι ἔρχονται); ἀγγέλλει τούτους ἐλθόντας, he announces that these came; ἀγγέλλει τοῦτο γενησόμενον, he announces that this will be done; ἤγγειλε τοῦτο γενησόμενον, he announced that this would be done; ἤγγειλε τοῦτο γεγενημένον, he announced that this had been done (τοῦτο γεγένηται).

See examples of ἄν with infinitive and participle under § 211.

NOTE. The infinitive is said to stand in indirect discourse and its tenses correspond to those of the finite moods, when it depends on a verb implying thought or the expression of thought, and when also the thought, as originally conceived, would have been expressed by some tense of the indicative (with or without ἄν) or optative (with ἄν), which can be transferred without change of tense to the infinitive. Thus in βούλεται ἐλθεῖν, he wishes to go, ἐλθεῖν represents no form of either aorist indicative or aorist optative, but is merely the ordinary infinitive (§ 202) not in indirect discourse. But in φησὶν ἐλθεῖν, he says that he went, ἐλθεῖν represents ἦλθον of the direct discourse.

INDIRECT QUOTATION OF COMPOUND SENTENCES.

§ 247. When a compound sentence is indirectly quoted, its leading verb follows the rules for simple sentences (§§ 243–246).

After primary tenses the dependent verbs retain the same mood and tense. After secondary tenses, all primary tenses of the indicative and all subjunctives may either be changed to the same tense of the optative or retain the mood and tense of the direct form. But dependent secondary tenses of the indicative are kept unchanged in all cases. E. g.

*Ὁν ὑμεῖς λέγητε, ποιήσκειν (φησὶ) ὁ μήτ' αἰσχύνῃν μήτ' ἀδοξίαν αὐτῷ φέρει, if you shall say so, he says he will do whatever does not bring shame or discredit to him. (Here no change is made, except in ποιήσκειν, § 246.)

that they learned what they did not understand (he said μανθίνουσιν ἃ οὐκ ἐπίστανται, which might have been retained). Εἷ τινα φεύγοντα λήψοιτο, προηγόρευεν ὅτι ὡς πολεμίῳ χρήσοιτο, he announced, that if he should catch any one running away, he should treat him as an enemy (he said, εἷ τινα λήφομαι, χρήσομαι, § 223, N. 1). Ἐνόμιζε, ὅσα τῆς πόλεως προλάβοι, πάντα ταῦτα βεβαίως ἔξειν, he believed that he should hold all those places securely which he should take from the city beforehand (ὅσ' ἂν προλάβω, ἔξω). Ἐδόκει μοι ταύτῃ πειρᾶσθαι σωθῆναι, ἐνθυμουμένῳ ὅτι, ἐὰν μὲν λάθω, σωθήσομαι, it seemed best to me to try to gain safety in this way, thinking that if I should escape notice, I should be saved (here we might have had εἰ λάθοιμι, σωθησοίμην). Ἐφασαν τοὺς ἄνδρας ἀποκτενεῖν οὓς ἔχουσι ζώοντας, they said that they should kill the men whom they had living (ἀποκτενοῦμεν οὓς ἔχομεν, which might have been changed to ἀποκτενεῖν οὓς ἔχοιεν). Πρόδηλον ἦν (τοῦτο) ἐσόμενον, εἰ μὴ κωλύσετε, it was plain that this would be so unless you should prevent (τοῦτο ἔσται εἰ μὴ κωλύσετε, for which we might have had εἰ μὴ κωλύσοιτε). Ἦλπίζον τοὺς Σικελοὺς ταύτῃ, οὓς μετέπεμψαν, ἀπαντήσεσθαι, they hoped the Sikels whom they had sent for would meet them here.

NOTE 1. One verb may be changed to the optative while another is retained; as δηλώσας ὅτι ἔτοιμοί εἰσι μάχεσθαι, εἷ τις ἐξέρχεται, having shown that they were ready to fight if any one should come forth (ἔτοιμοί εἰσι, ἐὰν τις ἐξέρχεται). This sometimes causes a great variety of constructions in the same sentence.

NOTE 2. The aorist indicative is not changed to the optative in dependent clauses, to avoid confusion with the aorist subjunctive, which is regularly so changed. In dependent clauses in which confusion would be impossible (as in causal sentences), which never have a subjunctive), even an aorist indicative may become optative.

NOTE 3. A dependent optative of course remains unchanged in all indirect discourse.

§ 248. The principles of § 247 apply also to any dependent clause (in a sentence of any kind) which expresses indirectly the past thoughts of any person, even of the speaker himself.

This applies especially to the following constructions:—

1. Clauses depending on an infinitive after verbs of wishing, commanding, advising, &c.; as these verbs imply thought, or the expression of thought, although the infinitive after them is not in indirect discourse (§ 246, Note).

2. Clauses containing a protasis with the apodosis implied in the context (§ 226, Note), or with the apodosis expressed in a verb like θαυμάζω (§ 228).

3. Temporal clauses expressing a past intention, especially those introduced by ἕως or πρὶν after past tenses.

4. Even ordinary relative sentences, which would regularly take the indicative.

This affects the construction of course only after past tenses.
E. g.

(1.) Ἐβούλοντο ἐλθεῖν, εἰ τοῦτο γένοιτο, they wished to go if this should happen. (Here ἐβούλοντο ἐλθεῖν εἰὰν τοῦτο γένηται might be used, expressing the form, if this shall happen, in which the wish would be conceived.) Ἐκέλευσεν ὁ τι δύναιντο λαβόντας μεταδιώκειν, he commanded them to take what they could and pursue (he said ὁ τι ἂν δύνησθε, what you can, and therefore we might have had ὁ τι ἂν δύνωνται). Προεῖπον αὐτοῖς μὴ ναυμαχεῖν Κορινθίοις, ἢν μὴ ἐπὶ Κέρκυραν πλέωσι καὶ μέλλωσιν ἀποβαίνειν, they instructed them not to engage in a sea fight with Corinthians, unless these should be sailing against Corcyra and should be on the point of landing. (Here the direct forms are retained, for which εἰ μὴ πλέοιεν καὶ μέλλοιεν might have been used.)

(2.) ὩκτεIRON, εἰ ἀλώσονται, they pitied them, in case they should be captured (the thought being εἰ ἀλώσονται, which might have been retained). Φύλακας συμπέμπει, ὅπως φυλάττοιεν αὐτὸν, καὶ εἰ τῶν ἀγρίων τι φανείη θηρίων, he sends (sent) guards, to guard him and (to be ready) in case any of the savage beasts should appear (the thought being εἰὰν τι φανῇ). Τάλλα, ἢν ἔτι ναυμαχεῖν οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι τολμήσωσι, παρεσκευάζοντο, they made the other preparations (to be ready) in case the Athenians should still venture a naval battle. Ἐχαιρον ἀγαπῶν εἴ τις ἐάσει, I rejoiced, being content if any one would let it pass (the thought was ἀγαπῶ εἴ τις ἐάσει). Ἐθαύμαζε εἴ τις ἀργύριον πράττειτο, he wondered that any one demanded money; but in the same book (Xen. Mem. I.) we find ἐθαύμαζε δ' εἰ μὴ φανερὸν αὐτοῖς ἐστίν, he wondered that it was not plain.

(3.) Σπονδὰς ἐποίησαντο ἕως ἀπαγγελθεῖν τὰ λεχθέντα εἰς Λακεδαίμονα, they made a truce, (to continue) until what had been said should be reported at Sparta (they thought ἕως ἂν ἀπαγγελθῇ, which might have been retained). Οὐ γὰρ δὴ σφεας ἀπίει ὁ θεὸς τῆς ἀποικίης, πρὶν δὴ ἀπίκωνται ἐς αὐτὴν Λιβύην, i. e. until they should come, &c. (where ἀπίκοιντο might have been used). Hlt.

φέροιτο, he wished to see the token, which he was bringing (as he said) from Proetus. Κατηγορεον τῶν Αἰγινητέων τὰ πεποιήκοιεν προδόντες τὴν Ἑλλάδα, they accused the Aeginetans for what (as they said) they had done in betraying Greece.

For the same principle in causal sentences, see § 250, Note.

NOTE. On this principle, final and object clauses with ἵνα, ὅπως, ὥς, μή, &c., admit the double construction of indirect discourse, and allow either the subjunctive or future indicative (as the case may be) to stand unchanged after secondary tenses. (See § 216, 2.) The same principle extends to all conditional and conditional relative sentences depending on final or object clauses, as these too belong to the indirect discourse.

Ὅπως AND Ὅ in INDIRECT QUOTATIONS.

§ 249. 1. In a few cases ὅπως is used for ὥς or ὅτι in indirect quotations, chiefly in poetry. E. g.

Τοῦτο μή μοι φράζ', ὅπως οὐκ εἶ κακός, do not tell me this, that you are not base. Soph.

2. Homer rarely uses ὅ (neuter of ὅς) for ὅτι. E. g.

Λεύσσετε γὰρ τό γε πάντες, ὅ μοι γέρας ἔρχεται ἄλλη, for you all see this, that my prize goes another way. Γινώσκων ὅ οἱ αὐτὸς ὑπείρεχε χείρας Ἀπόλλων, knowing that Apollo himself held over him his hands.

V. CAUSAL SENTENCES.

§ 250. Causal sentences express a cause or reason, and are introduced by ὅτι, ὥς, because, ἐπεί, ἐπειδή, ὅτε, ὁπότε, since, and by other particles of similar meaning. They take the indicative after both primary and secondary tenses. The negative particle is οὐ. E. g.

Κήδετο γὰρ Δαναῶν, ὅτι ῥα θνήσκοντας ὀρᾶτο, for he pitied the Danaï, because he saw them dying. Ὅτε τοῦθ' οὕτως ἔχει, προσήκει, &c., since this is so, it is becoming, &c.

NOTE. On the principle of indirect discourse (§ 248), the optative may be used in a causal sentence after a past tense, to imply that the cause is assigned on the authority of some other person than the speaker; as τὸν Περικλέα ἐκάκισον, ὅτι στρατηγὸς ὢν οὐκ ἐπέξαγοι, they abused Pericles, because (as they said) being general he did not lead them out. Thuc. (This assigns the reason why the Athenians abused him, and does not show the historian's opinion.)

VI. EXPRESSION OF A WISH.

§ 251. 1. When a wish refers to the future, it is expressed by the optative, either with or without εἴθε or εἰ γάρ, O that, O if. The negative is μή, which can stand alone with the optative. E. g.

Τὸ μὲν νῦν ταῦτα πρῆσσοις τάπερ ἐν χερσὶν ἔχεις, for the present may you continue to do these things which you have now in hand. Ἠδὲ. Εἴθε φίλος ἡμῖν γένοιο, O that you may become our friend. Μηκέτι ζῶην ἐγώ, may I no longer live. Τεθναίην, ὅτε μοι μηκέτι ταῦτα μέλοι, may I die when I shall no longer care for these things (§ 235).

For the distinction between the present and aorist, and an example illustrating it, see § 202, 1.

2. When a wish refers to the present or the past, and it is implied that its object is not or was not attained, it is expressed by a secondary tense of the indicative with εἴθε or εἰ γάρ, which here cannot be omitted. The imperfect and aorist are distinguished here as in protasis (§ 222). E. g.

Εἴθε τοῦτο ἐποίει, O that he were doing this, or O that he had done this. Εἴθε τοῦτο ἐποίησεν, O that he had done this; εἰ γὰρ μὴ ἐγένετο τοῦτο, O that this had not happened.

Εἴθ' εἶχες βελτίους φρένας, O that thou hadst a better understanding. Εἰ γὰρ τοσαύτην δύναμιν εἶχον, O that I had so great power. Εἴθε σοι τότε συνεγενόμην, O that I had then met with you.

NOTE 1. The aorist ὤφελον of ὀφείλω, debeo, and in Homer sometimes the imperfect ὤφελον, are used with the infinitive in wishes, with the same meaning as the secondary tenses of the indicative; as ὤφελε τοῦτο ποιεῖν, would that he were doing this (lit. he ought to be doing this), or would that he had done this (habitually); ὤφελε τοῦτο ποιῆσαι, would that he had done this.

"Ὀφελον is negatived by μή (not οὐ), and it may even be preceded by εἴθε or εἰ γάρ; as μή ποτ' ὤφελον λιπεῖν τὴν Σκύρον, O that I had never left Scyros; εἰ γὰρ ὤφελον οἶοί τε εἶναι, O that they were able, &c. As this is really an apodosis, like ἔδει, &c., with the infinitive (§ 222, N. 2), the use of εἴθε, εἰ γάρ, and μή with it is an anomaly.

NOTE 2. The two forms of wishes (§ 251) are elliptical forms of protasis, as is seen by εἰ in εἴθε and εἰ γάρ (sometimes in poetry the simple εἰ), and by the force of the different tenses.

VII. IMPERATIVE AND SUBJUNCTIVE IN COMMANDS, EXHORTATIONS, AND PROHIBITIONS.

§ 252. The imperative expresses a command, exhortation, or entreaty; as λέγε, speak thou; φεύγε, begone! ἐλθέτω, let him come; χαιρόντων, let them rejoice.

NOTE. A singular combination of a command and a question is found in such phrases as οἶσθ' ὃ δρᾶσον; do — dost thou know what?

*Ιωμεν, let us go; ἴδωμεν, let us see; μὴ τοῦτο ποιῶμεν, let us not do this.

NOTE. Both subjunctive and imperative may be preceded by ἄγε, (ἄγετε), φέρε, or ἴθι, come! These words are used without regard to the number or person of the verb which follows; as ἄγε μίμνετε πάντες.

§ 254. In prohibitions, in the second and third persons, the present imperative or the aurist subjunctive is used with μή and its compounds. E. g.

Μὴ ποιεῖ τοῦτο, do not do this (habitually), or do not go on doing this; μὴ ποιήσης τοῦτο, (simply) do not do this. Μὴ κατὰ τοὺς νόμους δικάσητε· μὴ βοηθήσητε τῷ πεπονθότι δεινῷ· μὴ εὐορκεῖτε, do not judge according to the laws; do not help him who has suffered outrages; do not abide by your oaths.

The two forms have merely the usual distinction between the present and aurist (§ 202, 1).

NOTE. The third person of the aurist imperative sometimes occurs in prohibitions; very rarely the second person.

VIII. SUBJUNCTIVE LIKE FUTURE INDICATIVE IN HOMER.
— INTERROGATIVE SUBJUNCTIVE. — SUBJUNCTIVE AND FUTURE INDICATIVE WITH Οὐ μή.

§ 255. In Homer, the subjunctive sometimes has the force of a future indicative in independent sentences. E. g.

Οὐ γάρ πω τοίους ἴδον ἀνέρας, οὐδὲ ἴδωμαι, for I never yet saw nor shall I ever see such men. Καὶ ποτέ τις εἴπησιν, and some one will (or may) say.

NOTE. This subjunctive may, like the future indicative, take ἄν or κέ to form an apodosis. See § 209, 2.

§ 256. The first person of the subjunctive, and sometimes the third, may be used in questions of doubt, where a person asks himself or another what he is to do. It is negated by μή. It is often introduced by βούλει or βούλεσθε (in poetry θέλεις or θέλετε). E. g.

Εἴπω ταῦτα; shall I say this? or βούλει εἶπω ταῦτα; do you wish that I should say this? Ποῖ τράπωμαι; ποῖ πορεύθῶ; whither shall I turn? whither shall I go? Ποῦ δὴ βούλει καθιζόμενοι ἀναγνῶμεν; where now wilt thou that we sit down and read? Τί τις εἶναι τοῦτο φῇ; what shall any one (i. e. I) say this is?

So in τί πάθω; what will become of me? what harm will it do me? (lit. what shall I undergo?).

§ 257. The subjunctive and future indicative are used with the double negative οὐ μή in the sense of the future indicative with οὐ, but with more emphasis. E. g.

Οὐ μὴ πύθεται, he will not obey. Οὔτε γὰρ γίγνεται, οὔτε γέγονεν, οὐδὲ οὖν μὴ γένηται, for there is not, nor has there been, nor will there ever be, &c. Οὐ ποτ' ἐξ ἐμοῦ γε μὴ πάθῃς τόδε, you never shall suffer this at my hands. Οὐ τοι μήποτε σε . . . ἄκοντά τις ἄξει, no one shall ever take you against your will, &c.

The double negative here seems to have merely the force of emphasis, and the subjunctive is a relic of the old usage (§ 255). The aorist subjunctive is generally used in these expressions.

NOTE. This construction in the second person sometimes expresses a strong prohibition; as οὐ μὴ καταβήσῃς, do not come down (lit. you shall not come down). The future indicative and the aorist subjunctive are both allowed in this sense. The imperative force is to be explained as in § 200, N. 8.

THE INFINITIVE.

§ 258. The infinitive has the force of a neuter verbal noun, and may take the neuter article in all its cases. It may at the same time, like a verb, have a subject or object; and it is qualified by adverbs, not by adjectives.

ject of a finite verb, especially of an impersonal verb (§ 134, N. 2) or of ἐστί; or it may be a predicate (§ 136). As accusative it may be the subject of another infinitive. E. g.

Συνέβη αὐτῷ ἐλθεῖν, it happened to him to go; ἐξῆν μένειν, it was possible to remain; δεῖ αὐτὸν μένειν, he must remain; ἡδὺ πολλοὺς ἐχθροὺς ἔχειν; is it pleasant to have many enemies? Φησὶ δεῖν τοῦτο ποιῆσαι, he says it is necessary to do this (ποιῆσαι is subject of δεῖν). Τὸ γινῶναι ἐπιστήμην λαβεῖν ἐστίν, to learn is to acquire knowledge. Τοῦτό ἐστι τὸ ἀδικεῖν, this is to commit injustice. Τὸ γὰρ θάνατον δεδιέναι οὐδὲν ἄλλο ἐστὶν ἢ δοκεῖν σοφὸν εἶναι μὴ ὄντα, for to fear death is nothing else than to seem to be wise without being so.

NOTE. These infinitives usually stand without the article; but whenever it is desired to emphasize the infinitive, or to make the subject more prominent than the predicate (see the last examples), the article can be added.

§ 260. The infinitive without the article may be the object of a verb. It generally has the force of an object accusative, sometimes that of a cognate accusative, and sometimes that of an object genitive.

1. The object infinitive not in indirect discourse may follow any verb whose action implies another action as its object. Such verbs are in general the same in Greek as in English, and others must be learned by practice. E. g.

Βούλεται ἐλθεῖν, he wishes to go; Βούλεται τοὺς πολίτας πολεμικοὺς εἶναι, he wishes the citizens to be warlike; παραينوῦμέν σοι μένειν, we advise you to remain; προείλετο πολεμῆσαι, he preferred to make war; κελεύει σε μὴ ἀπελθεῖν, he commands you not to depart; ἀξιοῦσιν ἄρχειν, they claim the right to rule; ἀξιοῦται θανεῖν, he is thought to deserve to die; δέομαι ὑμῶν συγγνώμην μοι ἔχειν, I ask you to have consideration for me. So κωλύει σε βαδίζειν, he prevents you from marching; οὐ πέφυκε δουλεύειν, he is not born to be a slave; ἀναβάλλεται τοῦτο ποιεῖν, he postpones doing this; κινδυνεύει θανεῖν, he is in danger of death.

The tenses here used are chiefly the present and aorist, and these do not differ in their time (§ 202, 1, 2, and 3). In this construction the infinitive has no more reference to time than any other verbal noun would have. Its negative is μή (§ 283, 3).

2. The object infinitive in indirect discourse follows a verb implying thought or the expression of thought or some equivalent phrase. Here each tense of the infinitive corresponds in time to the same tense of some finite mood. See § 246, with Note.

NOTE 1. Of the three common verbs meaning to say, φημί regularly takes the infinitive in indirect discourse, εἶπον takes ὅτι or ὥς with the indicative or optative, and λέγω allows either construction; ὅτι or ὥς, however, are more common after the active voice of λέγω.

NOTE 2. A relative clause depending on an infinitive in indirect discourse sometimes takes the infinitive by assimilation; as ἐπειδὴ δὲ γενέσθαι ἐπὶ τῇ οἰκίᾳ, (ἔφη) ἀνεωγμένην καταλαμβάνειν τὴν θύραν, and when they came to the house, &c. Herodotus allows this even after εἰ, if, and διότι, because.

§ 261. 1. The infinitive without the article limits the meaning of many adjectives and nouns. E. g.

Δυνατὸς ποιεῖν τοῦτο, able to do this; δεινὸς λέγειν, skilled in speaking; ἄξιος τοῦτο λαβεῖν, worthy to receive this; πρόθυμος λέγειν, eager to speak; μαλακοὶ καρτερεῖν, (too) effeminate to endure; ἐπιστήμων λέγειν τε καὶ σιγᾶν, knowing how both to speak and to be silent.

Ἀνάγκη ἐστὶ πάντας ἀπελθεῖν, there is a necessity that all should withdraw; κίνδυνος ἦν αὐτῷ παθεῖν τι, he was in danger of suffering something; ὥρα ἀπιέναι, time to go away; ἐλπίδας ἔχει τοῦτο ποιῆσαι, he has hopes of doing this.

NOTE. Adjectives of this class are especially those denoting ability, fitness, desert, readiness, and their opposites; and, in general, those corresponding in meaning to verbs which take the infinitive (§ 260, 1). Nouns of this class are such as form with a verb (generally εἰμί) an expression equivalent to a verb which takes the infinitive. Most nouns take the infinitive with the article as an adnominal genitive (§ 262, 2).

2. Any adjective or adverb may take the infinitive without the article as an accusative of specification (§ 160, 1). E. g.

Θέαμα αἰσχρὸν ὁρᾶν, a sight disgraceful to behold; λόγοι ὑμῖν χρησιμώτατοι ἀκοῦσαι, words most useful for you to hear; τὰ χαλεπώτατα εὑρεῖν, the things hardest to find; πολιτεία χαλεπὴ συζῆν, a government hard to live under. Κάλλιστα ἰδεῖν, in a manner most delightful to behold.

χαλεπὸν ποιεῖν, a thing hard to do, rather than χαλεπὸν ποιεῖσθαι, hard to be done.

NOTE. Nouns and even verbs may take the infinitive on this principle; as θαῦμα ἰδέσθαι, a wonder to behold. Ἀριστεύεσκε μάχεσθαι, he was the first in fighting (like μάχην). Hom.

§ 262. 1. The infinitive may depend on a preposition, in which case the article τοῦ, τῷ, or τό must be prefixed. E. g.

Πρὸ τοῦ τοὺς ὅρκους ἀποδοῦναι, before taking the oaths; πρὸς τῷ μηδὲν ἐκ τῆς πρεσβείας λαβεῖν, besides receiving nothing by the embassy; διὰ τὸ ξένος εἶναι οὐκ ἂν οἶε ἀδικηθῆναι, you think you would not be wronged on account of your being a stranger.

2. The genitive and dative of the infinitive, with the article, can stand in most of the constructions belonging to those cases; as in that of the adnominal genitive, the genitive after a comparative or after verbs and adjectives, the dative of manner, means, &c., the dative after verbs and adjectives, and sometimes in that of the genitive of cause or purpose (§ 173, 1). E. g.

Τοῦ πιεῖν ἐπιθυμία, a desire to drink; κρεῖττον τοῦ λαλεῖν, better than prating; ἐπέσχομεν τοῦ δακρῦειν, we ceased our weeping (§ 263); ἀήθεις τοῦ κατακούειν τινός εἰσιν, they are unused to obeying any one. Τῷ φανερός εἶναι τοιοῦτος ὢν, by having it evident that he was such a man; τῷ κοσμίως ζῆν πιστεύειν, to trust in an orderly life; ἴσον τῷ προστένειν, equal to lamenting beforehand. Μίνως τὸ ληστικὸν καθήρει, τοῦ τὰς προσόδους μᾶλλον ἰέναι αὐτῷ, Minos put down piracy, that his revenues might come in more abundantly. Thuc.

§ 263. 1. Verbs and expressions denoting hindrance or freedom from anything allow either the infinitive with τοῦ (§ 262, 2) or the simple infinitive (§ 260, 1). As the infinitive after such verbs can take the negative μή without affecting the sense (§ 283, 6), we have a third and fourth form, still with the same meaning. (See Note, and § 263, 2.) E. g.

Εἴργει σε τοῦτο ποιεῖν, εἴργει σε τοῦ τοῦτο ποιεῖν, εἴργει σε μὴ τοῦτο ποιεῖν, εἴργει σε τοῦ μὴ τοῦτο ποιεῖν, all meaning he prevents you from doing this. Τὸν Φίλιππον παρελθεῖν οὐκ ἐδύναντο κωλύσαι, they could not hinder Philip from passing through. Τοῦ δὲ δραπετεύειν ἀπείργουσι, they restrain them from running away. Ὅπερ ἔσχε μὴ τὴν Πελοπόννησον πορθεῖν, which prevented (him) from ravaging Peloponnesus. Ἐξεί αὐτοὺς τοῦ μὴ καταδύναι, it will keep them from sinking.

NOTE. When the leading verb is negated (or interrogative implying a negative), the double negative μὴ οὐ is generally used rather than the simple μὴ with the infinitive (§ 283, 7), so that we can say οὐκ εἴργει σε μὴ οὐ τοῦτο ποιεῖν, he does not prevent you from doing this. Τοῦ μὴ οὐ ποιεῖν is rarely (if ever) used.

2. The infinitive with τὸ μὴ is sometimes used after expressions denoting hindrance, and also after all which even imply prevention, omission, or denial. This infinitive with τό is less closely connected with the leading verb than are the forms just mentioned (1), and it may often be considered an accusative of specification (§ 160, 1), and sometimes (as after verbs of denial) an object accusative. Sometimes it expresses merely a result. E. g.

Τὸν ὄμιλον εἴργον τὸ μὴ τὰ ἐγγὺς τῆς πόλεως κακουργεῖν, they prevented the crowd from injuring the neighboring parts of the city. (This adds a fifth form εἴργει σε τὸ μὴ τοῦτο ποιεῖν to the four already given in § 263, 1, as equivalents of the English he prevents you from doing this). Κίμωνα παρὰ τρεῖς ἀφείσαν ψήφους τὸ μὴ θανάτῳ ζημιῶσαι, they allowed Cimon by three votes to escape the punishment of death; lit. they let him off (so as) not to punish him with death.

Here, as above (1, Note), μὴ οὐ is used when the leading verb is negated; as οὐδὲν γὰρ αὐτῷ ταῦτ' ἐπαρκέσει τὸ μὴ οὐ πεσεῖν, for this will not at all suffice to prevent him from falling.

§ 264. The infinitive with its subject, object, or other adjuncts (sometimes including dependent clauses) may be preceded by the article, the whole standing as a single noun in any ordinary construction. E. g.

Τὸ δὲ μῆτε πάλαι τοῦτο πεπονθέναι, πεφηνέναι τέ τινα ἡμῖν συμμαχίαν τούτων ἀντίρροπον, ἂν βουλώμεθα χρῆσθαι. τῆς παρ' ἐκείνων εὐνοίας εὐεργέτημ' ἂν ἔγωγε θείην, but the fact that we have not suffered this long ago, and that an alliance has appeared to us to balance these, if we shall wish to use it, — this I should ascribe as a benefaction to their good-will. Dem. (Here the whole sentence τὸ . . . χρῆσθαι is the object of θείην.)

Οἱ ἄρχοντες, οὓς εἴλεσθε ἄρχειν μου, the rulers, whom you chose to rule me. Τὴν πόλιν φυλάττειν αὐτοῖς παρέδωκαν, they delivered the city to them to guard. Αἱ γυναῖκες πιεῖν φέρουσαι, the women bringing them (something) to drink.

NOTE. In Homer, where ὥστε is seldom used in its sense of so as, the simple infinitive may express a result; as τίς σφωε ξυνέηκε μάχεσθαι, who brought them into conflict, so as to contend?

Such expressions as μεῖζον ἢ φέρειν, too great to bear, are to be explained on the same principle.

§ 266. 1. The infinitive after ὥστε, so that, so as, expresses a result. E. g.

Ἦν πεπαιδευμένος οὕτως, ὥστε πᾶν ῥαδίως ἔχειν ἀρκούντα, he had been so educated as very easily to have enough. Σὺ δὲ σχολάζεις, ὥστε θαυμάζειν ἐμέ, and you delay, so that I wonder.

2. The infinitive after ὥστε sometimes expresses a condition, like that after ἐφ' ᾧ or ἐφ' ᾧτε; and sometimes a purpose, like a final clause. E. g.

Ἐξὸν αὐτοῖς τῶν λοιπῶν ἄρχειν Ἑλλήνων, ὥστ' αὐτοὺς ὑπακούειν βασιλεῖ, it being in their power to rule the rest of the Greeks, on condition that they should themselves obey the King. Πᾶν ποιοῦσιν ὥστε δίκην μὴ διδόναι, they do everything, so that they may not suffer punishment (ἵνα μὴ διδώσι might have been used).

NOTE 1. Ὡς sometimes takes the infinitive like ὥστε, generally to express a result, seldom to express a purpose.

NOTE 2. Ὡστε may also take the indicative to express a result (§ 237). Ὡστε in Homer usually means as, like ὥσπερ. (See § 265, Note.)

§ 267. The infinitive follows ἐφ' ᾧ or ἐφ' ᾧτε, on condition that, for the purpose of. E. g.

Ἀφίεμέν σε, ἐπὶ τούτῳ μέντοι, ἐφ' ᾧτε μηκέτι φιλοσοφεῖν, we release you, but on this condition, that you shall no longer be a philosopher. Αἰρεθέντες ἐφ' ᾧτε ξυγγράψαι νόμους, chosen for the purpose of compiling laws.

For the future indicative after these words, see § 236, N. 2.

Τὸ Δέλτα ἔστὶ νεωστὶ, ὡς λόγῳ εἰπεῖν, ἀναπεφηνός, the Delta has recently, so to speak, made its appearance. So ὡς ἔπος εἰπεῖν, so to speak; ὡς συντόμως (or συνελόντι, § 184, 5) εἰπεῖν, to speak concisely; τὸ ξύμπαν εἰπεῖν, on the whole; ὡς ἀπεικάζειν, to judge (i. e. as far as we can judge); ὅσον γέ μ' εἰδέναι, as far as I know; ὡς ἐμοὶ δοκεῖν, or ἐμοὶ δοκεῖν, as it seems to me; οὐ πολλῶ λόγῳ εἰπεῖν, not to make a long story, in short. So ὀλίγον δεῖν, to want little, i. e. almost; in which δεῖν can be omitted.

NOTE. In certain cases εἶναι seems to be superfluous; especially in ἐκὼν εἶναι, willing or willingly, which generally stands in a negative sentence. So τὸ νῦν εἶναι, at present; τὸ τήμερον εἶναι, to-day; τὸ ἐπ' ἐκείνοις εἶναι, as far as depends on them, and some other phrases.

Μὴ ποτε καὶ σὺ γυναικί περ ἡπιος εἶναι, be thou never indulgent to thy wife. The subject is here in the nominative; but in the three next constructions it is in the accusative.

§ 270. The infinitive sometimes expresses a wish, like the optative. This occurs chiefly in poetry. E. g.

Ζεῦ πάτερ, ἢ Αἴαντα λαχεῖν ἢ Τυδέος υἱόν, Father Zeus, may the lot fall either on Ajax or on the son of Tydeus. Hom.

§ 271. In laws, treaties, and proclamations, the infinitive often depends on ἔδοξε or δέδοκται, be it enacted, or κελεύεται, it is commanded; which may be expressed in a previous sentence or understood. E. g.

Δικάζειν δὲ τὴν ἐν Ἀρείῳ πάγῳ φόνου, &c., and (be it enacted) that the Senate on the Areopagus shall have jurisdiction in cases of murder, &c. Ἔτη δὲ εἶναι τὰς σπονδὰς πεντήκοντα, and that the treaty shall continue fifty years.

§ 272. The infinitive, with or without τό, may be used to express surprise or indignation. E. g.

Τῆς μωρίας· τὸ Δία νομίζειν, ὄντα τηλικουτονί, what folly! to believe in Zeus when you are so big! So in Latin: Mene incepto destitute victam!

§ 273. In narration, the infinitive often seems to stand for the indicative, when it depends on some word like λέγεται, it is said, in a preceding sentence. E. g.

Ἀπικομένους δὲ ἐς τὸ Ἄργος, διατίθασθαι τὸν φόρτον, and coming to Argos, they were (it is said) setting out their cargo for sale (διατίθασθαι is an imperfect infinitive, § 203. N. 1). Hdt. I. 1. See Hdt. I. 24, and Xen. Cyr. I. 3, 5.

§ 274. Πρὶν, before, before that, until, besides taking the indicative, subjunctive, and optative (§ 240), also takes the infinitive. This happens in Attic Greek chiefly after affirmative sentences, but in Homer without regard to the leading verb. E. g.

Ἀποπέμπουσιν αὐτὸν πρὶν ἀκοῦσαι, they send him away before he hears. Μεσσηνὴν εἵλομεν πρὶν Πέρσας λαβεῖν τὴν βασιλείαν, we took Messene before the Persians obtained their kingdom.

See the rules for πρὶν with the finite moods, § 240.

NOTE. Πρὶν ἢ, πρότερον ἢ, πρόσθεν ἢ, before that, sooner than, and even ὕστερον ἢ, later than, may take the infinitive like πρὶν alone. See § 240, Note.

THE PARTICIPLE.

§ 275. The participle is a verbal adjective, and has three uses. First, it may express a simple attribute, like an ordinary adjective; secondly, it may define the circumstances under which an action takes place; thirdly, it may form part of the predicate with certain verbs, often having a force resembling that of the infinitive.

§ 276. 1. The participle, like any other adjective, may qualify a noun. Here it must often be translated by a relative and a finite verb, especially when it is preceded by the article. E. g.

Πόλις κάλλει διαφέρουσα, a city excelling in beauty; ἀνὴρ καλῶς πεπαιδευμένος, a man who has been well educated (or a well-educated man); οἱ πρέσβεις οἱ ὑπὸ Φιλίππου πεμφθέντες, the ambassadors who were sent by Philip; ἄνδρες οἱ τοῦτο ποιήσονται, men who are to do this.

2. The participle preceded by the article may be used substantively, like any other adjective. It is then equivalent to he who or those who with a finite verb. E. g.

Οἱ πεπεισμένοι, those who have been convinced; παρὰ τοῖς ἀρί-στοις δοκοῦσιν εἶναι, among those who seem to be best, ὁ τὴν γνώμην ταύτην εἰπὼν, the one who gave this opinion; τοῖς Ἀρκάδων σφετέροις οὖσι ξυμμάχοις προείπον, they proclaimed to those who were their allies among the Arcadians.

§ 277. The participle may define the circumstances of an action. It expresses the following relations:—

1. Time; the tenses denoting various points of time, which is relative to that of the verb of the sentence (§ 204). E. g.

Ταῦτα ἔπραττε στρατηγῶν, he did this while he was general; ταῦτα πράξει στρατηγῶν, he will do this while he is general; τυραννεύσας δὲ ἔτη τρία Ἰππίας ἐχώρει ἐς Σίγειον, and when he had been tyrant three years, he withdrew to Sigeum.

2. Cause, manner, means, and similar relations, including manner of employment. E. g.

Λέγω δὲ τούτου ἔνεκα, βουλόμενος δόξαι σοι ὅπερ ἐμοί, and I speak for this reason, because I wish that to seem good to you which, &c. Προεῖλετο μᾶλλον τοῖς νόμοις ἐμμένων ἀποθανεῖν ἢ παρανομῶν ζῆν, he preferred to die abiding by the laws rather than to live transgressing them; τοῦτο ἐποίησε λαθῶν, he did this secretly; ἀπεδήμει τριηραρχῶν, he was absent on duty as trierarch. Ληϊζόμενοι ζῶσιν, they live by plunder.

3. Purpose or intention; generally expressed by the future participle. E. g.

Ἦλθε λυσόμενος θύγατρα, he came to ransom his daughter. Hom. Πέμπειν πρέσβεις ταῦτα ἐροῦντας καὶ Λύσανδρον αἰτήσοντας, to send ambassadors to say this and to ask for Lysander.

4. Condition; the tenses of the participle representing the corresponding tenses of the indicative, subjunctive, or optative, in all classes of protasis.

See § 226, 1, where examples will be found.

5. Opposition or limitation; where the participle is generally to be translated by although and a verb. E. g.

Ὀλίγα δυνάμενοι προορᾶν, πολλὰ ἐπιχειροῦμεν πράττειν, although we are able to foresee few things, we try to do many things.

6. Any attendant circumstance, the participle being merely descriptive. E. g.

βόντες τοὺς Βοιωτοὺς ἐστράτευσαν ἐπὶ Φάρσαλον, taking the Boeotians with them, they marched against Pharsalus.

NOTE 1. The adverbs ἅμα, μεταξύ, εὐθύς, αὐτίκα, and ἐξαίφνης are often connected (in position and in sense) with the temporal participle, while grammatically they qualify the verb of the sentence; as ἅμα καταλαβόντες προσεκέατό σφι, as soon as they overtook them they pressed hard upon them; Νεκὼς μεταξύ ὀρύσσων ἐπαύσατο, Necho stopped while digging (the canal). Hdt.

The participle denoting opposition is often strengthened by καίπερ or καί, although, in the poets also καί . . . περ; as ἐπικτείρω νυ, καίπερ ὄντα δυσμενῇ, I pity him, although he is an enemy.

NOTE 2. The participles denoting cause or purpose are often preceded by ὥς. This shows that they express the idea of the subject of the leading verb or that of some other person prominent in the sentence, without implying that it is also the idea of the speaker or writer; as τὸν Περικλέα ἐν αἰτία εἶχον ὥς πείσαντα σφᾶς πολεμεῖν, they found fault with Pericles, on the ground that he had persuaded them to the war; ἀγανακτοῦσιν ὥς μεγάλων τιῶν ἀπεστερημένοι, they are indignant, because (as they say) they have been deprived of some great blessings.

The participle denoting cause is often emphasized by ἄτε, οἷον, or οἷα, as, inasmuch as; but these particles have no such force as ὥς (above); as ἄτε παῖς ὦν, ἦδετο, inasmuch as he was a child, he was pleased.

NOTE 3. Ὡσπερ, as, before a conditional participle, generally belongs to an implied apodosis, to which the participle forms the protasis; as ὥσπερ ἤδη σαφῶς εἰδότες, οὐκ ἐθέλει' ἀκούειν, you are unwilling to hear, as (you would be) if you already knew it well. Here ὥσπερ means merely as; the if belongs to the participle. Compare ὥσπερ εἰ λέγοις, as if you should say.

§ 278. 1. When a participle denoting any of the relations included in § 277 belongs to a noun which is not connected with the main construction of the sentence, they stand together in the genitive absolute.

See § 183, and the examples there given. All the particles mentioned in the notes to § 277 can be used here.

2. The participles of impersonal verbs stand in the accusative absolute, in the neuter singular, when others would be in the genitive absolute. So with passive participles and ὄν when they are used impersonally. E. g.

Οἱ δ' οὐ βοηθήσαντες, δέον, ὑγιεῖς ἀπῆλθον; and did those who brought no aid when it was needed escape safe and sound? So εἰ δὲ παρασχόν, and when a good opportunity offered; οὐ προσῆκον, improperly (it being not becoming); προσταχθέν μοι, when I had been commanded; εἰρημένον, when it has been said; ἀδύνατον ὄν, it being impossible; ἀπόρρητον πόλει (sc. ὄν), when it is forbidden by the state.

NOTE. The participles of personal verbs sometimes stand with their nouns in the accusative absolute, but very seldom unless they are preceded by ὥς or ὥσπερ.

§ 279. The participle may be used to limit the meaning of certain verbs, in a sense which often resembles that of the infinitive (§ 260, 1).

1. In this sense the participle is used with verbs signifying to begin, to continue, to endure, to cease (or cause to cease), to represent, to find, and some others. E. g.

*Ἀρξομαι λέγων, I will begin to speak; παῦσαι λέγουσα, cease speaking; οὐκ ἀνέξομαι ζῶν, I shall not endure to live; τοῦτο ἔχων διατελεῖ, he continues to have this; πεποίηκε τοὺς ἐν Ἅιδου τὸν αἰὶ χρόνον τιμωρουμένους, he has represented those in Hades as suffering continual punishment. Εἶρε Κρονίδην ἄτερ ἡμενον ἄλλων, she found the son of Kronos sitting apart from the others. Hom.

2. With the following verbs the participle contains the leading idea of the expression: λαμβάνω, to escape the notice of; τυγχάνω, to happen; φθάνω, to anticipate. The aorist participle here does not denote past time, but coincides in time with the verb (§ 204, N. 2). E. g.

Λήσετε διαφθαρέντες, you will be corrupted before you know it. *Ετυχον καθήμενος ἐνταῦθα, I happened to be sitting there; ἔτυχε κατὰ τοῦτο τοῦ καιροῦ ἐλθών, he happened to come (not to have come) just at that time. *Εφθησαν τοὺς Πέρσας ἀπικόμενοι, they came before the Persians. Hdt. Οὐδ' ἄρα Κίρκην ἐλθόντες ἐλήθομεν, nor did we come without Circe's knowing it. Hom. See examples under § 204, N. 2.

The perfect participle here has its ordinary force.

NOTE. The participle with διατελέω, to continue (§ 279, 1), οἷχομαι, to be gone (§ 277, 2), θαμίζω, to be wont or to be frequent, and some others, expresses the leading idea; but the aorist participle with these has no peculiar force; as οἴχεται φεύγων, he has taken flight (§ 200, N. 3); οὐ θαμίξεις καταβαίνων εἰς τὸν Πειραιᾶ, you don't come down to the Peiraeus very often.

3. With verbs signifying to overlook or to allow (περιοράω and ἐφοράω, with περιείδον and ἐπέιδον, sometimes εἶδον), the participle is used in the sense of the object infinitive (§ 260, 1), the present and aorist participles differing merely as the present and aorist infinitives would differ in similar constructions (§ 202, 1). E. g.

Μὴ περιίδωμεν ὑβρισθεῖσαν τὴν Λακεδαίμονα καὶ καταφρονηθεῖσαν, let us not allow Lacedaemon to be insulted and despised. Μὴ μ' ἰδεῖν θανόνθ' ὑπ' ἀστών, not to see me killed by citizens. Eur. Τληφαί σε δρῶσαν, that thou shouldst take courage to do. Soph. Περιυδεῖν τὴν γῆν τμηθεῖσαν, to allow the land to be ravaged. Thuc. II. 18. (But in II. 20, we find περιυδεῖν τὴν γῆν τμηθῆναι, referring to the same thing.) See § 204, N. 2.

§ 280. With many verbs the participle stands in indirect discourse, each tense representing the corresponding tense of the indicative or optative.

Such verbs are chiefly those signifying to see, to perceive, to know, to hear or learn, to remember, to forget, to show, to appear, to prove, to acknowledge, and ἀγγέλλω, to announce.

See § 246 and examples; and § 211 for examples of the participle with ἄν representing both indicative and optative with ἄν.

NOTE 1. Δῆλός εἰμι and φανερός εἰμι take the participle in indirect discourse, where we use an impersonal construction; as δῆλος ἦν οἰόμενος, &c., it was evident that he thought, &c. (like δῆλον ἦν ὅτι οἶοιτο).

NOTE 2. With σύννοιδα or συγγιγνώσκω and a dative of the reflexive, a participle may be in either the nominative or dative; as σύννοιδα ἐμαυτῷ ἡδικημένῳ (or ἡδικημένος), I am conscious to myself that I have been wronged.

NOTE 3. Most of the verbs included in § 280 may take a clause with ὅτι in indirect discourse.

Most of them are found also with the infinitive. Οἶδ'α takes the infinitive regularly when it means I know how; as οἶδα τοῦτο μαθεῖν, I know how to learn this (but οἶδα τοῦτο μαθὼν, I know that I learned this).

NOTE 4. Ὡς may be used before this participle in the sense explained in § 277, N. 2. The genitive absolute with ὥς is sometimes found where we should expect the participle to agree with the object of the verb; as ὥς πολέμου ὄντος παρ' ὑμῶν ἀπαγγελῶ; shall I announce from you that there is war? (lit. assuming that there is war, shall I announce it from you?), where we might have πόλεμον ὄντα ἀπαγγεῖλαι; with less emphasis.

VERBAL ADJECTIVES IN -τέος AND -τέον.

§ 281. The verbal in -τέος has both a personal and an impersonal construction.

1. In the personal construction it is passive in sense, and expresses necessity, like the Latin participle in -dus. E. g.

Ὁ φελητέα σοι ἡ πόλις ἐστίν, the city must be benefited by you.
 Ἄλλας μεταπεμπτέας εἶναι (ἔφη), he said that other (ships) must be sent for. Ὁ λέγω ῥητέον ἐστίν, what I say must be spoken.

The noun denoting the agent is in the dative (§ 188, 4).

2. In the impersonal construction the verbal is in the neuter of the nominative singular (sometimes plural), with ἐστί expressed or understood. It is active in sense, and is equivalent to δεῖ with the infinitive.

The agent is generally expressed by the dative, sometimes by the accusative. These verbals may have an object like their verbs. E. g.

Ταῦτα ἡμῖν (or ἡμᾶς) ποιητέον ἐστίν, we must do this (equivalent to ταῦτα ἡμᾶς δεῖ ποιῆσαι, § 184, 2, N. 1). Οἰστέον τάδε, we must bear these things (sc. ἡμῖν). Τί ἂν αὐτῷ ποιητέον εἴη; what would he be obliged to do? Ἐψηφίσαντο πολεμητέα εἶναι, they voted that they must go to war (= δεῖν πολεμεῖν). Τοὺς συμμάχους οὐ παραδοτέα τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις, we must not abandon our allies to the Athenians.

The Latin has this construction (but seldom with verbs which take an object accusative); as Eundum est tibi (ιτέον ἐστί σοι), — Moriendum est omnibus, — Bello utendum est nobis (τῷ πολέμῳ χρηστέον ἐστίν ἡμῖν), we must go to war. (See Madvig's Latin Grammar, § 421.)

INTERROGATIVE SENTENCES.

§ 282. 1. All interrogative pronouns, pronominal adjectives, and adverbs can be used in both direct and indirect questions. The relative ὅστις (sometimes ὅς) and most other relative words may be used in indirect questions. (See § 149.)

2. The principal direct interrogative particles are ἦ and ἄρα.

These imply nothing as to the answer expected; but ἄρα οὐ implies that an affirmative, ἄρα μή that a negative, answer is expected. Οὐ and μή alone are often used with the same force as with ἄρα. So μῶν (for μή οὖν). E. g.

Ἦ σχολή ἔσται; will there be leisure? Ἄρ' εἰσὶ τινες ἄξιαί; are there any deserving ones? Ἄρ' οὐ (or Οὐ) βούλεσθε ἐλθεῖν; do you not wish to go (i. e. you wish, do you not)? Ἄρα μή βούλεσθε ἐλθεῖν; (or Μή βούλεσθε; or Μῶν βούλεσθε;) do you wish to go (you don't wish to go, do you)? This distinction between οὐ and μή does not apply to the interrogative subjunctive (§ 256), which allows only μή.

3. Ἄλλο τι ἤ; is it anything else than? or simply ἄλλο τι; is sometimes used as a direct interrogative. E. g.

Ἄλλο τι ἢ ἀδικοῦμεν; are we not (are we anything else than) in the wrong? — Ἄλλο τι ὁμολογοῦμεν; do we not agree?

4. Indirect questions may be introduced by εἰ, whether; and in Homer by ἤ or ἦέ. E. g.

Ἡρώτησα εἰ βούλοιτο ἐλθεῖν, I asked whether he wished to go. Ῥιχτο πεινσόμενος ἤ που ἔτ' εἴης, he was gone to inquire whether possibly you were still living. Hom.

5. Alternative questions (both direct and indirect) may be introduced by πότερον (πότερα) . . . ἤ, whether . . . or. Indirect alternative questions can also be introduced by εἰ . . . ἤ, εἴτε . . . εἴτε, εἴτε . . . ἤ, whether . . . or; and in Homer by ἤ (ἦέ) . . . ἢ (ἦε). E. g.

Πότερον ἔας ἄρχειν ἢ ἄλλον καθίστης; do you allow him to rule, or do you appoint another? Ἐβουλεύετο εἰ πέμποιέν τινας ἢ πάντες ἴοιεν, he was deliberating whether they should send some or should all go.

• NEGATIVES.

§ 283. The Greek has two negative adverbs, οὐ and μή. What is said of each of these applies to its compounds, — οὐδεῖς, οὐδέ, οὔτε, &c., and μηδεῖς, μηδέ, μήτε, &c.

1. Οὐ is used with the indicative and optative in all independent sentences (except wishes, which are really elliptical protases, § 251, Note 2); also in indirect discourse after ὅτι and ὥς, and in causal sentences. See Note, below.

2. Μή is used with the subjunctive and imperative in all constructions (except the Homeric subjunctive, § 255, which has the force of a future indicative). Μή is used in all final and object clauses after ἵνα, ὅπως, &c. ; except after μή, lest, which takes οὐ. It is used in all conditional sentences, in relative sentences with an indefinite antecedent (§ 231) and the corresponding temporal sentences after ἕως, πρίν, &c. (§§ 239, 240), in relative sentences expressing a purpose (§ 236), and in all expressions of a wish (§ 251).

3. Μή is used with the infinitive in all constructions, both with and without the article, except that of indirect discourse. In indirect discourse it regularly has οὐ, to retain the negative of the direct discourse ; but some exceptions occur.

4. When a participle expresses a condition (§ 277, 4) it takes μή ; so when it is equivalent to a relative with an indefinite antecedent (as οἱ μή βουλόμενοι, any who do not wish). Otherwise it takes οὐ. In indirect discourse it sometimes, like the infinitive, takes μή irregularly.

5. Adjectives follow the same principle with participles, taking μή only when they do not refer to definite persons or things (i. e. when they can be expressed by a relative with an indefinite antecedent) ; as οἱ μὴ ἀγαθοὶ πολῖται, (any) citizens who are not good, but οἱ οὐκ ἀγαθοὶ πολῖται means special citizens who are not good.

6. When verbs which contain a negative idea (as those of hindering, forbidding, denying, concealing, and distrusting) are followed by the infinitive, the negative μή can be added to the infinitive to strengthen the negation. Such a negative cannot be translated in English, and can always be omitted in Greek. For examples see § 263.

7. When an infinitive would regularly be negated by μή, either in the ordinary way (3) or to strengthen a preceding negation (6), if its leading verb has a negative, it generally takes the double negative μή οὐ. Thus δίκαιόν ἐστι μὴ τοῦτον ἀφείναι, it is just not to acquit him, becomes, if we negative the leading verb, οὐ δίκαιόν ἐστι μὴ οὐ τοῦτον ἀφείναι, it is not just not to acquit him. So ὡς οὐχ ὅσιόν σοι ὄν μὴ οὐ βοηθεῖν δικαιοσύνη, since (as you said) it was a failure in piety for you not to assist justice. Again, εἴργει σε μὴ τοῦτο ποιεῖν (§ 263, 1), he prevents you from doing this, becomes, with εἴργει negated, οὐκ εἴργει σε μὴ οὐ τοῦτο ποιεῖν, he does not prevent you from doing this.

Μὴ οὐ is used also when the leading verb is interrogative implying a negative; as τί ἐμποδὼν μὴ οὐχὶ ὑβριζομένους ἀποθανεῖν; what is there to prevent (us) from being insulted and perishing?

It is sometimes used with participles, or even nouns, to express an exception to a negative statement.

8. When a negative is followed by a simple negative (οὐ or μή) in the same clause, each retains its own force. If they belong to the same word or expression, they make an affirmative; as οὐδὲ τὸν Φορμίωνα οὐχ ὁρᾷ, nor does he not see Phormio (i. e. he sees Phormio well enough). But if they belong to different words, each is independent of the other; as οὐ δι' ἀπειρίαν γε οὐ φήσεις ἔχειν ὅ τι εἶπης, it is not surely through inexperience that you will deny that you have anything to say; οὐ μόνον οὐ πείθονται, they not only do not obey; εἰ μὴ Πρόξενον οὐχ ὑπέδεδξαντο, if they had not refused to receive Proxenus.

But when a negative is followed by a compound negative in the same clause (or by several), the negation is strengthened; as ἄνευ τούτου οὐδεὶς εἰς οὐδέν οὐδενὸς ἂν ὑμῶν οὐδέποτε γένοιτο ἄξιος, if it were not for this, no one of you would ever come to be of any value for anything. This does not apply to cases in which οὐ is merely interrogative (§ 282, 2).

For the double negative οὐ μή, see § 257.

NOTE. An exception to § 283, 1 occurs in indirect questions after εἰ, whether, in which μή can be used as well as οὐ. Also in the second part of an indirect alternative question (§ 282, 5) both οὐ and μή are allowed. Thus σκοπῶμεν εἰ πρέπει ἢ οὐ, let us look and see whether it is becoming or not; εἰ δὲ ἀληθὲς ἢ μὴ, πειράσομαι μαθεῖν, but I will try to learn whether it is true or not.

PART IV.

METRES.

§ 284. A VERSE is composed of portions called feet. The following are the feet of two and three syllables : —

Trochee	— —	Dactyl	— — —	Amphibrach	— — —
Iambus	— —	Anapaest	— — —	Bacchius	— — —
Spondee	— —	Tribrach	— — —	Antibacchius	— — —
Pyrrhic	— —	Cretic	— — —	Molossus	— — —

The following are the feet of four syllables : —

Choriambus	— — — —	Ditrochee	— — — —
Ionic a majore	— — — —	Diambus	— — — —
Ionic a minore	— — — —	Dispondee	— — — —
Proceleusmatic	— — — —	Antispast	— — — —

To these are to be added

Four Paeons, — — — —, — — — —, — — — —, — — — —;

And four Epitrites, — — — —, — — — —, — — — —, — — — —.

The Dochmius has five syllables, — — — — —.

§ 285. 1. Verses are called Trochaic, Iambic, Dactylic, &c. from their fundamental foot.

2. In most kinds of verse a monometer consists of one foot, a dimeter of two feet, a trimeter, tetrameter, pentameter, or hexameter, of three, four, five, or six feet. But in trochaic, iambic, and anapaestic verses, which are measured by dipodies (i. e. pairs of feet), a monometer consists of one dipody (or two feet), a dimeter of four feet, a trimeter of six feet, and a tetrameter of eight feet.

3. A verse which has an unfinished foot at the close is called catalectic (κατάληκτος, stopped short). A complete verse is called acatalectic.

Verses are called catalectic in syllabam, in dissyllabum, or in trissyllabum, according to the number of syllables which appear in the un-ends in the middle of a foot. This becomes important when it coincides with the caesura of the verse, which is a pause introduced into the verse to make it more melodious or to aid in its recital. In many verses the place of one or both of these caesuras is fixed. See § 293, 4; § 295, 4 and 5.

TROCHAIC VERSES.

§ 290. Trochaic verses are measured by dipodies (§ 285, 2). The trochaic dipody has the last syllable common, — ◡ — ◡. In trochaic verse, therefore, the tribrach ◡ ◡ ◡ can stand in any place for the trochee; and the spondee can stand in all the even places, that is, in the second part of every dipody. The anapaest is sometimes used as the equivalent of the spondee. The dactyl is sometimes used in proper names.

§ 291. The following are the most common trochaic verses:—

1. The dimeter (acatalectic and catalectic),—

Φήσομεν πρὸς | τοὺς στρατηγούς. — ◡ — ◡ | — ◡ — ◡
Ψυχαγωγεῖ | Σωκράτης. — ◡ — ◡ | — ◡ — ◡

2. The tetrameter catalectic, consisting of seven feet and a syllable, or of the two preceding verses combined:—

᾽Ω σοφώτα|τοι θεᾷται, || δεῦρο τὸν νοῦν | πρόσχετε.
— ◡ — ◡ | — ◡ — ◡ || — ◡ — ◡ | — ◡ — ◡

Tell me nót in | móurnful númbers, || lífe is bút an | émpty dréam.

3. The Ithyphallic, which is a trochaic tripody (not allowing the spondee or its equivalents),— Μήποτ' ἐκτακείη. — ◡ — ◡ — ◡

IAMBIC VERSES.

§ 292. Iambic verses are measured by dipodies (§ 285, 2). The iambic dipody has the first syllable common, ◡ — ◡ —. In iambic verse, therefore, the tribrach can stand in any place for the iambus; and the spondee can stand in the odd places, that is, in the first part of every dipody. The dactyl and anapaest are allowed as equivalents of the spondee. The comedians allow an anapaest to stand irregularly in the second part of the iambic dipody; and even the tragedians allow this license in proper names.

1. The monometer, —

Μετὰ Σωκράτους. — — — — (here — — — —)

2. The dimeter (acatalectic and catalectic), —

Ζηλῶ σε τῆς | εὐβουλίας. — — — — | — — — —

Καὶ τὸν λόγον | τὸν ἥττω. — — — — | — — — —

3. The tetrameter catalectic, consisting of seven feet and a syllable, or of the two preceding verses combined, —

Εἴπερ τὸν ἄνδρ' | ὑπερβαλεῖ, || καὶ μὴ γέλωτ' | ὀφλήσεις.

A captain bôld | of Hálifax, || who líved in coún|try quárters.

4. The TRIMETER ACATALECTIC, the most common of all iambic verses, in which most of the dialogue of the Attic drama is composed. It never allows any substitution in the last foot. With this exception it may have the tribrach in any place. The spondee can stand in the first place of every dipody. The tragedians allow the anapaest only in the first place, and the dactyl only in the first and third. The comedians allow the dactyl in all the odd places, and the anapaest (by comic license, § 292) in every place except the last. The most common caesura is that after the thesis of the third foot.

The following scheme shows the tragic and the comic iambic trimeter compared, — the forms peculiar to comedy being enclosed in [].

DACTYLIC VERSES.

§ 294. The regular substitute for the dactyl is the spondee. Its other equivalent, the anapaest, is not allowed in dactylic verse; although the dactyl is allowed in anapaestic verse (§ 296).

1. The dimeter, —

$\text{Μυστοδόκος δόμος.} \quad \text{— — —} \mid \text{— —} \text{—}$
 $\text{Μοῖρα διώκει (Adonic).} \quad \text{— — —} \mid \text{—} \text{—}$

4. The HEROIC HEXAMETER, the Homeric verse. It always has a spondee in the last place, seldom in the fifth. The most common caesura (called heroic) is in the third foot, generally after the arsis. If it divides the thesis, it is called a feminine caesura. The caesura sometimes occurs after the arsis of the fourth foot. A verse-caesura at the end of the fourth foot is called bucolic, from its frequent occurrence in bucolic poetry.

For examples see the Iliad and Odyssey.

5. The ELEGIAC DISTICH consists of an heroic hexameter followed by the Elegiac pentameter. This pentameter consists of two dactylic trimeters catalectic (2), each containing two and a half feet (— — — — —), and arose from a repetition of the first penthemim (five half-feet) of the hexameter. A caesural pause always divides the two parts. The last two complete feet are always dactyls. The following is an Elegiac Distich:—

Τίς δὲ βί|ος, τί δὲ | τερπνόν, ἄ|νευ χρυσέ|ης Ἀφρο|δίτης;
Τεθναί|ην ὅτε | μοι || μηκέτι | ταῦτα μέ|λοι.

NOTE. In the Homeric verse and in Lyric poetry, a long vowel or a diphthong is often shortened at the end of a word when the next word begins with a vowel. E. g.

Χρῦσέφ' ἀ|νὰ σκῆ|πτρῳ, καὶ ἐ|λίσσεται | πάντας Ἀ|χαιοῦς (§ 10).

This sometimes occurs in the middle of a word. Sometimes a short final vowel occurs in Homer where a long one is required by the verse. This can often be explained by supposing a following semi-vowel to have been doubled in pronunciation. Many anomalies in Homeric quantity are explained by the omission of Vau or Digamma (§ 1, Note 2); as τοῖόν οἱ (— — —) for τοῖόν φοι.

ANAPAESTIC VERSES.

§ 296. Anapaestic verses are measured by dipodies (§ 285, 2). The spondee and the dactyl (— — and — — —) may stand for the anapaest. The proceleusmatic (— — — —) occurs occasionally in comedy; but generally a succession of four short syllables was avoided.

1. The monometer, —

Τρόπον αἰγυπῶν.	— — —		— — —
Καὶ θέμις αἰνεῖν.	— — —		— — —
Σύμφωνος ὁμοῦ.	— — —		— — —

2. The dimeter acatalectic, —

Μέγαν ἐκ θυμοῦ κλάζοντες Ἄρη.	— — — —		— — — —
Οἷτ' ἐκπατίως ἄλγεσι παίδων.	— — — —		— — — —

And the olive of peace || sends its branches abroad.

3. The dimeter catalectic, or paroemiac, —

Ἦσαν στρατιῶ|τιν ἄρωγάν. — — — — | — — — —

Οὕτω πλουτή|σετε πάντες. — — — — | — — — —

The Lord is adván||cing. Prepáre ye! — — — — | — — — —

4. The tetrameter catalectic, consisting of seven feet and a syllable, or of the two preceding verses combined. The principal verse-caesura is after the second dipody.

Πρόσχετε τὸν νοῦν | τοῖς ἀθανάτοις || ἡμῖν, τοῖς αἰ' ἐν ἑοῦσι,

Τοῖς αἰθερίοις, | τοῖσιν ἀγήρως, || τοῖς ἀφθιτα μηδομένοισιν.

§ 298. An anapaestic system consists of a series of anapaestic dimeters acatalectic, with occasionally a monometer, ending always with the paroemiac (or dimeter catalectic). These are very frequently employed in both tragedy and comedy.

Iambic and trochaic systems are sometimes formed, on the same principle, of iambic or trochaic dimeters acatalectic, with occasionally a monometer, ending always with a dimeter catalectic.

CHORIAMBIC VERSES.

§ 299. The most common equivalent for the choriambus is the iambic dipody or diambus, which very often alternates with the choriambus. The most common forms of catalectic choriambic verses are produced by dropping one, two, or three syllables of a final iambic dipody. Thus, a choriambic dimeter may have the form — — — — | — — — —. By dropping one syllable we have — — — — | — — — —, a dimeter catalectic in amphibrachyn; by dropping two syllables we have — — — — | — — — —, a dimeter catalectic in iambum; and by dropping three syllables we have — — — — | — — — —, a dimeter catalectic in syllabam (or a monometer hypercatalectic, § 285, 3).

§ 300. The following are examples of some of the most common choriambic verses:—

Καὶ τὸν μέγσ|τθενῆ τριαί|νης ταμίαν, |

Ἰῆς τε καὶ ἑλ|μυρᾶς θαλάσ|σης ἄγριον | μοχλεύτην.

Τόν θ' ἱππονῶ μαν, ὃς ὑπερ-	— — — —		— — — —
λάμπροισ ἀκτῖ σιν κατέχει	— — — —		— — — —
Γῆς πέ δον, μέγας ἐν θεοῖς	— —		— — — —		— —
Ἐν θνη τοῖσιν τε δαί μων.	— —		— — — —		— —

Of the last four verses, the third is a Glyconic, a dimeter catalectic in iambum, with a basis (§ 288, 1); the two preceding are variations of the Glyconic, monometers with double basis; and the last is a Pherecratic, a dimeter catalectic in syllabam, with a basis, or a Glyconic shortened by one syllable.

LOGAOEDIC VERSES.

Μαρμαρέ αις ἐν αὐγαῖς,	— — — — — —
Παρθένε τὰν κεφαλὰν τὰ δ' ἔ νερθε νύμφα.
— — — — — — — —

2. The same name is given to a verse beginning with anapaests and ending with iambs. E. g.

Ὅργας ἐδιδά ξατο καὶ δυσαύλων.	— — — — — — — —
Ζεφύρου γίγαντος αὔρα.	— — — — — — — —

CATALOGUE OF THE PRINCIPAL IRREGULAR VERBS.

NOTE. This catalogue contains generally only the forms which are found in the strictly classic Greek before Aristotle. The few other forms are marked as later. All tenses which are not used by Attic writers are enclosed in [], except occasionally the present indicative of a verb which is Attic in other tenses. Some pure verbs which retain the short vowel of the stem (§ 106, N. 2) or which insert σ in the perfect and aorist passive (§ 113, N. 1), but are regular in other respects, — for example, $\tau\epsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, — are not inserted. The simple stem (§ 107), when this does not appear in the present, is added in (); but when the simple stem is modified in certain tenses (not the present) by adding ϵ , as in $\alpha\iota\sigma\theta\acute{\alpha}\nu\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$, only the simpler form is given. A hyphen prefixed to a word (as $-\eta\upsilon\epsilon\kappa\alpha$) indicates that it occurs only in composition. This is omitted, however, if the simple form occurs even in later Greek.

The imperfect or pluperfect is generally omitted when the present or perfect is given. Very frequently also the future or aorist middle is omitted when the future or aorist active is given; and the future passive, when the aorist passive is given. The catalogue, therefore, does not profess to indicate verbs which are defective in these tenses.
